FLIES FROM NEW YORK TO PHILADELPHIA.

Chas. K. Hamilton Makes Trip of 86 Miles in 113 Minutes—One of the Greatest Feats in History.

With a dull, leaden sky overhead, Charles K. Hamilton Monday, made the most daring flight of his career, traveling in his bi-plane from Governor's Island, N. Y., to a point on the outskirts of Philadelphia, a distance of 86 miles in 113 minutes.

A feature of the wonderful achievement was the ease with which Hamilton picked up and followed a Pennsylvania train, traveling with almost lightning speed. According to his programme he flew from Governor's Island to South Elizabeth, N. J., where the train was awaiting his appearance.

From that point town after town reported the amazing fact that the rain had passed "with Hamilton flying directly over it."

Following are the statistics of Hamilton's flight:

Distance New York to Philadelphia, 86 miles.

Time New York to Philadelphia, one hour and 53 minutes.

Total round trip distance between New York and Philadelphia, longest city-to-city flight ever made by an aviator.

Speed on New York to Philadelphia flight averaged a mile per one minute and 19 seconds or about forty-six miles an hour.

Start from Governor's Island, 7:36 a. m.

Finish at Philadelphia, 9:23 a. m.

Mr. Hamilton amused a large crowd at Garden City recently by boarding his craft and making a flight in a supposedly intoxicated condition. His imitation of a drunken sailor of the air was airmanship of the highest type. The daring aviator sailed across the open field, with the motion of a hobby horse, cut a corner in the same intolerant matter and then darted down toward the spectators, causing them to scatter in all directions. While Hamilton was in the air but ten minutes it was the most exciting flight witnessed at Garden City in many days.

Vindication for Dr. Kilgo.

Charlotte Chronicle.

The Chronicle regards the settlement of the North Carolina "bond problem, last week, as one of the happiest incidents in the recent history of the State. In effect, the buyers of these bonds waved them to the country at large as a challenge to anybody who would doubt the credit of North Carolina. As a matter of fact there were more bidders than there were bonds, and if the issue had been for $5,000,000 all of the bonds would have been taken. The action of the American Tobacco Company cannot but be regarded in the light of a vindication of Dr. (now Bishop) John C. Kilgo, against whom such a bitter war was waged for accepting money from that corporation. Dr. Kilgo was a wise man. The aid which he received from the Duke enabled him to build up one of the finest educational institutions in the whole country and through which he has turned out an army of young men, who in their various vocations are reflecting credit on their State and the South, an army that is, collectively, now one of the greatest forces in the advancement of the material interests of North Carolina. But for Dr. Kilgo's policy, Trinity would even yet be an obscure and struggling educational institution, instead of one whose fame is much more than State-wide. The State is now in the same boat with Dr. Kilgo.

The Democratic State Convention.

Charlotte News.

The largest convention of the year will be held in Charlotte on July 14, when the delegates to the state Democratic convention will gather in large numbers to do honor to the party and place in the field candidates for the next election.

It is essential that this prominent body should be properly entertained while here. In view of this fact there will be a meeting held in the office of the Greater Charlotte Club on next Monday night, at 8:30, at which time plans will be formulated and arrangements made to properly entertain the visitors.

This is a matter of such vital interest to all members of the Democratic party that a large turnout is expected as each one will feel it a privilege to assist in a matter of so much prominence.

Republican leaders now see no reason why Congress should adjourn the last week in June or by July 1. All the administration bills that are to be passed upon at this time have gone through the House. Pending in the Senate are the land withdrawal bill, the Statehood bill, and the postal bank bill. The latter will be considered in by the Senate as it has passed the House. Insurgent Senators object to some of its provisions.

EVIDENCE IS ALL IN.

Harris Case May go to the Jury Late Today.

The evidence in the trial of Will and Henry Harris, charge with the murder of Robert Simpson on the night of November 28 last, was concluded at Charlotte yesterday morning and the argument of the attorneys is now in progress. The speeches will consume all of today's session and the judge's charge to the jury will run the time up about three hours. It will be tonight at least before the case goes to the jury. Both sides are well satisfied with the progress of the case so far and are confident of a verdict in their favor.

The following facts are agreed upon by both prosecution and defense. William and Robert Simpson came to Charlotte on the day of the murder and as they passed the home of Will Harris, who was at the barn shucking corn, a quarrel and "cussing match" ensued. Harris appeared on the scene with his gun. "Squire Mingo acted as peacemaker and the two Simpsons drove on down the Lawyers' road to the home of Bill Simpson. Each side had shown threats to kill by Simpson and Harris, Harris went to the Mullis store, claiming to be on a mission for medicine for his wife. Simpson claimed to have lost a package near Will Harris' home and with his gun and little boy he went back to look for it, going then to the Mullis store. Later Robert Simpson came. Harris started home, he claims, but he saw two threatening figures in his path. Fearing harm, he turned back south off from the road, passing to the rear of the school house. He borrowed a mule from John Carriker and rode to his father's where he got a double-barreled shotgun. His father accompanied him down the Mill Hill road toward the store. At the Mullis home they stopped. Henry Harris stood in the public road while his son passed between the old store house and Mr. Mullis' home, entered the store at the rear door. All this time he had his gun. Deceased was in the store, while William Simpson was standing in the front door. Immediately the tragedy was enacted which resulted in the death of Robert Simpson from a gun in the hands of Will Harris. The state contends that Harris leveled at "Big Bill," but, when "Big Bill's" son, Avery, jumped between them, Harris turned his aim and shot Robert Simpson in the act of rising from a goods box. The defense, on the other hand, is attempting to show that Robert Simpson jumped up and grabbed Harris' gun and Harris fired while the deceased was reaching to his hip pocket, presumably for a pistol.

Forecaster Promises Period of Real June Weather.

Washington Post, 13th.

In a special bulletin issued last night, Chief Moore, of the Weather Bureau, says that the wet season is practically over, and real June weather will be the programme for this week. The rainfall during the coming week will be below normal, and generally fair conditions will prevail throughout the country.

"There will be a continuation of showers Monday in Northern New England and Monday and Tuesday on the South Atlantic coast and in Florida," says the report.

"The general pressure distribution over the North American continent and adjacent oceans is such as to indicate the week as a whole will be one with less than the normal rainfall over practically the entire country and with temperatures near or above the normal over the Eastern and Southern States and Middle West. A change to cooler weather will overpread the Rocky Mountain and Plateau regions and the Plains states during the first three days of the week, followed by rising temperature in these regions beginning Wednesday.

"A disturbance that is forming over the Plateau region will move eastward an dreach the Atlantic States during the later half of the week, but indications are it will not be attended by general rains."

Suit for Half Interest in Sawmill.

The hearing in the case of L. M. Sossamon vs. Frances Burleyson, administratrix, was begun this morning at 10 o'clock before Mr. L. T. Hartwell, referee. Sossamon is suing the estate of the late W. W. Burleyson for a half interest in a sawmill he laid they purchased together. There are a large number of witnesses and it will require two days to complete the hearing. Mr. T. D. Maness represents the plaintiff and Messrs. Montgomery & Crowell, W. G. Means and J. E. N. are the defendant.

Beau she changed her mind at the apex of a rival and refused to marry him, Basile Martinez stabbed Bonita Garcia to death at Brownsville, Texas, Sunday. The bridal party were standing at the altar for the ceremony to be performed when the tragedy occurred.

HOG CHOLERA SERUM.

Dr. Griffin Inoculated Ten Hogs for Brown Bros. This Morning.

Dr. B. L. Griffin has received a supply of hog cholera serum, which has only recently been released from the laboratory. This is the first serum of this kind ever introduced in this section. On account of the large number of hogs that died in this county last year Dr. Griffin has been giving this disease special attention and on reading in one of the medical journals where this serum had been used in a number of places with the best of results he immediately ordered a supply. Dr. Griffin vaccinated ten hogs this morning belonging to Brown Bros. The serum is injected hypodermically in the leg of a hog and is used as a preventative of this dreaded disease. It is endorsed by some of the leading veterinarians of this country as a most reliable remedy for the prevention of cholera and reports from different sections, where it has been used state that the very best results have been obtained. The serum can be purchased only by a practicing veterinarian and Dr. Griffin has a small amount left which he will use and if his experiments prove successful he will secure a larger supply.

Overman for Party Leader.

The following complimentary story under the head of "A New Leader Appears" was printed in the Washington Times of Monday:

"A new Democratic leader is developing in the Senate. This is Senator Overman, of North Carolina. He has figured more prominently during the last two months than any Democrat on the floor. That is to say, he has obtained more results.

"It was he who a few weeks ago initiated the filibuster against the Lodge resolution asking for $65,000 with which to pursue the cost of living inquiry. He convinced his Democratic associates that the movement of the Massachusetts man was designed to provide the Republican party with campaign material. Before the filibuster had proceeded ten days, Senator Lodge withdrew his bill.

"The latest legislative achievement to the credit of Senator Overman was his success in putting through the anti-injunction amendment to the railroad bill. This prohibits the Federal courts from interfering with the judgments of State courts without due notice and a hearing. This resolution was presented as a surprise and its adoption was a complete shock in some quarters.

"Just now when the Democrats are looking for a floor leader to succeed Senator Money, who is to retire in March, Overman looms up big. This is true in spite of the prominence of Senators Bailey, Raynor and Bacon, all of whom have discussed for the floor leadership of the minority."

Will Build New Shop at Spencer.

The biggest piece of news that has developed in Spencer for five years is the announcement that John P. Pettyjohn & Co., of Lynchburg, Va., have been awarded a contract for the erection of a new brick and steel boiler shop in Spencer for the Southern Railway Company. The building will be modern in all respects, two stories high, constructed of steel encased in brick and equipped with the best machinery known to modern railroad shops. The cost of the building has not been given out, but it is estimated at about $200,000, including equipments.

This will be one of four large buildings to be erected in Spencer by the Southern Railway company this year, the others to be a store and office building, a blacksmith shop and an oil house. It is expected that construction will begin at once.

John W. Kern, who ran on the democratic national ticket with W. J. Bryan in 1908, believes that Governor Harmon, of Ohio, will be the democratic nominee for president in 1912. Mr. Kern has just returned from a short visit to Ohio, and what he heard there has convinced him that Harmon will be re-elected this fall. In such event he will stand before the country as democracy's most attractive standard bearer for the next national test of strength.
