Zebulon's Defense Bond Campaign Begins Tuesday

This, That & the Other

By Mrs. Theo. B. Davis

Isn't it amazing, the way doctors keep thinking up new diseases for people to have! Hardly a week passes that I don't read one never known before.

And do you know about geriatrics? That's a sub-division of medicine dealing with old age and its diseases.

Mrs. Ida Hall had a course in it at Chapel Hill recently and showed me some of the questions that were asked.

One test is headed "Are You Aging Successfully?" I've tried to answer the questions; but, while I'm aging all right, it seems I'm also against all wrong on some points.

Anyway, older people are becoming more important medically as well as more numerous. I'm curious to see what they finally decide about us.

Here in Zebulon we regard as pure fiction all stories of women who strive to be elected to office in social and civic organizations. We have such a time trying to persuade any to serve that it is impossible to conceive of there being places where women are eager for places of leadership. Are we too modest, or too indolent?

Several days ago a woman from another town told me she is said to be the happiest person her friends know. "But," she added, "why shouldn't I be happy? I am fairly healthy, my children are good to me; and, if I have any business the neighbors tend to that." I'm not sure just how much the neighbors add to her happiness.

In this country is Mrs. Margit Linnell, who came from Sweden to study our methods of sewing and teaching it. She says that in Sweden most women sew by hand. This is partly because they do not care for sewing machines as furniture, and partly because they regard it as more ladylike to sew by hand. The Swedish department of Active Domestic Economy has a committee of mothers to pass on patterns for children's clothes before they go into production. They have about a dozen types of patterns instead of the 60 formerly sold.

The first scuppernongs are ripening and the problem is to keep young grandsons from knocking off green grapes while reaching for a ripe one. It's too much to expect them to stay away from the vine.

School Opening

Wakelon School will open its 1951-52 session on Wednesday September 5 at 9 a. m. Lunch will not be served the first two days, but the school cafeteria will open on Friday. Due to the advance in the cost of food, the schools of Wake County are having to increase the price of the school lunch from 20c to 25c. In doing this, we are following the suggestion made by the Federal Feeding Program.

AGE REQUIREMENTS

Reminder to parents of children entering school for the first time: The law regarding entrance age is the same as last year. The last legislature did not change the law.

A child must be six years of age on, or before, October 1. All parents are asked to present birth certificate or other legal evidence regarding child's birthday in order that child may be properly enrolled.

Miss Alderman Plans Wendell Recital Next Tuesday, September 4

Miss Marilyn Alderman, pianist of Rosehill, N. C., who will instruct piano students at the Wendell School during the 1951-2 year, will present a concert in the High School's auditorium on Tuesday night, September 4, at 8:15 o'clock.

The public is invited to attend. Miss Alderman, an accomplished musician, attended the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Chapel Hill, Wake Forest College, and since has continued her musical studies under outstanding pianists in North Carolina and the State of Virginia.

Many Concerts Given

During the past year, she has presented concerts in Wake Forest, Clayton, Zebulon, Wilmington, and Rose Hill.

Since her graduation, she has taught in Warsaw and Wakelon Schools.

Among concert selections scheduled for the program here include: Debussy's "Clair De Lune," Chopin's "A Flat Polonaise" and the well-known "Warsaw Concerto" by Addinsell, "Malagena" and Liszt's Liebestraum Nocturne.

Cpl. Lonnie Poole, Jr. Takes Part in Marine Exercises at Norfolk

Marine Cpl. Lonnie F. Poole, Jr., 21, of Zebulon was recently serving at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base in Little Creek, Virginia, in connection with "Operation CAMID," a maneuver designed to familiarize Cadets from West Point and Midshipmen from Annapolis with the technique of Amphibious Warfare.

Poole, a member of the Weapons Company, Third Battalion, Sixth Marines (Reinforced) from the famous Second Marine Division, Camp LeJeune, North Carolina, participated in four amphibious operations during his stay in Little Creek.

The first rehearsal landing took place August 13th on the Little Creek beaches, after which the Unit returned to their ships in the harbor. The second landing, MARLEX (Marine Landing Exercise), was executed the following day under the interested eyes of the Cadets and Midshipmen, after which the Unit moved ashore on the Little Creek Base for individual training between landings.

Corporal Poole attended Wakelon High School. He enlisted in the regular Marine Corps July 24, 1950, for four years.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie E. Poole of Zebulon.

Dust, Dust and More Dust Hamper Summer Training of National Guard

Tired, dusty Tennessee and North Carolina National Guardsmen of the 30th Infantry Division massed yesterday for a final push against Aggressor forces today in the finale of three days of realistic war maneuvers in nearby Alabama mountains for the famed "Old Hickory" division.

Dust, dust, and more dust have been the most salient features thus far of the Guardsmen's three-day problem of stopping the advance of green-clad Aggressor Guardsmen, under the command of Lt. Col. Howell J. Hatcher, alias Field Marshal Von Doggy. It hasn't rained in weeks in this area, and the territory surrounding Fort McClellan is bone dry.

Choccolocco Corridor

The 30th's war maneuvers are being carried on in beautiful Choccolocco Corridor, located about ten miles from Fort McClellan. However, the winding dirt road through this mountain pass has been reduced to a fine powder by passing army vehicles. Nearby trees and shrubbery are coated by the fine reddish brown dust.

Began Last Monday

The maneuvers began on Monday, and since that time practically the entire 30th Division has been encamped in the hills surrounding McClellan and the city of Anniston. The men are living under actual field conditions, sleeping in tents and eating food prepared in camp and brought in to the Corridor by trucks. Field telephone lines, set up by the 30th Signal Company of Asheville, run precariously from tree to tree and connect the advanced command post with divisional headquarters at Fort McClellan.

Battle action thus far has been marked by defensive play on the part of the 30th Division defenders. Strategic retreats were made yesterday to more defensible positions. (Continued on Page 4)

WENDELL LEAF PRICES GOOD

Although official reports are not yet available, if newspaper accounts of the average price paid for tobacco on the Eastern Belt Markets are accurate, the Wendell Market is in a strong position.

The average price paid for tobacco on the local market from the opening day, Tuesday, August 21, through Friday, August 24, was $54.15 per hundred pounds.

This is several dollars higher than the average for the Eastern Belt reported in the daily newspapers which has ranged from around $51.00 to $52.00 per hundred pounds.

As on other markets, the sales have been light owing to the early opening of the market. Many farmers are still busy in the fields priming and at the barns curing and grading.

Through Friday 804,428 pounds of tobacco had been sold on the Wendell Market for a total price of $434,654.24.

"Sales have been light here since the market opened," said E. H. Moser, Sales Supervisor, "but the price has remained steady throughout the week, our average of $54.15 being as good as any I have heard about and better than the average on many markets."

Prices generally appear to be lower than they were last year, and many farmers have been heard to express the opinion that the increase in tobacco acreage of 14 per cent over last year is the main cause of the lower average.

Tobacco in greater quantities is expected to flow to markets next week as farmers come nearer completing their harvest.

Bonds to Be Sold At Zebulon Post Office and Bank

"Make today your D day—buy an extra bond for defense." This slogan has been adopted for the first Defense Bond Drive of the present period of crisis.

The bond drive, which is designed to finance the tremendous military effort necessary to keep us out of war with Russia, will begin in Zebulon next Tuesday, September 4.

Bonds may be purchased from either the Zebulon post office or from the Zebulon branch of the Peoples Bank & Trust Company, Banker R. Vance Brown announced yesterday.

"Buying these bonds will serve two useful purposes," he declared. "The bond drive will keep America so strong that Russia will hesitate long before attacking us, and present inflationary trends will be curbed. I believe that Zebulon is going to do its part to help the boys now fighting in Korea."

Local Sponsors Listed

Sponsoring publicity for the local bond drive are J. A. Kemp & Son, Temple Market, Flowers' Fish Market, Wakelon Food Market, Bunn Electric Company, Debnam Hardware Company, Whitley and Scarboro, Inc., Peoples Bank

James Burch Makes Address to Rotarians

James S. Burch, statistics and planning engineer for the State Highway and Public Works Commission, addressed the Zebulon Rotary Club last Friday night on the general subject of Scouting, and asked the Rotarians to give their personal attention to the local Scout troop, which they sponsor. Mr. Burch was introduced to the club by Haywood Jones, Rotary Scout committee chairman.

Tonight Olin T. Broadway of Henderson, district governor of Rotary International, will make his official governor's visit to the local club. Following the meeting he will hold a business session with President Howard Beck and club directors.
