Hotel Manager Says Visiting Merchants
Expect Business Spurt.

No surer barometer of business conditions throughout the country can be found than in the big hotels of New York, were men of every line of industry are found at this time, according to Arthur L. Lee, manager of the MeAlpin and Martinique hotels. Mr. Lee, who had talks with many merchants during the past week, says the coming Pall and Winter promise prosperous conditions all over the country.

Buyers who visited the market early in the Summer are returning to place targer Fall and Winter orders, he says, having misjudged their customers buy-in the Summer are returning to place larger Fall and Winter orders, he says, having misjudged their customers buy-ing power at home. Mr. Lee says many New York manufacturers were "bear ish" and influenced the small sown store-owner to buy lightly, even when he came to market with the intention of filling his shelves with new goods. This attitude, Mr. Lee points out, is hurturg their own business, and repeating the condition of a few years ago when New York's pessimism spread over the country and brought about, or aided in the business depression.

The 14 girls and boys in the Oxford Orphanage Singing Class are representing about 380 children in that splendid institution. Hear them sing and see how you like them.

The Durham Herald says:

The Singing Class of the Oxford Orphanage was greeted last night by the largest audience that has yet attended the concerts that are given every year, as well as being one of the largest audiences ever gathered in the Academy of Music. Approximately 2,000 people were present, with every seat occupied, chairs in the aisles, and people standing along the sides and rear of the lower floor and the two balconies filled to overflowing.

The concert was exceptionally good, the children disported themselves in a style that was worthy of profesionals. The song numbers were good and the Class included several voices, of mere than passing merit. The little folks were good and showed not the slightest degree of nervousness.

SON SEARCHES 20 YEARS FOR HIS DEAD PARENT

Finally Learns Father Was Drowned Formight After Hund Began.
New York, Aug. 22.—Twenty years ago Benjamin Tamaroff came to this country from Russia to find his father, who had preceded him. For 20 years his search was fruitless, until last Sunday. Then Tamaroff discovered that his rather had met death by drowning two weeks after his son arrived to fein him. The Tamaroffs lived in Kiev. The mother died, the ather remarried, and 22 years ago took his new bride to the United States, leaving Benjamin in the care of an aunt. The aunt died and Benjamin came to the United States to find his father.

The latter had settled in New Brunswick. When he was drowned he left his widow and several children and the family undertook a search for the stephrother, but as he had left Russia there was no trace of him. During the 20 years Benjamin did not cease the search for his father. He settled in Philadelphia and later moved to New York.
