

PRESENT SESSION OF CONGRESS TO CLOSE BY SUNDAY

Sixty-Seventh Session Is Required by Law to Close by Not Later Than Noon Tomorrow, After Long Term.

PRESENT SESSION STARTED IN 1921

During Its Term Many Important Laws Have Been Enacted and Several Precedents Established.

(By the Associated Press.)

Washington, March 3.—Its major tasks all but completed, the 67th Congress found time in its closing hours today to take up many of the lesser bills and resolutions such as usually die unnoted, amid the hurry and confusion of a session's final wind-up.

From the opening of the last days work in Senate and House, discussion of legislative "chicken feed" was the order of business, with many members seeking, and in many cases finding, an opportunity to get a vote on this or that private or local measure which they never heretofore had hoped to bring to the stage of action.

The only bill of first magnitude, to which attention had been given during the day was the farm credits measure as finally agreed to last night by the Senate and House conferees. Acceptance of the conference report by the Senate and House themselves was more or less a formality.

Last night's sessions were expected in both Senate and House with a view to finally clearing the decks and leaving only the formality of the brief meeting tomorrow preceding the final fall of the gavel Sunday noon.

To avoid technical Sabbath meeting and still comply with the letter of the law for ending the Congress March 4, the leaders planned to recess tonight until an hour or so before noon tomorrow, thus making Sunday an extension of today's "legislative" day.

Dozens of bills and hundreds of nominations were in today's legislative hopper, but most of the bills of the kind which are usually passed in the closing hours were dropped, their uses connected, and no efforts at re-assembly planned.

Today also was a day of farewells and "swan songs" or a scramble for accommodations on outgoing trains, of packing and clearing up of offices, and of preparations for the longest vacation had by Congress in eight years.

Washington, March 3.—An eleventh hour drive for action on a wide range of bills was on today as the Sixty-seventh Congress neared its close. Both the Senate and House met according to law adjourn sine die by noon tomorrow.

While legislation, varied in scope and vital in effect on international relations as well as on American activities, has been enacted, it was apparent that hundreds of measures would fall, despite last minute efforts to extricate them from the jammed calendars of both houses.

With the passing of the present Congress, in session practically continuously since early in 1921, Washington faces a suspension of congressional activities which probably will continue until the first regular session of the Sixty-eighth Congress in December. In the event President Harding adheres to his present intention of not calling a special session, the recess will be the longest since 1915.

The closing Congress, record-breaking in that it has consisted of four sessions for the first time in history and its acts have touched hitherto virgin fields in American legislation, was ushered in with the Harding administration.

The four sessions were preceded by a special but brief session of the Senate only March 4 to 15, 1921, at which with the great President and former senator establishing a precedent by appearing personally before the Senate behind closed doors, the new cabinet members were confirmed.

The first session of the Sixty-seventh Congress, a special one, was from April 11, 1921, to November 23, and was notable for its conclusion of peace with Germany and Austria, reduction of the army and naval establishments and for revision of internal revenue laws, resulting in taxes about one billion dollars annually, according to administration estimates.

The second, and first regular session was from December 5, 1921, to September 22, 1922, with passage of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act after more than a year's consideration, Senate ratification of the Washington arms conference treaties, and the soldiers bonus fight, which ended with the presidential veto, as its signal affairs. During this session came the record-breaking single legislative day of the Senate, the longest in American congressional history, lasting on the tariff bill from April 20 to August 2 without a formal adjournment.

The third session was a special one, called particularly for House consideration of the administration shipping bill. It lasted from November 20, shortly after the congressional elections, until December 4. Passage by the House of the shipping bill, seating of the first woman senator, Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Georgia; resignation of F. B. Buchanan; and the holding of the tariff bond on the same charge while Joe Buchanan and "Burr" Rainwater are still at large.

DR. FREDERICK KNEBEL TO SPEAK IN HICKORY

Will Deliver First Address in North Carolina at Lenoir College.

Hickory, N. C., March 3.—Dr. Frederick H. Knebel, honored president of the United Lutheran Church in America since its organization, will deliver his first address upon North Carolina soil, March 30, as a guest of Lenoir College, Hickory. The college is in the midst of a great effort to secure among its friends and former students an expansion fund of $50,000, of which $200,000 has been offered.

The vice of the Lutheran Church in America are focused on Lenoir's present effort because the rise of Lenoir from obscurity to leadership has been so rapid and unlooked for, Northern institutions especially have never felt that a Lutheran college in the South could make a strong bid for ranking position, as Lenoir is now doing.

In a recent letter from the United Lutheran Church office in New York City, Dr. Knebel expressed his keen interest in the retro fortune of Lenoir and the heroic purpose of its friends, in the following manner:

"I have heard with a distinct thrill of Mr. D. E. Rhyme's generous gift of $300,000 to Lenoir College and of the decision of the North Carolina Synod to increase this to at least $500,000, and thus to give Lenoir College a chance for Christian service as few if any other colleges in our church enjoy."

"This is an historic event and a heroic decision. The future of our Church rests in important respects on its colleges. Without their vigorous contribution to our Christian leadership we languish and die."

"It takes more than hopes and dreams to build and maintain great Christian schools. It takes vision, courage, initiative and sacrifice in heroic measure."

"Mr. Rhyme's great gift and the decision of the North Carolina Synod are a challenge to the rest of our Church that will continue in unending form for many years to come."

"May God encourage the North Carolina Synod through its decision and lead the way in the urgently needed educational advance of our church."

AMERICAN INTEREST IN GREAT BRITAIN

Is Pointed Out to Premier Poincare, Says An Article Printed by Daily Telegraph in London.

(By the Associated Press.)

London, March 3.—Private informal but pointed hint has been conveyed to Premier Poincare from an American quarter suggesting that the United States cannot be indifferent to any European move which would seem directed against Great Britain, the Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correction.

American concern, adds the correspondent, is not exclusively a matter of sentiment. Should any menace to Great Britain arise, she would necessarily have to increase her armament and her capacity to repay the American loans would be impaired, the article says.

The correspondent notes recent agitation in the French press for a "continental bloc."

KIWANIS MEETING

Speaker From Atlanta Speaks Interestingly of Work Among Boys.

Transcription of regular business and a special program of addresses by Team No. 4 State Library M. C. A. on Friday evening.

The Kiwanis club has already started preparations for sending a delegation to the Kiwanis International Convention which will meet in Atlanta May 28-31. President Tracy Spencer appointed the following as the "40 To Meet" Committee: Albert Palmer, Chairman; Charles A. Cannon, Will F. Charles, Shortt and Cable Spink.

Albert Palmer, of the Hotel Continental, announced to the club that his committee is making time to see if the new company, which took over the old S. C. Hotel is going to put in a modern building for a hotel before they begin the work along the line.

Jacob Moore, captain of Team No. 4, took charge of the program which was most enjoyable. Mr. Charles H. Wagoner delighted the boys with several original selections, but the most interesting being played by Miss Nell Horton in his hearty applause and Mrs. Wagoner was compelled to respond to a number of cheers.

Mr. James Morton, secretary of church work, Atlanta, Ga., was then introduced by Chairman Moore. Mr. Morton took as his subject, Boys' Responsibility Toward the Boys' and delivered a strong and earnest plea for the work to help build up the citizenship of our country by building up the right kind of boys. Some of our biggest opportunities are missed if we fail to take advantage of the opportunity to put something into the young boy's life, said Mr. Morton. Boys are taught the history of our country in the past and its glorious achievements, but nothing is taught the boys about the problems of today, the problems that the men are facing right now. It is imperative that the boys of today be given the power to see through the eyes of the men of today just what the country is facing and what will be their problems when they become men. The great need of our nation today is a true conception of a real citizenship, continued the speaker. Disregard for the law is practiced today not only by the boys, but there is a serious lack of respect for law among the men of our country, as is evidenced by the crime wave that is sweeping our nation. Unless something is done to check this lawlessness there is no way of knowing the destination to which our fair country is drifting. The only way for true citizens to act is obey the laws completely. If the laws are repealed, the people have the power of wearing the laws, but as long as a law is on the books they must obey. The boys of today should be taught to respect for law among the men of our country, as is evidenced by the crime wave that is sweeping our nation.
