THE WEEVIL IS HERE

genuine boll weevil was found sev real days ago in this county. There is no question about this: The insect was declared a boll weevil by R. D. Goodman, county agent, and he forwarded it. to Raleigh to the State Agricultural Department and experts there supported the species of the insect.

We are bringing out this fact because we want the farmers of Cabarrus County to fully appreciate the fact that they have the weevil to contend with. It is too late to sit back now and figure that the weevil to visit the farm of your neighbor but will miss your cutton fields. He plays no favorites. He travels rapidly, and when it is an established fact that he is in Cabarrus County, it is almost certain that he will soon be in every section of the county unless every ution is taken against him.

It is useless too, to give up and just let the weevil run wild. He can be checked if proper methods are used. The wis farmer is the one who will confer with his county agent or others who know of effective remedies, and get the remedies at work as soon as possible.

SETTLED AT LAST.

Supreme Court of the United States has decided at last on the par clearance case which was carried to the highest court in the land by certain North Carolina, Virginia and South Carolina banks, not members of the Federal Reserve System, who refused to clear at par certain checks that passed through them. The Federal Reserve Banks a Richmond and Atlanta contended that the banks must clear the checks at parand the Supreme Court sustains the North Carolina State law upholding the right of state banks to charge exchange rates not exceeding one-tenth of one per cent, reversing a decision of the State Court of North Carolina.

The par clearance test cases started several months ago and followed the process of law that finally carried them to the United States Supreme Court. The decision of the court settles the matter once for all.

CHARLOTTE LEADS.

Charlotte leads other cities in the State in the number of Federal income tax returns that were made in 1921, the figures for which have just been made public in Washington. According to figures made public in Washington, the number of returns made by the leading cities of the State in the order of their cities of the State in the order of their rank was as follows:

Charlotte 4655; Winston-Salem, 3045; Wilmington, 2925; Greensboro, 2770; Asheville, 2600; Raleigh, 2325; Durham, 1490; Rocky Mount, 1380; Salisbury 1990; Wilson, 710; High Point, 670; Gastonia, 610; Fayetteville, 600; New Bern, 585; Goldsboro, 515; Kinston, 490; Elizabeth City, 450; Henderson 410; Burrllington, 375; Statesville, 70; Greenville, 340; Concord, 335; Hickory, 290; Lexington, 270; Washington 260; Reidsville, 230; Thomasville, 135.

Governor Al Smith, of New York State, asserts agains that he will not be a candidate for President on the Democratic ticket in 1924. It is just as well that he has reached this decision. Governor Smith is very popular in his native State, and had often been spoten of as a possible Democratic candidate, but he lost whatever chance he had for the nomination when he signed a bill repealing the prohibition law in New York state. Since then he has made several statements in which he bas defended his action, indicating without doubt that he is wet and will continue that way, And that is one of the reasons he will never get the Democratic nomination. There is no reason why Governor Smith can't have his own ideas about prohibition or Asheville, June 11.—Pleading for THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Old Time Scythe Artist.

From The Upliff.

The thought is distressing. What in the world will be do when the old-timey artist that wields most gracefully and successfully the old English scythe passes away? I call him an artist, advisedly, for the effect of his ability and touch leave a joy behind them, a picture that gladdens the hearts Old gx-slave Giles Miller, a worthy relie of the slave days, of which he graciously and loving-ty-speaks when he gained his training on the banks of Dutch Buffalo Creek on the old Dan Miller place in No. 8. Why, Giles can swing his scythe, now not wider than a table knife, and leave a smooth effect just like Bub Henry or Ed Melchor, tonsorial artists, leave the faces of some hard customers. This thing of using effectively the old time scythe looks mighty easy, but as smart men as W. W. Flowe, Charlie Ritchie: Luther Bost, Frank Niblock Luther Hartsell, Dr.-Rankin, Tiny Hartsell, Zeb Morris, Jake Moose, J. L. Crowell, Jim Dayvault, D. B. Coltrane, A. B. Pounds, T. H. Webb, Mayor Wemble and others who have made their mark in the business world—all country and farm bred and reared—couldn't get a third grade certificate from the Cabarrus county educational department on the subject of using an old-time grass scythe. These men just like the balance of us, would throw the instrument as if it were an axe aimed at a tough tree. The prospect for the future is indeed gloomy.

President Music Federation Urges Better Standard in the Public Schools.

Asheville, June 11.—Pleading for more general appreciation and support of the work of American artists and composers and urging fhe necessity for establishing and maintaining higher standards of music in the carricula of public schools. Mrs. John F. Lyon, Fort Worth. Tex., president of the National Federation of Music clubs, to-day delivered the president's bremial address before the federation in session here.

address before the federation in session here.

Mrs. Lyons suggested that the music clubs composing the federation arrange their programs so that at least 50 per cent of each program would be the work of American artists. Urging a better standard of music in public schools she said that, "appreciation of good music must become a part of the training of every American child."

Mrs. William Arms Fishers, of Boston, first vice-president of the federation, followed Mrs. Lyon and gave to the delegates a general summary of conditions in the musical world, her speech being based on the results of a survey of the field recently conducted by the federation. Mrs. Fisher asserted that the music clubs of America are contributing to the support of native music and amount 12 times as great as that contributed in any European country. She urged that scholarships in music be established by the clubs.

Mothers of Famous Men

The Mother of Viscount Falkland.

"Lucius Cary will never make much of a man!" whispered the gossips as they talked about the boy. It was then about 1624, and the boy. Liucius, was about 14 years of age. "Did you ever see such a runt!" said one woman. "He hasn't grown a bit the last five years—and there's not fiesh on his bones! And to think of a child like that being to the heir to Sir Henry Cary!"

The mother, however, loved her boy with a most ardent love. Elizabeth Transield saw only the more reason for teaching him to be a real man, and to cultivate the powers of honesty, and self-reliance, whey she saw how much larger and stronger his playmates of the same age as he, were. She herself had been un only child, and had known what it is to be thought of as one who will represent the family."

Elizabeth Tansield 'had never known is to be thought of as one who will represent the family.

Elizabeth Tanfield had never known poverty, but she had experienced much of longing for companionship and love. Her loneliness had developed in her a strong vein of mysticish, and, even of sadness. She resolved that she would give to her son all the love that he needed. Accordingly she made the boy, in his carlier years, her companion. She trained his character, and led him into a strong and resolute manhood. She was herself intensely religious, and she imparted much, though not all, of her own spirit to the boy. In spite of all her training, and her insistence floon open air sports and exercise she could not give the child a strong physique. He grew up weak physically but strong mentally. Although he lived to be only 33 years old, nevertheless, he made himself one of the sanest, best balanced men in the stormy England of his times—the England of the days of the great Civil War, in which Cavalierse fought, with Puritans. The boy whom she had trained so well, became the man who upheld the balanced cause of goodness, virtue, and sanity. If he could have lived, and his counsels could have been followed, England would have been followed. England would have gained.

Thought He Was in Hell.

Hammond, Ind., June 10.—Mike Yaksekof. of this city, recently went over to Gary to see what was to be seen. After imbibing a few snorts of home brew, he saw a Turkish bath sign. Almost any kind of a bath promised wild adventure for Mike, As this was his first Turkish bath, he decided to shoot the works, and left all hope behind, along with his clothing, as he entered the operating room. itered the operating room.
