Man Is Still Missing

Capps reported finding a black overcoat in a well behind the house, but a search of the well found no body.

Saturday there were around 50 persons helping with the search and Sunday firemen from the Norlina fire department, the Afton-Elberon and the Cokesbury fire departments and the Henderson React Department joined in the search. Capt. Walter Gardner said the Warrenton Rural Firemen did not join in the search because of the unusually large number of firemen who were out of town Sunday, when the company answered three fire alarms.

The search was continued by Capps and volunteers on both Monday and Tuesday.

Town Board Has Meeting

rings installed in another old truck, for which the town had been previously offered $200, at a cost of $276.88. The repaired truck, he said, is now running fine.

This wound up the regular meeting of the board, but before adjournment was called Commissioner Gordon Haithcock said he felt that there had been too much delay in naming a commissioner to succeed Richard Hunter, who had resigned following his appointment as Clerk of Superior Court.

Commissioner Charles White told the group that he had been visited by former Mayor W. A. Miles who had asked his support, claiming that his connection with COG and friendship with its director would be of great value to the town, and that he would support the former mayor.

Mayor White said that he felt he knew as much about the working of COG and had as many friends on the agency as did Miles. However, he added that he felt he could work with anyone the board would appoint. "It is up to the board. I have told none of them what I thought about the appointment and no commissioner has asked me how I felt about the appointment."

Commissioner Billy Lanier said that Miles had also approached him, and that he had also received information that Ray Shearin had expressed a desire to be named and that Walter Gardner might be interested. Commissioner Eddie Clayton said that he feels that it would be well if a younger man could be appointed to the board.

Bignall Jones, attending the board meeting, said he was under the impression that the board wanted to reduce the board to five. If the board wants this done, it will require a special act of the Legislature, Mayor White said.

The commissioners decided to take no action due to the absence of Commissioner Scott and agreed that action should be taken at a called meeting of the board.

Fleming

Fleming of Rt. 1, Manson, Fleming is a graduate of Middleburg High School and attended North Carolina State University.

He is a veteran of the U. S. Army, serving during 1945-46. In 1947 he became postmaster at Manson, a post he held until his retirement in August, 1980.

Married to the former Virginia Bennett of Middleburg, Fleming and his wife live on Rt. 1, Manson. They have two sons, Billy of Henderson and Vernon of Durham.

He is a charter member of the Drewry Volunteer Fire Department, a member and ruling elder and Sunday School superintendent at Young Memorial Presbyterian Church, a past commander of American Legion Post 25 and a former chairman of the board of trustees of the Warren General Hospital.

Hydrogen for fuel has been produced from lignite cheaper and more efficiently than using the coal to make synthetic oil and gasoline.

Warren Error Rate Rate

Among State's Best

Warren County is not one of the 19 North Carolina counties with excessive errors in the administration of its food stamp program, according to Julian Farrar, county Social Services director.

Farrar said Warren County has one of the best food stamp operations in the state and has consistently had a low error rate.

Figures released recently by the N. C. Department of Human Resources, based on a study of sample cases from each county, indicated that North Carolina counties made incorrect food stamp payments of $12.1 million over a six-month period last year.

Nineteen of the state's 100 counties were singled out by Dr. Sarah T. Morrow, secretary of DHR, as having "unacceptably high" error rates.

The error rate nationally is 12.6 percent, and the state average is 15.26 percent. However, Warren County, according to Farrar, has an error rate of 5.54 percent, a figure below both the national and state averages.

State agencies in North Carolina allocate $240 million in food stamps to nearly 600,000 residents under the federally-funded food stamp program.

Now, from Sun Savings...

"The New Investment Opportunity No One Should Miss."

December, 1981 READER'S DIGEST

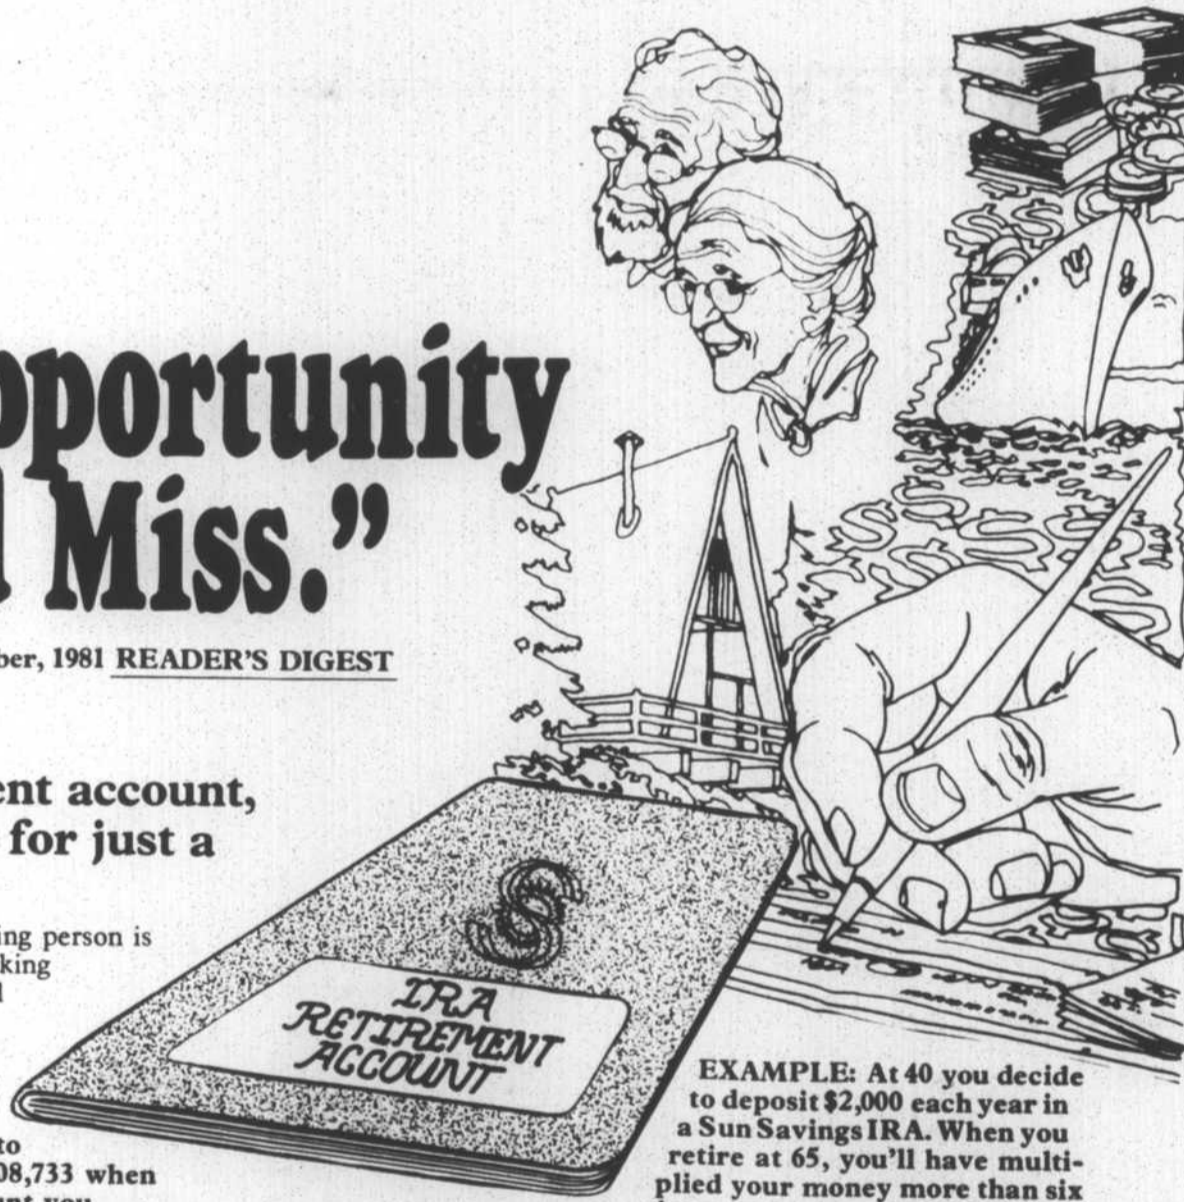

With a Sun Savings IRA retirement account, anyone who works can retire rich for just a few dollars a week.

Thanks to the 1981 Economic Recovery Act, any working person is now eligible to contribute up to $2,000 a year ($4,000 for working couples; $2,250 if just one spouse works) for retirement... and deduct both the full amount saved and the interest it earns from that year's taxable income.

With Sun Savings high interest and compounding, the results can be mighty rewarding.

EXAMPLE: If you're 35 now and you put $20 a week into a Sun Savings IRA Account, you'll have a whopping $308,733 when you retire at age 65. That's nearly ten TIMES the amount you deposited altogether... enough to pay yourself more than $375 a week for fifteen years!

EXAMPLE: At 40 you and your working spouse both contribute $2,000 each annually in a Sun Savings IRA. 25 years later, when you retire, you'll have a fortune: more than $674,866... to do with as you wish!

EXAMPLE: At 40 you decide to deposit $2,000 each year in a Sun Savings IRA. When you retire at 65, you'll have multiplied your money more than six times... for a total of $337,433!

MEANWHILE... in every case, you can save hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars on annual federal income taxes!

Come see us soon for full details.

Little wonder Reader's Digest calls IRA retirement plans "The New Investment Opportunity No One Should Miss!" And the sooner you get started with a Sun Savings IRA, the richer your retirement can be! We hope you'll come see us to open your IRA account right away!
