which discussions were held and plans were made for future projects.

Items on the agenda included contributing to the beauty of a group home by the purchase of a plant, setting dates on which each member will serve as hostess, and scheduling a future meeting of the yearbook committee for assembling materials.

The president appointed a committee for the purpose of drawing up policies needed in extending courtesies to members in various situations. It was reported that Mrs. Susie Williams will demonstrate the making of Christmas ornaments with various types of fabric at the December meeting.

Mrs. Geneva Fitts gave an interesting demonstration concerning dried flower arrangements. She presented, step by step, the procedure to follow in producing an attractive product. After drying four lovely blue flowers, complete with stems and leaves, Mrs. Fitts framed them, thus producing a beautiful picture for a wall.

Members then participated in preparing place cards for hospital patients, using cardboard and colorful decorations.

During the social hour, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

An enthusiastic group of Warren County youngsters participated Monday night in a Gymnastics Show sponsored by the Community Schools Program. Miss Frances Daniel, one of the coaches, is

Early Discipline Can Be Bad

It is important for a child to obey his parents, but forget about reprimanding an infant. "He doesn't understand, and even if he did, he couldn't control his action enough to do what you tell him. Discipline at too early an age will only hold back a child's development," says Dr. Frances Wagner, extension human development specialist, North Carolina State University.

Being kind and gentle with the baby works better than anything else. "You know that your own work isn't up to par when you are upset. It's the same with babies," Dr. Wagner says.

In order for learning and development to progress as it should, the baby's environment should be calm. "Discipline should mean training which guides the child and strengthens good behavior. It should not mean punishment," the extension specialist says.

Punishment, such as slapping the child's hands when he touches something he shouldn't, will eventually make him want to stop touching things at all. "It would be better to simply move things that you don't want the baby to touch. When he is older, you can talk to him and he will understand why he shouldn't do certain things," Dr. Wagner says.

Try positive discipline. Take the child's attention away from what he shouldn't be doing, and give him a better activity. Good discipline calls for advance planning. It is a lot harder to discipline than to punish, but the extra effort will pay off by helping the child to develop self-discipline, Dr. Wagner says.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Georgia Plummer Brady who departed this life Nov. 17, 1964. Twenty years ago today God came and took you away. We love and miss you mother dear. Because your voice we no longer hear.

Sadly missed by
YOUR CHILDREN
PHILIP, ELAINE,
MILDRED, JESSIE B.

During our hour of bereavement... Perhaps you sang a lovely song; Or sat quietly in a chair; Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers. If so, we saw them there. Perhaps you sat or spoke kind words. As good friends may say; Perhaps you were not there at all, But thought of us that day. Perhaps you prepared some tasty food; Or furnished a car; Perhaps you rendered a service unseen, Near at hand or from afar. Whatever you did to console our hearts We thank you so much—Whatever the part!

We would like to thank Dr. Trivedi, the Warren Nursing Center and Warren General Hospital for the dedicated services rendered for our mother these past few months. The concern and kindness shown by all during her illness was recognized and greatly appreciated. We would also like to sincerely thank the people of the community for all the flowers, cards, prayers, visits, phone calls and food we received after her death.

You will always be remembered.
