Rusco Products' Big Campaign in Tribune

Z. V. McClure, district representative of the Russell Manufacturing Company, is spending several days in and around Concord directing the big advertising campaign on Rusco Products and a full page advertisement of Rusco Products appears in this issue of The Tribune. The Russell Manufacturing Company, makers of the famous Rusco Products, are the largest manufacturers of narrow fabrics in the United States. The first narrow fabrics made in power looms on this continent were produced by the Russell Manufacturing Company; the first woven belting made in the United States was a Rusco product, the business being established in 1830 and thus being 92 years old. Rusco Products are sold by practically every dealer in the United States and the complete list of jobbers and dealers in this city and section is printed in the page ad. in this issue. Rusco Cloth Finishing and Brake Lining are standard equipment on some of the finest automobiles from the Packard down to the "popular priced" cars. The Rusco distributors for this section is the Ritchie Hardware Co., North Union street.

Splendid Shoot at Gun Club

The Concord Gun Club on Thursday afternoon held a splendid shoot at the club grounds, near the home of Mr. George W. Means, on South Union Street. About twenty-five persons took part in the shooting. Rev. Jesse C. Rowan, as usual, led the contestants with his high score. Plans are already being laid by the members of the club for a big shoot here on July 4th, at which will be visitors from Charlotte, Salisbury, Monroe and Albemarle to take part in the contest. It is expected that there will be fully a hundred or more contestants for the prizes which will be offered to the A, B and C classes. The shoot will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning, and last through almost the entire day. During the day a barbecue will be served on the grounds, and indications are that it will be a big event. As one of the attractions at this meeting, there will be an exhibition of rifle and pistol shooting by Mr. F. E. Hall, representative for the Winchester Arms Company, who makes his headquarters in this city.

How Birds Keep Down Insects.

All through the winter months our forests are searched, tree after tree, by nuthatches, titmouses, creepers and woodpeckers for eggs and other hibernating forms of insects, says the American Forestry Magazine. Under normal conditions they destroy something like 90 per cent of the tiny caterpillars hatching upon the external parts of trees.

WOULD FOUND THE ROTARY SPIRIT IN EVERY COMMUNITY

President Addresses International Meet at St. Louis.—Speaks in the Coliseum, plotting the first leg of his trans-continental trip here late today. President Harding entered upon a round of activities that filled the eight hour visit allotted to St. Louis. The chief executive addressed the annual convention of the International Rotary in session here, laid the cornerstone of a new city club building, and delivered the first prepared address of his trip, with the world court as his subject. The presidential party left the train in Forest Park and Mr. and Mrs. Harding were placed at the head of an automobile procession that took them over a seven mile route to downtown St. Louis. The pavements from the park were lined three or four deep and bands stationed at mile intervals hailed the President's arrival in advance of the procession. At the Coliseum, where the President made his first speech to the Rotarians, the doors were closed to all members of the private party except the President and his secretary. Police denied admission to all alike including local authorities and newspapermen traveling with the President. Speaking to the Rotarians the President declared that if he could found Rotary in every community throughout the world he would do so and then would guarantee tranquility and a forward march for the universe. "Statesmen have their problems and governments have theirs," the President continued, "but if you could plant the spirit of Rotary throughout the world and turn it to practical application, there would not be much wrong with the human procession. Need Rotary Spirit Everywhere. I can understand how you have grown, how you have come to exercise a great influence, because, I tell you, fellow Rotarians, no matter where you come, service is the greatest thing in the world, and the thing that the world needs more than anything else is to understand that only service will make the restoration that came of the tumultuous world war. If we can all get down to service, humble service, honest service, helpful service, the things that humanity must do to make the recovery, then there will come out of the great despondency and discouragement and distress of the world a new order, and some day when we reclaim it, I fancy I shall see the emblems of Rotary in the foreground, because you of Rotary representative of the best we have in America, have played your big part in making service one of the appraised offerings of human kind worth while. Importance of good city government to good government in the nation was emphasized by the President in a brief address given after he had laid the cor-

HURLEY ADDRESSES THE EDITORS OF THE STATE

Says North Carolina Needs a Positive Expression of Good Citizenship. Blowing Rock, June 21.—North Carolina needs a very positive expression of good citizenship, declared J. F. Hurley, of the Salisbury Evening Post, speaking here tonight as the orator of the North Carolina Press Association convention. "Conditions in county, state, and nation would be better if we had a universal expression of good citizenship from all men classed as good citizens. "We have too much passive, too little positive citizenship. Too many of our citizens are on vacation. We are not living the citizenship we profess. We are too busy to bother with the duties of citizenship; the details do not interest us, we are busy with other matters, to us more important. We trust the other fellow to meet the demands of good citizenship. Speaking of the resolution adopted last year by the association pledging itself to an earnest effort to combat in every possible way the era of lawlessness then believed to be prevalent, the speaker declared that he believed the newspaper men of the state had lived up to their promise and urged the publishers to a still "higher and better display of citizenship." "Drifting is so easy, and responsibility taxes one far more than some desire," continued Mr. Hurley. "Good citizenship sometimes costs; we are not always ready to pay the price, though we are always ready for the reward. The newspapers must bring men more and more to where they will see themselves in civic duties and accept unto themselves full responsibility. America is calling for the man who knows what to do, how to do it, and is willing to do it. "This wonderfully beautiful state was not given us to exploit or neglect," he concluded. "It is ours to develop, to enrich, to glorify and hand on to a succeeding generation more lovely in God's eye than when we first received the trust. North Carolina is lovely in mountain grandeur and in lowland simplicity. She is truly a 'summer land where the sun doth shine' and you and I must give an account of our stewardship. This then is a great and pleasing duty for us—helping our people to a higher living, the expressing of a better citizenship day by day. Before we can do this we must catch the vision."
