

SOCIAL & LOCAL

Carr-Howell Wedding Plans. Concord society will be interested to read the following article from the Atlanta Journal of Sunday, telling of the wedding plans of Miss Margaret Louise Carr and Mr. Clark Howell, Jr.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Louise Carr, of Durham, N. C., and Mr. Clark Howell, Jr., of Atlanta, which will be one of the outstanding events of the autumn season of greatest social importance throughout the entire south, will be solemnized Saturday, November 3, at 8 o'clock in the evening, at St. Phillip's Episcopal Church, in Durham, the Rev. S. S. Bost officiating.

Miss Carr will be given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. C. M. Carr. The maids of honor will be Miss Nancy Carr, and Miss Martha Boynton, of Atlanta, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Matilda Bryant, Miss Abbie D. Goodall, Miss Valida Hill, all of Durham, N. C.; Miss Kitty Brewitt, Lexington, Ky.; Miss Marjorie Bird, of Plainfield, N. J.; Miss Alice Jones, of Bronxville, N. Y.; Little Mary Ann Carr will be ring bearer and the pages will be Julian Carr III and Claiborne Carr, Jr.

The groomsmen will be Mr. H. Comer Howell, best man; Mr. Albert Howell, Jr., Mr. Hollis Lanier, of Americus; Mr. George B. Barrett, Mr. E. H. Foreman, Mr. Robert L. Foreman, Mr. W. A. Rawson, Mr. A. J. Minstead, Mr. R. S. Lang. There will be a small reception after the ceremony to be given at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julian Carr, Jr. The bridal couple will sail for Europe on the S. S. Berengaria on November 6, and will tour southern France and other countries.

Down to Work. The literature department of the Woman's Club held its initial meeting at the home of the president, Miss Margaret Bell, Thursday evening.

The following programme was rendered: Reading: "Art in the South"—Mrs. J. R. Cook. Paper: "Copley's Career as an Artist"—Miss Clara Harris.

Reading from Ruskin, with a sketch of Ruskin's life—Mrs. Hinton McLeod. All proved instructive and entertaining not only to the student of art but to those who wished to be better informed on the subject of art and the artist.

After much discussion it was decided to make an effort to bring a lecturer to Concord with slides showing pictures of art for the benefit and pleasure most especially of the school children of the city, thereby showing that the aim of the department of Literature of the Woman's Club is "Art for everyone and not for the talented few."

Miss Margaret Bell and Janie Klutz served dainty refreshments after the programme.

Rhyme-Rest. On October 20th, 1923, at 8 o'clock p. m., Mr. Brevard A. Bost, of Kannapolis, and Miss Margaret Rhyme, of China Grove, were married at the Lutheran parsonage in China Grove, Rev. C. A. Brown officiating. Only a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

For the present they will make their home in Kannapolis. The bride and groom are both splendid young people, and their many friends wish for them a long, happy and prosperous life.

Parent-Teachers Association to Meet. The Central Grammar School Parent-Teacher Association will meet at Central Graded School on Thursday afternoon, October 25th, at 2:30 o'clock. A picture will be given to the grade which has the most mothers present. A full attendance is urged.

Concord Choral Society to Meet Tonight. The Concord Choral Society will meet this evening at the Y. M. C. A. at seven o'clock for the purpose of electing officers. All members are urged to be present.

TRINITY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Dr. Gilbert Rowe Speaks of the Wonderful Spirit of Trinity College. Winston-Salem Sentinel. The annual conference banquet of the Trinity Alumni Association, held last night at the Robert E. Lee Hotel, proved to be a most inspiring and delightful occasion.

H. R. Dwire, editor of The Sentinel, presided over the banquet in the capacity of toastmaster.

After the invocation, delivered by Rev. W. A. Lambeth, of Gastonia, a most delightful meal was served, to which the gathered throng did full justice.

The large hall room of the Robert E. Lee Hotel was thronged to its capacity. As the dishes were being cleared away, the large crowd, led by William Breach, director of music in the public schools, joined with hearty willingness in singing the old Trinity songs that tended to bring back faded memories of the great days at the old school, of victories won, and defeats suffered bravely, of the battle of life, and the struggles after learning and friendship.

As a means of introduction of the crowd, Mr. Dwire called upon all the ministers in the crowd to stand. This was answered by a large number of men. Then came the lay members. The men who had attended the Old Trinity were then called upon, and finally the members of the famous old Trinity football teams. To this last fully six men arose.

With a few well chosen remarks, Dr. Dwire then introduced Dr. Gilbert Rowe, editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review, but better known to the alumni of Trinity College as "Gil" Rowe.

As a preliminary to his remarks, Dr. Rowe declared that he believed that the Western North Carolina Conference is the best in the entire country. When asked once why he believed that, he declared that he answered in just two words, "Trinity College."

"There is a spirit in every institution that makes for good or for evil, but I have never yet found an institution of any kind whose spirit for wholesomeness, and good is as fine as that of Trinity College. That spirit, permeating through the men of the Western Conference, has made it what it is today. Not only has it remained in the college, and with the alumni of the school, who go out, but it is a contagious spirit, and has been caught by the laymen, and the preachers that have never attended the college. It is a great power working for good in the world."

"That spirit is typified in one line of a song I heard some time ago," said Dr. Rowe. "The entire line was: 'Follow truth as blind men long for the light.'" Trinity College has always been known as an institution that follows the truth with undying courage and fidelity. The first president of the college was known as "Truthful John." "If you want your boy shielded from the truths of this life, if you don't want him to know the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, don't send him to Trinity College," he declared.

Trinity College is strong in faith and conviction, he declared. It stands like the rock of Gibraltar, against the storms that beat upon it from the outside world. Storms of new thought, of atheism, of heresy beat upon the walls of that old institution, but when their lightnings and winds have ceased to crash and rear, Old Trinity is still there, just as she was before, unshaken.

"There are some $4,000,000 worth of property at Trinity College, and thank the Lord there are no strings tied to it," declared Dr. Rowe. He then went on to show just how some of the other schools in the country are hampered with gifts of money with a string here and one there. Trinity has nothing of that kind, he said. Such a spirit is not in keeping with Methodism, he declared. "Methodism is tolerant, promoting mutual good will; Methodism is not too critical, it is peaceful. The very formation of the doctrines of the church call for tolerance, and there will be nothing but peace now."

Going back to Trinity College, the speaker declared that Trinity College is not going to turn off after the new theology. There will be no new standards in that school. Trinity College is looking for peace, "but if we are driven, if we are attacked, we will fight," he declared.

Closing his interesting and effective address, Dr. Rowe declared that there is one place in all the world in which he feels secure at home. "If all the world should turn against me: if I should be turned out of my church I could still get on the train; ride down to Durham; take the car to Trinity College, and when I had gotten off of the car and passed between those giant gate posts, I could lay myself down upon the grass of the campus of Trinity College, secure in the knowledge that none could make me afraid there."

"At least," prints the Stamford Advocate "the sleeveless gown has added to the store of human knowledge. Who ever suspected that there were that many skinny arms?"

Duties of Parents in Compulsory-School Law.

Attention is called for the benefit of parents to the following provisions of the State compulsory school attendance law:

Section 1. Every parent, guardian or other person in the State of North Carolina having charge or control of a child between the ages of seven and fourteen years shall cause such child to attend school continuously for a period equal to the time which the public school in the district in which the child resides shall be in session.

Sec. 2. Any parent, guardian, or other person referred to in section one of this act, violating the provisions of the aforesaid section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be liable to a fine of not less than five dollars ($5) nor more than twenty-five ($25), and upon failure or refusal to pay such fine the said parent, guardian, or other person shall be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days in the county jail.

There is no desire to work any hardship on any community. The object is to secure attendance first, and not to make the law so stringent as to work a hardship. It is well known that in the trucking season, of the year the assistance of the older children in many cases is necessary. Moreover, at certain times during the cotton-picking season the assistance of the children is necessary. In other sections of the State agricultural demands may be such as to make the assistance of the older children necessary. But it hardly can be said that the children under ten years of age can be of much assistance, either in the cases of farm or domestic needs.

All absences due to the consent or indifference of the parents shall be considered unlawful absences. Such absences shall not be construed as truancy, but as violations of section 2 of the compulsory attendance law.

Parents who refuse to comply with the health regulations of a community, such as compulsory vaccination, thereby causing their children to be excluded from the school, are responsible for the nonattendance of their children and come within the provisions of section 2 of the compulsory school law.

Orvis Brothers and Company Cotton Letter

New York, Oct. 23.—The cotton market seeks an airight proposition inasmuch as heavy sales fail to make but slight impression upon quotations. Ready demand appears as each offer is made and to all indications people absorbing the sales are powerful. The floating supply of contracts in this market has dwindled to small proportions and built for the occasional appearance of one trader or another who is willing to liquidate a more or less important line together with such hedge sales as come into the market there is but little resistance to a continued perpendicular rise of quotations so it seems. Frost over the entire northern portion of the belt strengthened bullish confidence and continued demand in Liverpool he leading foreign market at the higher range of prices was also encouraging especially in view of the announced increase of spinning by Manchester. It shows that for one cause or another traders are willing to manifest their great confidence in ultimately higher prices by continued accumulation of spot cotton and contracts despite the fact that spinners claim and probably experience a severe disparity between cotton and cloth. It is certain that the quantity of supplies is an immovable fact until a new year comes around but the price level at which spinners may dispose of their products is movable and to all appearances the public will be forced to pay the bill for higher cotton. GETS PLEASANT SURPRISE

"About 6 months ago my father was very sick with his stomach, which had been troubling him for several years. Three doctors said he had cancer and one said it was gall stones—all agreed an operation necessary, but on account of his age I was afraid to risk it. I told a friend about it who said his wife had been through the same trouble and had been cured by taking May's Wonderful Remedy. I at once bought a bottle for father and he is now as strong as a bear and can eat more ham and cabbage than 3 men." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Gibson Drug Store and druggists everywhere.
