PERSONALS.
Mr. E. J. Roseman, State Deputy tax collector, of Statesville, is spending the day here conferring with City Tax Collector Mills.

AGRICULTURAL COLUMN
Conducted by R. D. GOODMAN.

In regard to the More Legumes movement that the Cabarrus Savings Bank is putting on for the benefit of the farmers of this county will say that this should mean more to their future prosperity than any other thing that could be done.

There are a few things in general that are necessary to the successful growing of any Summer legume. First, the soil should be well prepared, either by plowing or thoroughly disking, making a good seed bed and if the land is thin at least 200 pounds of acid should be applied per acre.

Soy Beans should be planted in every row of corn in the county as they will not decrease the yield of corn and will add a great deal of humus as well as fertility to the soil and will give about the same increase in the following crop as can be made by the addition of 1,000 pounds of ordinary fertilizer.

Where a first class legume hay is needed two bushels should be drilled in with a grain drill as this amount of seed will choke down the weeds and also prevent the beans growing so close. With the above amount of seed and some fertilizer on good land one should get two tons of hay per acre after small grain.

One of the most particular things in the growing of soy beans is the buying of new seed and then planting them from one to two inches deep and not over this depth, and then the soil should have enough moisture for them to come up before getting a heavy rain.

Cow peas are more easily grown than beans but will not make as large a yield or as rich hay. If cow peas are planted in corn at the first working or when the corn is planted they will make enough growth to shade the ground and help heavy feeders of moisture will reduce the yield of corn.

When sowing for hay one and one-half bushels should be sown per acre and they can be plowed under and the ground harrowed smooth, a practice that can't be used in the growing of soy beans, and you can expect from one to one and one-half tons of hay per acre.

In regard to the Mung Beans they are a very promising crop being a distant cousin to the cow pea and no insect has been found to destroy them to the present. The seed are rather high yet, being about $1.00 per gallon, but this amount will plant an acre in rows as the seed are about the size of okra seed.

This plant has the habit of bearing its seed on a stem like the pea but instead of one pod there are six, making the harvesting of seed on the average farm more easy. They are especially fine to plant around the horse for the poultry to harvest the seed in the Fall and where this has been practiced an abundance of eggs have been produced, the same as where the cow peas are used.

The Soy bean will make the most pounds of good hay per acre and the Mung bean will make about the same amount as the Cow pea.

BOY OF YOUNG RATTS, OF SPENCER, IS FOUND
Negroes Fishing in Rich Fork Creek, Davidson County, Locate the Remains.

Lexington, April 24.—Three negroes fishing late yesterday on the banks of Rich Fork Creek, seven miles east of here, saw something caught in some driftwood resembling a human body, which today proved to be the remains of Roscoe Ratts, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ratts, of Spencer.

After Sheriff Talbert had visited the scene of the gruesome find last night, which was about 500 yards down the creek from where the stream passes under the Southern railway bridge near Lake, and had convinced himself it was a human body, a coroner's jury was impaneled. A letter and other articles found on the body indicate it was young Ratts and his father was notified.

Both parents identified articles and clothing found on the boy here this afternoon.

Mr. Ratts said that his son, who worked as a delivery boy at Spencer, was missing on the night of December 15, last, and had told some one he was going to Danville that night. Since then the father made three trips to Danville but could find no trace of his missing boy.

There was no evidence of foul play and there is no indication of the railroad crossing the creek in water, the body rested, and northbound freight trains stop at a water tank some distance north so that the rear cars are over the bridge. In the darkness one not acquainted with the bridge might easily fall to the water beneath. The body gave evidence of having been in the water for several months.

Sings to Old Friend Who Journeyed From Italy to Hear Him.
New York Times.

Giuseppe Rosso, once a wine grower in Ottajano, near Naples, sat alone in the Casino Theatre yesterday afternoon, arising every now and then to shout a lusty "bravo." On the stage, also alone, was Giuseppe Argentino, known in Ottajano fifteen years ago as "Giuseppe cantatore," or "Singing Joe," and Rosso had traveled all the way from Italy to hear Argentino sing again.

Back in the grape-growing village in Southern Italy the two Giuseppees were boys together. When Argentino was about fourteen he came to America, where after many difficulties he got a job in a Long Island City laundry. He was a good shirt ironer but a better singer and his fame spread. Crowds often blocked the laundry door to hear Argentino sing at his work. A musician heard him once was impressed and advised him to study.

Argentino took heed, left the laundry, worked and finally gave a concert at Town Hall which won him considerable renown. Accounts were copied by Italian newspapers, one of which got into the hands of Rosso among the Ottajano grape vines. Rosso decided then and there to come to America and hear Argentino sing. He sailed on the Arabic about five months ago but got only as far as Ellis Island. Italy's quota had been filled so he was sent back. Nevertheless he tried again and landed in Boston last week. When he located Argentino the singer arranged yesterday's concert for Rosso at the Casino. He sang "O Paradiso" from L'Africaine, "Addio a la Mama" from Cavalleria Rusticana, "Di Quella Fira" from Il Trovatore, "La Donna e Mobile" from Rigoletto and Bartlett's "A Dream."

Rosso said he was now content and would sail back to Italy within two weeks.

Eugene Ciqui has a large staff of trainers at his camp on Long Island. The featherweight champion of Europe intends to be "right" for his bout with Johnny Kilbane for the world's title.
