

Tobacco Market Opens Sept. 6 All Tobacco Market Roads Lead To Zebulon

THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER

(By Mrs. Theo. B. Davis)

Be sure to read that "Wanted" from the Dunn Dispatch. We are running it free because of several things. It may be all true—but honestly, do you really believe that part about no cross word in 45 years?

Have you ever noticed that when a cow is staked out to graze the very first thing she does is to go as far as possible in every direction? I've often thought that a great many folks are just like that. The big trouble is that often there are no stakes to which folks are anchored to keep them from going too far. It might also be noted that just as the length of rope given the cow is gauged by a higher intelligence, than the cows, so are the boundaries set for humans placed by authority above their own.

Our garden was nothing to brag about at any time this year; but the only total and complete failure was the squash. I asked the head gardener to plant only a few hills, since the vines bear heavily and we care more for many other vegetables than for squash. He planted more than I thought necessary—as usual. The first thing I found wrong was that the vines were not rank looking, and that instead of the bush crockneck kind we've been having these were trying to run. Then the dry weather came on and the vines no longer ran but crept along the ground like weak, sick kittens. It worried me so I nearly pulled them up, but decided that, if it ever did rain, they might bear a fall crop. This morning—Monday—I went out to hunt something for dinner. (We didn't have enough scraps left from Sunday to make soup.) I thought of the squash vines and went to the far corner of the garden where they are. And at last I found out exactly the trouble with those vines. They aren't squash at all, but gourds, and the vines are full. They are very very small, yellow and green striped, with little handles—cute as can be, but no help at mealtime. We've decided that the seed came from a tiny gourd given our grandson last summer in Virginia, from which the seed were carefully saved, but not labeled. Since we do not know the proportions of meal Elisha told the young preachers to put into the pot to kill the poison in the gourds they cooked, ours are no use to us.

At the Home Demonstration Club Mrs. K. P. Leonard gave us the following method of killing flies before they are really flies—in other words, before they hatch. She says her husband sprinkles acid phosphate in the mule's stall and in the runway of the barn about every ten days, and that two pounds will do at a time. This kills the larvae and flies do not bother the Leonard home. Before this was done there was a veritable plague of them to fight.

I called Prof. Massey and asked him if this amount of acid phosphate would hurt stock, if they should try to lick it from the ground. (The Leonard's do not keep a cow, and cows are such geese about licking poisons.) Mr. Massey said the amount used would, he thought, be quite harmless to any stock; so I am gladly passing on this information to you. I'm going to try it myself. The acid phosphate used is what is sold as fertilizer.

As a paper The Record and its makers realize its size, its lack of size and its many and varied shortcomings. For that reason when we do have a chance to brag it is all the more welcome. And we claim to be the first paper to give a write-up of Hoover carts. 'Way back yonder we spoke of them. And now the really big papers are giving space to these modern vehicles. But The Zebulon Record was first in it. However, we are modest in our triumph. We claim no special news sense, nor did we travel far to learn of Hoover carts. That was one time the news came rolling right by our door—drawn by a mule.

Our oldest son, home for two weeks from the Canal Zone, was more delighted with these carts than with anything else he saw new while he was here. One with a spare tire fascinated him, and one with a rumble sent forth cries of joy. Mrs. Hall, here on vacation from Halifax County, Va., says they have no Hoover carts up there yet. She, too, was much impressed with the cleverness of the idea and the variety of the carts. As for me, I'm still wanting to ride in one.

"It Pays To Advertise"

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Wise newspaper advertising is the best medium for insuring sales in the opinion of Felix Lowy, vice-president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company. There is nothing that will maintain sales figures like effective advertising, he says.

"The fellow who is not advertising now is feeling the depression more than those who spend their dollars wisely and get results," Mr. Lowy declares. "As for my firm, we look on advertising as an integral part of every selling campaign we undertake.

"Newspaper advertising offers centralized, localized coverage. It is a flexible medium that can be controlled and regulated to meet existing local conditions at the point of sale to the best advantage of the manufacturer or distributor," Mr. Lowy asserted.

His firm is planning an elaborate advertising program this fall.

a business trip to Tenn. He accompanied Mr. J. H. Fowler.

Mr. Privette Moves Mill

A. D. Privett, who has operated for the last year a corn and feed mill, is moving his mill down on highway 90 about half way between Zebulon and Little River. He is erecting a mill house 30 x 40 feet, two stories high. Mr. Privett is installing a new type engine, and we understand two mills, in addition to his feed mill. When completed he will have one of the best plants in Wake County. He will grind for customers as heretofore, but will devote most of his grinding to corn brought to be ground and sold to the public.

Around The Corner

An Original Play

By Henry Lee Bridges

On Thursday evening, September 8, an original Comedy-drama will be given in the Wakelon school auditorium. This is an original play, written by Henry Leo Bridges, and staged by himself and members of the Wakefield Baptist Sunday School. The play entitled "Around the Corner" has three acts and will run about one and three-fourths hours. The author is a graduate of Wake Forest College, and at present is a law student in the college.

If you like negro superstition, if you enjoy the philosophical opinion of a broad-minded youth, if you would like to see the characterization of an average college boy, if you like to follow a love affair, if you like original negro characters—then you will enjoy seeing "Around the Corner" next Thursday evening.

If you want to enjoy a pleasant evening and know your admission price will be used for a good purpose, then be at the school auditorium at 8:00 o'clock next Thursday evening. The admission prices are 10 and 15 cents. The play is being given under the auspices of the Wakefield Baptist Sunday School Fidelity Class.

WAKEFIELD CLUB MEETS

The Wakefield Home Demonstration club met last week in regular monthly session with 18 members present. One new name was added to the roll. Mrs. McInness gave a demonstration on the making of fancy breads, particularly rolls of various kinds.

During the business session reports were heard from the groups of members who have been making special efforts to raise funds to finish paying for the club house. These reports were most encouraging.

Police Raid

One night lately the police raided a house near the oil mill in Zebulon. Two women live in the house, and a certain young man has been suspected of making the house headquarters for his boot leg trade. The officers lay in wait for him. A car drove up, he came out to deliver his "goods," the officers, hiding near by, "raided" him. Then he showed his superior wisdom, the officers said, by breaking the containers on the porch floor, and when accused of possession, was astonished beyond measure to be thought so wicked. Anyway, the "evidence" to the officers was too strong to their nostrils to forget and they brought the young man along with them to the city lodging house.

Our Tobacco Edition

With this issue of the Zebulon Record 2500 copies of 12 pages each go out. It is our first of the kind and we are keenly conscious of its defects. But we have done our best with willing hearts. The editor wishes to publicly thank those who have toiled with him in the office, and correspondence who sent in news from so many sections, and those of our business men who believe in our town and its possibilities—and in our farmers, who are the foundation of our community.

Our Correspondents

We wish to call special attention to the work that is being done by our correspondents. Look this issue over and you will have a pretty clear idea of crops, conditions and people in Wake, Franklin, Wach and Johnston counties. Each week our paper carries this news.

Our correspondents not only help us to gather news, but are also our authorized representatives in soliciting subscriptions. Read this copy, and, if you are not already a subscriber, pay the correspondent in your neighborhood $1.50 for 52 copies, and we shall be glad to put your name on our mailing list.

Pine Level Bank Robbery

Four men have been lodged in jail in Smithfield charged with participation in the robbery of the Pine Level Bank on Tuesday.

One of the men, Ralph Barbour, is said by the cashier to be the one who actually committed the crime. W. V. Jones, the cashier, went to Smithfield and identified Barbour shortly after his arrest with John Hamilton near Ingold Tuesday.

Rupert Wilson of Roseboro and Victor Wallace were also arrested and placed in jail.

Deputy W. P. Creech of the sheriff's office in Johnston county said Barbour would be charged with robbing the bank, while the other three would be charged with aiding and abetting.

None of the men has made a statement, but it is thought that Hamilton was not directly connected with the robbery, which was $1,000.

The machine used by the robbers was said to have been stolen from a Mr. Crabtree in Raleigh and was abandoned after the hold-up.
