

Buy Your Steaks Now
If you plan on treating yourself to a steak in the next few months, now may be the time to buy it.
Steaks cost less than they will two months from now. The long range forecast is that beef and pork will increase in price.
A good buy in steaks is when the market manager reduces the price for quick sale. Most stores do this after the meat has been in the case for two days.

These steaks are dark in color due to oxidation, but they are still good to use in a day or two or to rewrap and freeze.

Other good beef buys are ground beef, chuck and sirloin tip roast. In the pork section, ham is one of the best buys, as well as Boston butt and picnics.

The best overall meat buy is liver. Beef liver, which costs more than pork liver, is running about 30 cents per serving.

High prices are still the rule for fresh fruits and vegetables. And, as in previous weeks, the best buys are in the frozen and canned food sections.

Population Explosion

It has been estimated that before the beginnings of agriculture—some 8,000 years ago—the world probably supported no more than five to 10 million people. By A.D. 1, this probably ranged from 200 to 400 million people. In 1750, the human population neared 800 million. By 1850, it was 1.3 billion people, which nearly doubled by 1950. In 1975, there were about 3.9 billion people on our planet and some 7 billion people will live on earth by 2,000 A.D.
