Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The rough and rocky road which must be traversed by the Democratic National Convention, as compared with the smoothly-rolled Coolidge thoroughfare down which the Republican delegates raced at Cleveland, can best be appreciated after a bird's-eye view, revealing a few of the bigger boulders and deeper ruts which will impede progress at the New York meeting.

The first big barrier is the traditional Democratic requirement of a two-third vote to nominate.

With 1093 votes in the convention, this means a minimum of 728 must be brought together behind one man before there will be a nomination. This is 182 more than would be needed for a straight majority choice. And if a majority is difficult to achieve, as is demonstrated in Republican conventions when the race is close to the field, how much more difficult is accumulation of an additional 182 votes above a majority!

In analyzing the Democratic lay-out, on the eve of the convention, it is necessary to see just where the respective candidates stand in the way of instructed delegates.

McAdoo leads the list in this respect with a total of 297. Of this number, however, only 144 are obligated to stick by him, through thick and thin until he either is nominated or his name is withdrawn from the convention.

The remaining 153, while "instructed" for him, are free to go wherever they may desire after the first ballot.

NEXT to McAdoo, the largest block of "instructed" votes will be those for Governor Al Smith of New York. Al has a total of 143, of which 90 are supplied by his home state. These and the 10 from Rhode Island are directed to stay by him till victory comes or defeat overwhelms them. The 25 votes from Wisconsin also are counted on to stick, though they are not unalterably bound. The remaining 17 may, if they choose, desert after one ballot.

More than one-third of the delegates—422 to be exact—are bound up by no instructions whatever. This number, however, includes Indiana's 30 votes, which will go resolutely for Ralston through many ballots. It is out of the remaining 392 votes, then, that McAdoo and Smith must build up their initial strength to make an impressive showing in the get-away.

THE remaining 236 votes will be held through the early balloting by 11 favorite son entries, as follows:

- Underwood of Alabama, 24.
- Robinson of Arkansas, 18.
- Saulsbury of Delaware, 6.
- Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas, 20.
- Ritchie of Maryland, 16.
- Ferris of Michigan, 30.
- Silzer of New Jersey, 23.
- Cox of Ohio, 48.
- Glass of Virginia, 24.
- John W. Davis of West Virginia, 16.
- Kendrick of Wyoming, 6.

OF this number, Underwood, Glass and Davis of West Virginia will draw from the first from the list of "uninstructed" delegates, as will Ralston. The remainder are likely soon to drop from sight in the shuffle.

Should the long-drawn balloting bring an admitted impasse to McAdoo and Smith, the best bet is picked as somewhere in the trio of Ralston, Glass and John W. Davis.

THE DAIRY INDUSTRY IN NORTH CAROLINA

Vast Opportunities Lie Within Bounds of the State.

Raleigh, June 21.—Vast opportunities in the development of the dairy industry lie within the bounds of North Carolina, according to statements made by the officials of the National Dairy Association in the invitations sent out over the country for the annual convention of the dairymen of America at the National Dairy Exposition to be held in Milwaukee during September 27th to October 4th.

Indications are, says the statement, that many thousands of persons will attend the exposition, of which a good many are expected to come from the South.

Officials say that untold opportunities lie in the development of the South dairy field and point specifically to North Carolina as a very productive field.

For a time it was feared that the interest in dairy farming in the South would be limited to the duration of poor prices for cotton, it was said, but now that cotton is selling at a good price and the interest in the development of dairy farming seems to be only at its beginning and increasing steadily, it is felt that activities of the North Carolina farmer and others of the Southern states will continue.

The officials pointed out that the South had succeeded in spite of its handicap of not having pure bred stock with which to begin. They added that the location of sales centers for such stock in the South had increased rapidly and that now the stock in the South in certain groups was of the highest breed.

A compiled report shows that in 1923 the South produced 65,000,000 pounds of creamery butter and that North Carolina produced 2,000 pounds of this amount.

U. S. Gloze Fliers Have Hard Journey.
London, June 22.—A dispatch to the exchange telegraph from Rangoon, British India, says the American round the world fliers experienced difficulties in the journey between Bangkok and Burma, particularly when crossing the Siamese mountains where they encountered air pockets and had to fly through dense clouds.

The dispatch adds that Capt. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the squadron is suffering from an intestinal disorder contracted at Tavoy, and that this condition is delaying the departure of the fliers from Rangoon.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

Jay-Walking Dangerous.

Have mercy on the jay-walker. When he ja-walks in the middle of the block he has to watch traffic from two directions only while at the corners he often has to watch it from four directions.

Then too on one-way streets the jay-walker has to watch traffic from one direction only. But when the one-way street jay-walker gets into a strange city where one-way streets are unknown he must take care he isn't run down because of his failure to look both ways.

Jay-walking is encouraged when pedestrians are not permitted to cross streets before cars are instructed to make turns.

Jay-walking is especially dangerous because the driver naturally does not expect to encounter pedestrians in the middle of the block in the middle of the street but accident statistics show that the pedestrian may be anywhere any time.

Heat Kills a Mule and Exhausts Cattle.

Chester, S. C., June 20.—In the sun this afternoon mercury soared to 120 degrees. In the shade it registered 100. In the Halesville section of Chester county in the shade it shot up to 106. Today and yesterday have been two of the hottest days in June experienced here in many years. Heat killed a mule near Chester and many were so exhausted that they had to be taken from the fields in various sections of the county.

Two Safes Blown By Yeggmen at Greensboro.

Greensboro, June 22.—Yeggmen today blew two safes in the general store of A. T. Brown, at the Pomona mills here, and secured about $400 in cash, as well as valuable papers. Buffed explosions were heard early this morning and the robbery discovered during the day. Bloodhounds were secured from Asheville, but the thieves have not been caught.
