LARKSPUR

Larkspur! How my mind runs back to my childhood days and to my earliest recollection of my mother's flowers. Among her many favorites was larkspur. Since I've been growing my own flowers, I've found this to be the most easily grown annual.

Three years ago, I sowed a small packet of larkspur seeds and succeeded in getting a few poor plants to which I gave very little attention.

The next year the plants began coming up in January. I gave them no attention at all until time to cut them. They grew as high as my shoulder, and such a riot of blooms I've seldom seen. White, blue, purple, pink, heliotrope, and variegated in gorgeous array.

Last year they were the same way. They've come so thick this year that I've had some ploughed up, but expect more than I can cut.

Anyone who wishes plants may have them.

COLORED WELFARE

The Zebulon Community Colored Welfare club had a high meeting last Thursday, featured by a religious address by Mrs. Mount of Raleigh accompanied by Mrs. Walters (white friends). It was a religious speech that stirred the hearts of the hearers. Main theme abiding love. So touching was the speech that many wept.

At the end of the speech the friends were turned a vote of thanks.

Before the meeting closed comments of praise and confidence was tendered the president, Mrs. Lizzie B. Foster, for her efficient, impartial way of handling the work. Through her efforts, 2 boxes of clothes was shipped to her, from distances away. She brought all of these to the meeting and publicly gave, or sent them to those in need. A rising vote of thanks and confidence was given her.

On the fifth Sunday the Welfare will have an open forum meeting, at the school building. 3 or 4 choirs are expected present and 2 or 3 quartettes and possibly 4. Speakers for the afternoon will be announced later.

White friends are cordially, urgently invited.

HEAD OF MEDICAL SOCIETY ENDORSES IMMUNIZATION CAMPAIGN

Since the State Board of Health recently inaugurated its immunization campaign against typhoid, diphtheria, and small pox, letters endorsing the Board's action have literally poured in from the medical profession in all sections of the state. One of the most outstanding of these communications is from Dr. John B. Wright, president of the North Carolina Medical Society, in which he says, "I cannot urge too strongly the cooperation of all the physicians of our State with our health authorities in immunizing all the children against diphtheria."

Typhoid has not been eradicated and as long as there is a case in the State the possibility of a serious increase in this disease is always present. Therefore consistent efforts are necessary on the part of physicians and health departments to keep the disease under control."

Already Alamance, Mitchell, Transylvania, Swain, Yancey, Lincoln, Chatham and Orange Counties have signed contracts with the State Board of Health for immunization programs while several other contracts are pending and will probably be signed within the next few days. Under these contracts the immunization for each disease is carried out at a cost of twenty-five cents for each series of treatments, half of the cost being borne by the county and half by the State.

Quick Business

When W. R. Paterson reported to the Record Insurance Agency a fire at his place, D. D. Chamblee, manager, went at once to see the damage done.

The insurance adjuster was in the office at the time, and went with Mr. Chamblee and adjusted the loss satisfactorily. All this happened in one hour, which probably establishes a record for such cases in this locality. The Record Agency cannot promise such prompt adjustment in all instances, but does promise prompt service. Insurance was never a better investment than now, when it is hard to borrow money to replace a loss. We have some of the best old reliable companies to protect you. If you have no insurance, or are not satisfied with what you have, come to see us. The Record Agency, Office in Record Office building.

A SURPRISE DINNER

Sunday, the children of Mrs. C. E. Parrish rushed in and gave her a surprise birthday dinner at her home on her forty-third birthday. It was about 11:30 when they got there from Sunday school. Then the boys prepared the table in the yard and made lemonade and pineapple sherbet, while the girls spread dinner.

Mrs. Parrish's birthday was Saturday, May 7; but the children decided to make a combination of Mother's Day and her birthday.

While lunch was being spread each child carried his or her gift in the bed room and placed it on Mrs. Parrish's bed. When she discovered this it was a glad shock.

Before leaving all declared they had a wonderful time. Then Mrs. Parrish expressed her appreciation to every one in an exaggerated manner for gifts and dinner.

This dinner will be traditional. It will be at Mrs. Parrish's every Mother's Day and all relatives and friends are invited.

MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE MAY CAUSE DAMAGE

Indications are that all kinds of insects will be on hand to make the life of North Carolina farmers miserable this year. Predications are that there will be more codling moths to affect the apple crop; more boll weevil to affect the cotton crop; more worms for the peaches and now C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College, predicts a heavy infestation of the Mexican Bean Beetle to attack the snap and butterbean crops of the State.

Mr. Brannon says the bean beetle feeds on the underside of the bean leaves and frequently one can find both larvae and adults at work on the tender foliage. Where infestation is severe, all parts of the plant are eaten and it does not take long for a crop to be destroyed.

Because the bean plant is tender, it is easily injured by poisons which are too strong, therefore Mr. Brannon recommends the magnesium arsenate spray as the best control. This kills the beetles and does not hurt the beans. For the small garden patch, five level teaspoonful of the magnesium arsenate, to three gallons of water will make a good spray. Where the beans are grown in large acreage the solution is best made by mixing one pound of the magnesium arsenate to 50 gallons of water and applying at the rate of 90 to 100 gallons an acre.

Spraying should begin when the beetles are first found in the field. Where the pests are numerous, this should be continued every week or ten days. Often three or four applications are necessary but usually two careful sprays will do for snap beans. Butter beans require more attention.

When the beans have been picked, plow them under so that they will not become breeding places for other generations of the beetles, recommends Brannon.

BORAH OPPOSES CANCELLATION

Washington.—Senator Borah, Chairman of the foreign relations committee, strenuously opposes cancellation of foreign debts to the United States, and has so stated in the Senate in no uncertain terms. He also scored Alfred Smith's proposal of a 20 year moratorium, declaring it would be harmful instead of beneficial, and would help only those who have loaned money privately to England and Europe. The speech was probably called forth by the fact that England's budget as presented by Chancellor Chamberlain to the House of Commons contains no provision for payment on the war debt. The Chancellor said that England is in favor of a general cancellation of war debts.
