Concord Motor Co. Is Known Far and Wide

Wherever motor car owners congregate in Cabarrus and adjoining counties the name of the Concord Motor Company, Inc. is well and favorably known. Established in October, 1916, by H. A. Goodman, one of the most successful business men in this part of the Piedmont district, the firm devotes its abilities to the distribution of Hudson, Essex, Willys Knight, Red Bird and Little Overland automobiles, in addition to giving a fine prompt repair service on the cars they sell, and repairing and making automobiles in their general repair shop.

A large parts department is maintained and kept fully stocked so that owners of cars are never at a loss through the inability of the firm to supply a broken or lost part. A stock of $50,000 of parts, tires and accessories is carried in a fine garage and showroom in a brick building 120x150 feet. In addition the company has a warehouse for new cars 40x70 feet. Pilske, Goodyear and Lee puncture proof tires are carried.

The company has a very large patronage as it deals in the leading medium and low priced cars, and is noted for the promptness of its service and the reliability of its repair work.

Mr. Goodman, who was one of the leaders in the promotion of the Cabarrus County Fair Association is admired by all for his generous support in all public enterprises. He was born in Cabarrus county and attends the St. James Lutheran church. He is an Elk, is married and has two children.

Concord Laundry Has New Machinery

Among the prosperous industries of Cabarrus county the Concord Steam Laundry is a leading enterprise. It came into the possession of the present owner, R. E. Ridenhour, in 1899, and has been giving real service to an ever growing circle of patrons ever since. All kinds of high class laundry work has been done, four trucks being necessary to serve the needs of the business. Residents in Kannapolis, Landis, China Grove are also served with deliveries equally as prompt and reliable as those given to the people of Concord. By this enterprising firm, which counts no pains too great to take to serve its customers.

The company owns a fine brick building 40x70 feet with an up-to-date laundry plant worth about $25,000. The plant has recently been improved by the installation of some new machinery of the latest type. At the same time a thoroughly up-to-date dyeing and dry cleaning plant was put in at a cost of about $7,500, which will give Concord and Cabarrus county a plant equal to any kind of work. Twenty-five people are employed.

R. E. Ridenhour was a shoe salesman with the Cannon & Fetzner Company for 13 years before going into business for himself. He was born in Cabarrus county and educated at Mount Pleasant College and lived on a farm until he was 21. He is a member of the Lutheran church, a Kiwanian, is married and has four children. R. E. Ridenhour, Jr., has been a partner with his father for the last six years and is assistant manager. He is one of the best known young business men of Concord, secretary treasurer of the Rotary Club; a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Elks. He is married has one child and attends the First Presbyterian Church.

Specialty Hat Shop Has Exclusive Trade

The Specialty Hat Shop was established two years ago by Miss Molly S. Brown, president; H. W. Calloway, vice president and Miss Maude Brown, secretary-treasurer. In that short time the firm has earned a reputation among those who desire exclusive millinery which has given the shop a fine patronage from discriminating buyers. Such well known hats as Rawak, Johnson Blossom and Dantree are carried and in addition a specialty is made of hats to order on short notice. Miss Molly Brown was with Miss Nancy Alexander and later with Park Bell in charge of the millinery department. She is a native of Cabarrus county, and attends the First Presbyterian Church.

Miss Maude Brown was hat trimmer for James G. Johnson & Co., of New York and left with the reputation of being one of the best this well known firm ever employed. She attends the First Presbyterian Church; belongs to the King's Daughters, the Literary Society and other leading organizations.

F. and G. Electrical Co. Growing Fast

The F. & G. Electric Company was established this spring by L. A. Fisher, president, and J. B. Garrison, secretary-treasurer and manager. The firm in addition to doing a retail business with an up-to-date stock of electrical equipment, supplies and fixtures, also does electrical contracting work and cheerfully furnishes estimates on any work, large or small. Such nationally known lines as Westinghouse, Hot Point devices, Universal and others are carried in stock.

Mr. Garrison was born in York County, S. C. He is a Baptist, an Elk, a Woodman of the World and a K. P. and is widely known and respected among a large circle of friends.

Niblock Building Material Well Known

After a residence in Concord of sixteen years during which time he has built up the largest retail lumber and building supply business in the city, F. C. Niblock today is able to look back on a career which has been a consistent record of "something accomplished, something done," as the old saying has it. Born in Bowman County, when he completed his education he entered the civil service and for seven years worked for Uncle Sam in the postoffice at Salisbury.

In 1907 he came to the conclusion that if he could satisfy the government with his services he could make money for himself, and believing that Concord offered a fine field for endeavor, located here and established his present business. He started on a small scale, but made steady progress in gaining the confidence of contractors and others who dealt with him. Today he owns a large lumber yard, with a stock of $80,000 to $70,000 of lumber, shingles, builders supplies and other materials usual to a well equipped retail lumber yard. While he is principally in the retail lumber business, Mr. Niblock does some contracting, more as a matter of accommodation to customers than from any other motive. He has supplied the materials in whole or in part for many of the most important buildings in the county. Mr. Niblock is the sole owner and active head of the business but finds time to take an intimate interest in other business enterprises, being president of the Peerless Lumber Company, a director in the Citizens Bank and also owns the F. C. Niblock tinmith shop. He is prominent throughout the state in connection with his Sunday school and boys work. As President of the Y. M. C. A. and a member of the state executive committee of the Y, he is known throughout North Carolina as an active and practical worker on behalf of boys and young men. Mr. Niblock is a leading member in the First Presbyterian Church, being assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, and is a member of the State executive committee for the North Carolina Sunday school association, in addition to being president of the Cabarrus County Sunday School Association.

He is a prominent Rotarian; Deputy Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias; a member of the Merchants and Manufacturers Club and of the Country Club, and was one of the active citizens who promoted the Cabarrus County fair.

Cabarrus Savings Bank Old and Tried Local Institution

There is no financial institution in Concord which reflects in a more substantial way the thrift and industry for which Cabarrus is noted, than the Cabarrus Savings Bank, whose new home is rearing proudly across the street from where the bank's present modest quarters have been outgrown. As Cabarrus has progressed in wealth and influence, so has the Cabarrus Savings Bank, which today is regarded as one of the strongest progressive financial institutions of its kind in the state. With resources of over $500,000.00 it has reached its present stage of importance upon an original capital of $50,000. True it has had the advantage which careful and far seeing management confer. The first president was the late David Franklin Cannon, who served until his death in 1905. The first cashier was the late James Gibson, who died in 1900. H. Irvin Woodhouse, the present president, has seen the bank grow from the beginning and has done his full part in placing the bank where it stands today, but he is a modest man. Suffice to say that he began as teller, nor was he too proud to act as janitor and mail boy in the early days. Moreover he was a success as a janitor and a mail boy, working on the principle that any job is worth doing well. Today he is president, good enough proof that the principles which actuated him in his business career were sound. Upon the death of Mr. Cannon, Mr. Woodhouse, who was then cashier, became president and has held the post ever since with honor and profit to the bank. A notable group of business men are associated with the Cabarrus Savings Bank as follows: M. L. Cannon, vice president; C. W. Swink, cashier; W. G. Caswell, assistant cashier; Directors, M. L. Cannon, J. A. Cannon, W. H. Gibson, J. S. Eford, C. A. Cannon, A. R. Howard, Jos. F. Goodman, C. W. Swink, J. M. Morrow, J. J. Barnhardt, R. L. Smith, F. J. Haywood, W. W. Flowe, H. I. Woodhouse, H. E. Folt, J. F. Cannon, M. J. Corl and E. C. Barnhardt, Jr.

J. W. Cannon, brother of David Franklin Cannon, was vice president from January 1911, until his death in 1921. Branches of the Cabarrus Savings Bank are at Albemarle, Mount Pleasant and Kannapolis.
