CONCORD, N. C., JULY 4, 1910

Orthodox vs. Converted Jew.

Lexington Dispatch.

Wednesday evening in the Baptist church, when Rev. L. J. Ehrlich, a converted Jew of Atlanta, had finished a lecture on the subject of his conversion to Christianity in which he discussed Judaism and Christianity generally, Joe Reynolds, Esq., an orthodox Hebrew of this place, asked leave to submit a few remarks and he vigorously defended the faith of his fathers and his people for about 10 minutes, taking issue with the lecturer on several statements. It stirred a flurry of interest in the congregation, and next day the town was talking about the two men have it out in a debate somewhere but the proposition did not materialize. The visitor's purpose was to stir the Baptist people to a realization of their duty in the matter of making an effort to convert the Jews to the Christian faith. He is traveling the south and has connection with the Southern Baptist Convention. While here he was the guest of Pastor A. K. Wright. Speaking of the interruption of the night before and the attitude of the Jews to one of their number who has embraced Christianity, he said next morning that when he was converted his family adjudged him dead and buried him, and that when he attended the Baptist Convention in Baltimore in the spring, he saw his own tombstone, giving the date of his birth and "death." "But I am the liveliest corpse," he said, "you ever saw."

A Bill That Ought To Pass.

Monroe Journal.

A bill that is spending in Congress providing for the establishment of what is called vocational schools in each congressional district, and it ought to pass. It provides that ten million dollars shall be appropriated for such schools and that they shall be conducted for the purpose of teaching agriculture to the country boys. The schools would not only teach students directly but would be made normal schools for the training of teachers to teach agriculture, domestic science and trades in the public schools. The Farmers' Union in this State has begun a movement to establish agricultural high schools, and we suggest that they get behind this bill and combine their efforts with it.

If the bill should become a law, as many think likely, Monroe is the place for the school for this congressional district. The measure provides that the States or counties shall furnish the grounds and this we would do. Not only that, but we have the ideal place on account of the electric power obtainable here.

PIRATE QUEEN CAPTURED.

French Takes Woman Who Ruled Indo-China Seas.

Among a party of thirty-four Anamite pirates and malefactors recently taken to Marseilles was one of the wives of the pirate De Tham, who has given the French so much trouble in Indo-China.

Co-Ba, as the woman pirate is called, exercised a dominating influence over the pirate king and his followers—a power she even preserved throughout the voyage, which the prisoners made in a specially constructed iron cage, built amidships. The other prisoners on receiving their rations immediately handed them to Co-Ba for distribution, and she laid down iron regulations for the prisoners' life on board. Her word was always scrupulously respected.

When the prisoners landed it was Co-Ba who marched proudly at their head, taking not the slightest notice of the crowds who watched the debarkation of the prisoners on their way to the Isle de Re, in the bay of Biscay.

FOLLOWS STEPS OF CORTES.

American Professor to Visit Land Unexplored For Centuries.

Marshall H. Saville, professor of archaeology at Columbia university, has started for Peru and Ecuador by way of the isthmus of Panama and will be absent eight months. The professor said that he was going first to Lima, Peru, to examine specimens of ancient pottery made by the Incas and then to Quito, Ecuador. "From that point," Professor Saville announced, "I am going to make an expedition into the interior of Ecuador, first to the south and then north toward the United States of Colombia. The journey to the interior will be made by mules and canoes, but some of the denser forests I will have to travel on foot. We shall penetrate where no white men have explored since the expeditions by the Spanish adventurers in the sixteenth century and expect to bring back specimens of the native products that will show the mode of living of the early inhabitants of that part of South America."

OBSERVE LETTER OF LAW.

Saw Off Plow Handles That Encroach on Street Line.

A South Carolina visitor writes that he recently witnessed the execution of the law according to the letter in Jonesville of that state. J. M. Gault had some plowing done in a potato patch. The plowman left the plow stock standing at the end of the furrow and with the handles projecting over the sidewalk. Along came the street gang, and, having had orders to clear away everything that projected over the street, limbs and any other obstruction, these faithful workmen sawed off the handles of the plow stock just at the street line. This left the plow stock, minus its handles, standing where it was left by the plowman.

Laughter as a Substitute.

Salisbury Post.

Mr. T. H. Vanderford, Sr., is responsible for this which he told in Saleeby's presence and to which the latter pleaded guilty last night:

"A lady entered Saleeby's store this morning and requested him to put his automatic piano in action.

"I'm sorry, m'am," said Saleeby, "but the piano is out of fix. I tell you somethin' though, mam, I laugh for you."

Of course only those who have heard the famous Saleeby laugh, which when turned loose with full force in front of his store, takes an excursion down South Main to Chestnut Hill and echoes and reverberates to the consternation of every passing team and the dismay of people nursing their nerves will appreciate the answer.

The substitute was accepted and Saleeby laughed.

Must Be Above Suspicion.

Kidney and bladder ailments are so serious in their consequences, and if unchecked so often fatal that any remedy offered for their cure must be above suspicion. Foley's Kidney Pills contain no harmful drugs, and have successfully stood a long and thorough test. Cabarrus Drug Co.

Prosperity and Hungry Faces.

Charlotte News.

Concurrent with the frank invitations of Congressman Morehead asking cotton mill men to vote for Mr. McNeill in order that the dinner pail may be full, prosperity abundant and hard times at an end, comes the announcement from Gastonia that 700,000 spindles in this section will be idle four weeks in July and August. Fifty eight mills have agreed to shut down for this period, it is said, and there is every indication that curtailment throughout the South will be heavier during the summer months than ever before in the history of the textile industry.

And this under the effulgent rays of republican prosperity! Mr. Morehead favors the candidate who will guarantee a perpetuity of the prosperity which is just now bearing fruit in idle spindles, unemployed thousands and a depression in the cotton goods business more severe than was ever experienced before.

The News deploras the conditions which make this drastic action necessary. Mill men are not closing their plants because they want a rest. Many of them have continued operations at heavy loss, rather than throw their employes out of work. Many more have stood the strain as long as they can, and in self-defense are now compelled to curtail operations. There is no market for yarns and goods. Prices offered for manufactured products are far below prices paid for cotton. To run, therefore, the mill men argue, means heavy loss for each day of operation. But think of the hardship of it all—thousands upon thousands of operatives will be practically idle during the months the mills are shut down. Prosperity indeed!

The New earnestly hopes that the much needed improvement in textile markets will come speedily, and there by prevent the necessity of action which will work such widespread hardship.

There is a grim irony in the appeal Mr. Morehead is making which must impress with force mill men and operatives alike.

Mr. Boyden's Ambition.

Charlotte Chronicle.

It has been generally understood that the recent primary campaign in Rowan county, in which Colonel A. H. Boyden was opposed for the Senate by Mr. Smoot, was fought out on the prohibition issue. While that issue may have figured and probably did figure, to some extent, it was not an issue with Colonel Boyden. His platform was cast upon a higher and more patriotic plane. For several years past Colonel Boyden has devoted himself to a study of the war record of the Confederate soldiers, especially the record made at Gettysburg by the North Carolina troops, and his heart's desire and motive which impelled him to go to the Senate, is to get North Carolina to build a monument at Gettysburg that will for all time commemorate the valor of the North Carolina soldiers who took part in that famous battle and to do honor particularly to the Twenty-sixth Regiment. Colonel Boyden wants to give the North Carolina soldier his proper place in history. This is the cause next to his heart. He gave the prohibition issue no thought, his contention being that whenever the people of the State want to reverse the present law, they will do so, and not before. Colonel Boyden's ambition is entirely patriotic and if his plans go through he will have rendered the State an inestimable service, from a historical standpoint.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. Take Hall Family Pills for constipation.

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES

WHEN Cortright Metal Shingles were first introduced (24 years ago) you had some excuse for being sceptical: But now— If you are sceptical it can only be because you do not know the facts in the case. They are used today from the Atlantic to the Pacific for all kinds of buildings, under all conditions. They are fireproof, stormproof; never leak and last as long as the building itself without needing repairs. For further detailed information apply to

Mr. Roebling's Gift to the Asheville Episcopals.

A deed of conveyance was filed in the office of the register of deeds at Asheville a few days ago whereby Mr. John A. Roebling, formerly a citizen of Asheville, now a resident of New Jersey, transfers to the Episcopal missionary district of Asheville 26 acres of land on Biltmore road in Victoria for the consideration of $1. After the prohibition election here in 1907 Mr. Roebling, who was preparing to build a magnificent home on the 26 acres in the fashionable Victoria section, determined to leave Asheville because the town went dry. Later he made a tender of the land to the Presbyterians provided they would establish an institution of learning. Later the Presbyterians found that they would be unable to establish either a church or a school there and the offer could not be accepted. Several months ago Mr. Roebling informed the officers of the Episcopal missionary district of Asheville that he would be glad to give them the land without any "strings." The offer, of course, was accepted and the 26 acres, worth probably $50,000 or more, now belongs to the Episcopals.
