BOW OVER A DOG.

Two Boys Waylay Mecklenburg Man Who Killed Their Canine.

Following the killing of an egg-sucking canine, the property of Mr. Tom McWhirter, by Mr. Luther Medlin, who claims that the dog committed wholesale depredations on his poultry yard, Mr. McWhirter and three of his sons waylaid Medlin on the public highway, 12 miles from Charlotte Tuesday and gave him a severe beating.

All parties live in Clear Creek township and have heretofore been known as quiet, law-abiding citizens. Medlin passed the home of the McWhirters Monday afternoon and stated that two of his guineas had been killed and the man that killed them was no better than that egg-sucking dog.

His wounds, which consisted of a badly swollen optic, a large bruised knot on the back of the head and several ugly bruises on his back, were dressed at a neighbor's house, and his buggy and horse brought to him by one of the boys, who had begun to realize his crime.

Medlin went home for his wife and came to Charlotte, secured a lawyer and indicted the waylayers. The trial will be heard on Saturday.

Patterson's Defeat.

In commenting on the recent defeat of the Patterson judicial ticket in Tennessee, the Asheville Citizen says: "Again does good government triumph. Never in the history of the United States have the courts of justice been so debased as when Patterson used them for political purposes and trampled their decrees under foot."

Dr. Crippen's Chance of Escape. Philadelphia Record.

A horrible story was published some years ago of a murderer who was well instructed in science and who succeeded in completely destroying the body of his victim with chemicals and while the Judge and jury had no doubt of what happened, the man had to be acquitted for lack of evidence that a murder had been committed.

RIDERS ATTACK.

Two Hundred Miles Horseback in 8 Hours, 43 Minutes Still Stands.

An attempt is to be made under the patronage of prominent English sporting men to break the extraordinary record for long distance horseback riding made on Nov. 5, 1831, by Squire George Osbaldeston on the Newmarket round course.

He covered the distance in a cold rainstorm, starting at 7 a. m., weighing in at 157 pounds, including saddle and bridle, and taking the full round course of four miles at each lap. Fifty times he circled it, and as many times he changed horses.

But Started Famous Ride. The famous ride was taken as the result of a bet by General Charita that the 200 miles could not be covered in ten hours even with an unlimited number of horses.

The squirrel had twenty-eight horses at his disposal, and he covered the first 100 miles in a little less than four hours and twenty minutes. Then he rested for fifteen minutes, refreshing himself with a cold partridge and a glass of sherry.

First lap—Eight minutes ten seconds. Second lap—Eight minutes flat. Third lap—Eight minutes fifteen seconds. Fourth lap—Eight minutes fifty seconds.

Favey did a lap in eight minutes eight seconds and Ipsala in eight minutes twenty seconds. On the other hand, the horse Ikey Solomon took twelve minutes and was the worst of the lot.

The squirrel was forty-five years old when he accomplished his historic sporting feat. His training for the event had consisted in riding sixty-five miles each morning in two and a half hours and walking after partridges the rest of the day to harden his muscles.

APPENDICITIS' CAUSE FOUND?

Modern Methods of Grinding Flour Are Blamed.

Sir Lauder Brunton, one of England's most eminent physicians, told the public health congress that met at Birkenhead that he believed the large increase of appendicitis during the last twenty years was due to modern methods of grinding wheat into flour.

Explaining his hypothesis, Sir Lauder said that years ago wheat was always ground between two millstones, but today it was ground between steel rollers, which really acted like scissors, the wheat being cut up.

He had seen an extraordinary report on endemic neuritis in America, which, it was stated, was produced by polished rice. If the patients ate the rice without its being polished they got well.

HAS NEW INDEPENDENCE DAY

Lawyer Celebrates Acquittal of Editor in 1735.

John F. Geeting, an attorney, recently draped his Chicago home with flags in celebration of the anniversary of what he considers the real birth of the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. Geeting believes that except for Zenger's acquittal after Alexander Hamilton, then leader of the American bar, had told the jurors to follow the dictates of their conscience, in spite of the instructions of the court, the historic document of July 4, 1776, might never have been written and signed.

Zenger, Mr. Geeting says, had incurred the enmity of the government by his fearless criticism. Grand juries had failed to indict him, and finally prosecution was begun by information.

Doctor Surs He Will Reduce Tuberculosis by 50 Per Cent.

Dr. I. J. Mays, of Philadelphia, the physician who has been successful in the use of rattlesnake venom in the treatment of tuberculosis, informed the members of the Schuylkill County Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis that his new treatments, together with open-air and modern sanitary methods employed at home, were destined to reduce phthisis fully 50 per cent. within the next decade.

President Taft has authorized the use of troops to fight forest fires in Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California.

A HOT WEATHER CRY.

Oh, ye winds, ye whistling winds, That howled and blew all winter, Upsetting trees and smashing blinds, And fanning to a splinter, Whichever you are, or near or far, By torrid summer driven, Come back some more and howl and roar, And all will be forgiven!

Alas, ye gales, ye fright gales, That shrieked about the river, Your cold breath caused us many wails, And made us shrink and shiver, We made a scream, "Turn on more steam!" In frantic hope to chase you, But now if you would howl a few, We'd gratefully embrace you!

For O you blast, you rattling blast, It's hotter here than blazes; If longer much this heat should last, We'll all be 'neath the daisies. Now as we pant we rave and rant, And but one thing we please us— A good old, cold, old, chill old blow, The sort that chatters teeth, you know.

And makes the skin all goose flesh grow, And gives in drifts the falling snow, And sends the mercury ten below, So, Boreas, please come back, old bo! Just letting all engagements go, And blow and blow and blow and blow, Until, oh, joy, you freeze us! —Paul West in New York World.

MILLIONAIRE WANTED TO ENDOW DANCING COURSE.

Interpretative Style Needed in Settlement Work, Girl Says.

John D. Rockefeller, Mrs. Russell Sage or even a philanthropist of less means has a grand chance just now to deliver a blow to the "hugging idea" of the average youthful dancer.

Mr. Rockefeller, she declares, would the fine arts a served and overturn the unesthetic ideas of modern American youth if he would establish interpretative classes at the University of Chicago and other social settlements.

"Children and young people everywhere would be benefited by getting the interpretative idea," she said. "At present they have too much of the hugging idea. Interpretative dancing brings out the spiritual side of life, and that is reason enough why rich people ought to help."

"Children have clumsiness born in them, so why not teach them something graceful? Good teachers of interpretative dancing, a knowledge of the best music and good thoughts would change the very minds of the children."

WOMAN VALUABLE IN BANK.

Oregon Concern Finds New Method is Profitable.

One of the new departures in banking methods is the bid that is made for women's accounts. City banks have had a department for women for some time, but only lately have country banks and trust companies taken hold of the plan.

The woman's department of the Portland Trust Company of Oregon was established something over three years ago. It is really a branch of the advertising or publicity work, proceeding upon the lines of popularizing the bank and making it a subject of conversation among the women of the city.

A competent business woman is in charge as superintendent of this department. Every accommodation and courtesy is extended to women patrons in the way of explaining matters of business with which they are unfamiliar, assisting them in the preparation of checks, drafts and other papers when they open an account.

In addition to her duties in the bank the superintendent makes frequent calls upon women whose business it is desirable to obtain and also extends assistance to those who may need it. If, for example, one of the bank's clients or a stranger is ill and desires advice or assistance in the preparation of any paper or in the handling of any business the superintendent waits upon her at her home and spends as much time as may be necessary in aiding her. In this way some very desirable results have been gained.

PRINCESS IS EQUESTRIENNE.

Unlike Royal Father, Mary of England Rides Well.

Princess Mary, the only daughter of the king of England, is taking riding lessons in a quiet corner of Richmond park. She seems to take to horseback naturally and is already an accomplished rider.

Therein she differs from her brother, the heir to the throne, who, like his father, the king, does not care for horseback riding. The young prince prefers the sea to a horse and doesn't like to take his riding lessons. He has been known to throw his arms around his horse's neck when the animal became skittish.

King George, although he rides each morning in Rotten row for the benefit of his liver, is not a good horseman. His mount is always a gentle animal guaranteed not to become excited and not to go faster than a dignified trot.
