PERSONAL SELF-GOVERNMENT —He that hath no rule over his ow spirit is like a city that is broken down and without walls.—Proverbs 25 228.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

Strangers in Morgantown, West Virginia, complained much because they were arrested for fraffic violations of which they were ignorant. They did not know the parking ordinances and many of them were arrested for their first of-fense. They made much complaint, sent complaints broadcast, and were giving Morgantown a black eve

So the Chamber of Commerce of that city hit upon a plan that shows a true spirit of hospitality, and at the same time does not let the bars down too far. "Wel-come to Our City" reads a tag the Morgantown police now tie to autos which are parked wrong or which stay to long in one place. This is what the first tag, a green one, says, but if the offense is persistent a red tag that summons the motorist to police headquarters is used.

The green tag, in addition to welcoming the motorist to Morgantown, says: "The citizens of Morgantown, through its chamber of commerce, bid you welcome to our city.

"If we can render any service or in

"If we can render any service or in any way make your visit with us more pleasure, kindly call at the headquarters of our commercial organization.

"By the way, you have violated one of our city traffic ordinances and we suggest that you call at the chamber of commerce and secure a copy of our traffic regulations."

The above regulations constitute.

Morgantown is making friends for itself by treating strangers as if they were human beings.

are some cities in this State that could learn a lesson from the action of the Morgantown Chamber of Commerce and police. This is especially true in resort towns, where hundreds of motorists drive each year, and where there are no signs erected giving the parking laws. It is not right or just to arrest a man for his first parking offense in a town where he is not familiar with the

The outcome of the visit of the North Carolina officers to the money market of New York will be watched with keen interest. " Heretofore the officers have been able to dispose of the State's bonds with out much trouble, but this time a differ-ent story may be told. This is the first ent story may be told. This is the first time honds of the State have been offered since the "deficit" wrangle started sev-eral months ago, and just how the chang-es of the $5,000,000 deficit will affect

The charges of Mr. Maxwell are cer-tain to have some effect on the State's financial standing. Most of the people in the State, we believe, realize that North Carolina is not in a bad way financially, but will the money handlers of New York City think the same way. That's the question.

N happiness in the hills of Buncambe county than in the hills and valleys of Habersham and Hall. Nobody has a word of criticism for North Carolina and its method of taxing the folks and keeping them in a good humor. If this Legislature doesn't put Georgia in the North Carolina class before the first of September it will not be from lack of advice to that effect.

North Carolina has set a pace that should be an inspiration as well as an

North Carolina has set a pace that should be an inspiration as well as an example to Georgia not only, but to numerous other commonwealths; and the legislators thereof may with profit spend much time in discussing what has been done in this State for public betterment. Modesty and candor compel the admission that we have not yet attained perfection; in fact some of our folks would admit, without being pressed, that our shortcoming are many. But that is among ourselves. We will not only declare to the outsider that we are nearing shortcoming are many. But that is among ourselves. We will not only declare to the outsider that we are nearing perfection, but we will attempt to prove it; and few there be among us who are not sincerely proud of the progress we are making and the reputation we have justly earned abroad. It is surprising that more Georgians do not move to North Carolina; in fact we are surprised that folks who are Dee to move will ston. that folks who are free to move will stop anywhere outside of North Carolina.

STORY THAT MINISTER PIERCE MADE THREATS

Hinted at R. O. Garrett's "Leaving" As "Corpse."—He Knew of Ambush? Cumberland Courthouse, Va., Ang. 29.—Testimony that Rev. E. S. Pierce had stated last April that R. O. Garrett, count clerk, would "leave Cumberland pretty soon as a corpse," and that on a previous occasion he had declared there "would have to be another Hillsville affair in Cumberland to clean things up." was given by the defense witnessed today in the trial of R. O. Garrett for the alleged murder of the Baptist minister last June 5.

These statements with testimony designed to show that the minister appeared to have some knowledge of the shooting of Allen M. Chandler from ambush last May 3, together with the appearance on the stand of Larkin C. Garrett, jointly indicted with his brother for the Pierce killing, were the high spots of the third day of the trial, nost of which was given over to defense witnesses, Special emphasis was laid on the testimony concerning the minister's connection with the Chandler shooting as it is the defense claim that that affair led directly to the fight in which Rev. Mr. Pierce was short to death a month later.

"So this is the baby, eh?" said the bachelor, "Bless his little tootsie-wootsies! Watch me tickle-um ribs,"
The genial one proceeded to play ragime on the unoffending infant's ribs, toolishly imagining the child was enjoying it.
The up-to-date Boston child stood it for some time, and then cried out:
"Mother, will you inform me whether the deplorable condition of this person is due to permanent dementia or spasmodic and intermitent insanity?"

"Well. uncle, are you a Presbyterian?"
"No sah, I isn't."
"Then to what chhurch do you belong?"

"Then to ong?"
"Ise a Baptis', sah."
The minister hoping to make the bond of friendship secure said:
"My wife was a Baptist."
The old darkey straightened up and said with calm assurance:
