day sessions of the legislature, Jimmy admits.

Jimmy thinks that he will miss the business of law-making when the legislature adjourns. He says the practical experience he has gained has meant more to him than all the study of government he could have found in class books. He wouldn't give anything for this once-in-a-life-time chance that was offered him.

But he doesn't think he would like to be a politician, at least not in the very near future. Right now he prefers the business world. He plans and hopes to enter the Business Administration School of the University of North Carolina.

Jimmy has been an above-average student since entering school.

He has served as class president of his class since entering high school. He represented Corinth-Holders as 4-H Health King recently in Johnston County. He is active in the Friendship Free Will Baptist Church, serving in the church's many capacities.

Jimmy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Strickland of near Emit. He is a nephew of Worth Hinton of Zebulon.
