Salad Consumption
Americans have been eating more lettuce, peppers and cucumbers over the past 20 years.

The popularity of the salad as an important part of the diet has increased consumption of these vegetables. Percentage increases for salad vegetables include lettuce, up 35 percent; peppers, up 64 percent and cucumbers, up 54 percent.

Consumption of green beans and watermelons is down and tomato use is up only slightly.

A "dark horse" vegetable that made a surprisingly good showing in the consumption ratings was broccoli. Although still used sparingly, broccoli has shown a 450 percent increase in consumption in the 20-year period.

Loan Rates Down

(Continued from page 8) facility and water and waste disposal loans, the full interest rate drops from 11.625 to 10.625 percent. This rate is based on current market yields for municipal obligations. The intermediate rate, for communities of moderately less than average means, declines from 8.375 percent to 7.875 percent. The rate for lower-income communities remains unchanged at 5 percent.

Godwin said the intermediate rate recently introduced by the USDA agency "will keep credit resources alive for many communities that need public facility improvements to create job opportunities or maintain present employment."

Guaranteed loans for business and industrial development continue to be negotiated between borrowers and lenders. Loans made by Farmers Home for small scale biomass energy projects will be made at 13 percent instead of the previous rate of 13.25 percent.

Farmers Home Administration is the rural credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It makes a wide variety of loans and grants and provides technical assistance to help improve economic and living conditions in rural America. Its loan services, like all programs and services of the USDA, are available to everyone without regard to race, sex, religion, national origin, marital status, or handicapped condition.

Services of the North Carolina agency are delivered through a system of 88 county offices, 11 district offices, and the Raleigh State Office. The location and phone number of the local office serving each county is listed in the telephone directory under U.S. Government, Department of Agriculture.
