

4-H Sunday Observed

By DANNY PITCHFORD

The new business was a discussion of having a Christmas Party. It was unanimously voted that the members would have a party. Plans will be made at the November meeting.

For our educational program, leaders Dorothy M. Pitchford and Laura Davis, gave members brochures on the Food Stamp Program and a Food Stamp Handbook for volunteers on how to help fight hunger in America. Members said they would pass this information throughout the community. A Daily Food Guide was given to each 4-H member so we would be sure to eat everyday foods from each of the four food groups.

The Four Food Groups consisted of the following: (A) Milk group, two or more servings; (B) Meat group, two or more servings; (C) Vegetable and fruit group, four or more servings; (D) Bread and cereal group, four or more servings.

Mr. Koonce then talked to us about the importance of doing our 4-H projects and turning them in on time. We had one guest, Mr. Dewitt Bell. Our meeting was then adjourned by saying the 4-H Motto.

The 3 B's observed 4-H Sunday, Oct. 23, at 11:15 at the Snow Hill Baptist Church. Members participated by the reading of the scripture, prayer, giving the purpose of 4-H Sunday and singing hymns.

The theme was "New Life In Christ," taken from II Corinthians, 5th Chapter. This was a suggested 4-H theme. The Rev. Fred Mangum was guest minister.

The 3 B's monthly meeting was held Oct. 25, at the regular meeting place at 6:00. The meeting was called to order by the president, Linda Baker, followed by the devotion. Program Chairman, Tonya Ayscue led the members in prayer followed by Pledge of Allegiance, 4-H Pledge, and song, "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

The Secretary-Treasurer Phyllis Ayscue called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Crime-Stopping Ideas Sought

Citizens of Warren County who have ideas for reducing crime and improving the criminal justice system in North Carolina are being asked for their suggestions, according to Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety J. Phil Carlton.

The Governor's Crime Commission, which has been charged by Governor James B. Hunt, Jr., to plan the state's fight against crime prevention, law enforcement, courts, corrections, juvenile justice, juvenile code revision and information systems," Carlton said, "and members of the Crime Commission want to hear from them."

The 34-member commission, formerly the Governor's Law and Order Commission, includes representatives from all parts of the criminal justice system as well as lay citizens.

"The Commission's reach is broadened through activities of seven adjunct committees with additional members," said Carlton, "but Commission members realize that they cannot fully represent the citizens of our state without asking for their ideas and suggestions. All suggestions submitted will be considered by the Commission and could result in substantial improvement in the criminal justice system of North Carolina," Carlton added.

Carlton emphasized that the Commission has had considerable impact in the state since it was created by the General Assembly in 1968 as the Governor's Law and Order Commission. The name was changed in 1977 to the Governor's Law and Order Commission. The name was changed in 1977 to the Governor's Crime Commission. Examples of improvements resulting from the Commission's work include: (1) the criminal justice training academy at Salemburg; (2) a single statewide system of juvenile justice; (3) major revision of the criminal code; (4) approximately one hundred full-time trained crime prevention officers serving law enforcement agencies across the state; and (5) a coordinated police information and radio communications network for eight thousand local law enforcement officers serving communities throughout North Carolina.

The Commission has several programs presently underway in the state, according to Carlton. Those include: (1) pilot career criminal and trial court administrator programs in the court system; (2) complete revision of our juvenile laws, including status offender laws; (3) restitution programs for probationers and prison work releasees; (4) programs in juvenile justice and delinquency prevention; and (5) a computerized criminal justice information system for both law enforcement and the court system.

"We are asking for help on a problem that affects every citizen of North Carolina," Carlton said. "The Commission will welcome and consider any suggestions."

Suggestions should be mailed to the following address: Governor's Crime Commission, In Care Of Gordon Smith, III, Director, Division of Crime Control, Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, Post Office Box 27687, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

Airtight Woodburners built for years and years of use!

HUNTSMAN

The Huntsman's damper and baffle system permit precise control of the fire and recirculate any unburned gases, creosote or tar to the fire until they are consumed. The heavy-duty brick lining makes the heater even more efficient.

Here is a handcrafted, welded steel wood burner with the strength and durability for a lifetime of use! It is solidly constructed from 1/4" and 19-64" boiler plate, and lined with heavy-duty brick to prevent burn-out. It will hold logs up to 24" in length and is designed to hold a slow, hot fire overnight. Three controls on the cast iron door for draft adjustment allow a roaring fire for fast warm-up, or a slow burning fire for long periods of even heat. The extremely hot fire consumes normally unburned gases and most distillate such as creosote and tar, making the Huntsman a very efficient heater. Its special baffle design, found only in the Huntsman, returns any unburned material to the fire until it is used up, and also minimizes heat loss up the flue. This unusual battling system, the draft controls that allow such precise adjustment of the fire, and rugged construction make the Huntsman a clean, efficient and economical wood burning heater that will last a lifetime!
