A heavy wind and hail storm passed through a portion of this county last Saturday evening. In Parley neighborhood it was most destructive. Numbers of trees were blown down, about one hundred large oaks were blown down in one piece of woods belonging to Capt. Thos. Hatcher. Between this place and Milton several barns were unroofed.

Weekly Tobacco Review.

During the week just closed breaks have been fairly good and a considerable quantity of leaf tobacco has been marketed. Owing to the wet and sultry weather much of the stock offered—in fact, the large portion of it—has been in very bad order.

The breaks have not been well attended by buyers. The "season" afforded dealers an opportunity to "strike down" hanging tobaccos and a large number of them have spent the week in their factories giving their undivided attention to this business.

This fact and the fact that offerings were in rather soft order may account for the drooping in prices or the falling off may be due to other cause, but be that as it may, the week has shown less animation than the week previous and the market closed droopy.

This applies to most grades with perhaps an exception in favor of low grade fillers or what is known as "dog-tail" stock. There was a demand for this grade which kept prices steady.

There is nothing new to report from the country as regards the coming crop. Plants will be plentiful but it is hoped farmers will set out a small crop.—Danville Register.

Look at the Bright Side.

Of course, every one must have his troubles—we all know that, alas! But why should we be at pains to paint the curtain that mercifully veils the future with scenes of gloom and disaster? The truth is that we are often burdened with anxieties that are proved by the event to have been unfounded. We have known men who seemed to be entirely free from this weakness, men who have waited till the blow actually fell before they would wince. It is, we admit, possible to be too solid in this respect; for when danger does impend it is better to know it and be forearmed against it. But the hopeful heart is an invaluable blessing, and it is in itself the joy of life from day to day. Let not the future darken the present; only do the best you can and wait, hoping on and hoping ever.

Anxiety is, we believe, very often the result of temperament; but then it is possible to cultivate a habit in opposition to the tendencies of temperament. It is possible to get into the habit of looking at the bright side of things, and of ignoring everything about the cloud except its silver lining. This habit of hoping is a good habit; it makes a man not only happier, but stronger too, and so tends to justify itself. The army that goes into battle expecting defeat is not likely to win; but the army that believes itself invincible fights with a confidence that is half the victory. After all, however, contentment is better than hope so far as this world is concerned.—"We can all have what we like," runs the old saw, "by simply liking what we have." New Orleans Picayune.

The tariff will effect us all. See the low tariff stock of new shoes at J. M. Neal's Sons.
