This attractive new sweater has an addition out of the ordinary in the shape of a roll collar of black satin which fastens half way down the front with white pearl buttons. It is much easier to get into than the regulation slip-over model, and the effect of the black on the white wool is very striking.

New Hospital Soon Will Be Completed.

Charlotte, Jan. 12.—The Mecklenburg board of county commissioners with each day bringing its greater burden of detail in their new courthouse plans, view with relief the rapidly approaching term when they will be able to turn the new $100,000 Mecklenburg tuberculosis hospital over to a board of governors and have it off their hands. It is now estimated that the hospital building will be completed within the next forty-five days.

Chairman B. Neal Hood said last night that the commissioners will probably name the governing board at the next regular meeting and will depend on the members of the new board to advise with them in equipping the hospital. Patients, it is thought, will be under treatment there by June 1.

The new hospital, while not as large as some of the Southern institutions for the tubercular, it is declared, will be as well equipped as any such hospital anywhere.

It will contain wards to accommodate 96 white patients and 24 colored patients.

Ex-Asheville Woman May Go to Congress.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—While Kentucky members of the House generally were inclined to withhold comment as to her chances for the nomination, other members of Congress today expressed a positive opinion that Mrs. John A. Langley, formerly of Asheville, will be nominated and elected to succeed her husband in Congress.

Mrs. Langley is like her husband a Republican, her father the late Representative James M. Gudger, of the Tenth District, was a Democrat. Langley has announced that he will serve the two years sentence imposed upon his following his conviction for conspiracy to violate the National prohibition laws without any further appeals for rehearing or executive clemency.

Members who know the Kentucky situation, especially in Langley's will be nominated. Two men announced their candidacy prior to the resignation of her husband. Langley was and still is very popular in his district. Southern members of Congress with a few exceptions entertain high regard to him.

MOTHERS' AND DAUGHTERS' POW-WOW GREAT OCCASION

Eclipsed in Attendance and Variety of Program Any Similar Event.

Eclipsing in attendance, interest and variety of program all similar events in Concord, the Mother and Daughter Pow-Wow at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night afforded an evening of rare pleasure to the more than 150 mothers and daughters present.

The musical program was a very ambitious one, and at the same time a most democratic one, ranging from difficult and classical concert harp and violin numbers to the jazz of the Charleston. Such artists as Miss Kathryn Riggs, of Washington, Mrs. Janie Patterson Wagoner, of Concord, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Roy Peery, of Salisbury, S. Kay Patterson, of Concord, Mrs. Nell Herring Correll, of Concord, and little Miss Dorothy Mallard, of Charlotte, were heard and seen in pleasing numbers, their selections offering concert harp solos by Miss Riggs, violin solo by Mr. Peery with piano accompaniments by Mrs. Peery, vocal solos by Mrs. Wagoner with lute obligato by Mr. Patterson and piano accompaniment by Mrs. Correll, and interpretive dancing by Miss Mallard.

The music came after a splendid dinner prepared by Mrs. W. A. Foil and Mrs. L. E. Boger, during which snappy songs and modern parodies were sung by members of the girls' Hi-Y Club. One of the members of the club, Miss Helen Dayvaut, was presented with a box of candy by Secretary H. W. Blanks, of the Y, for her persistent work in selling the greatest number of tickets to the dinner.

The evening was given over almost entirely to the splendid musical program, as only two speeches were made. One was a toast to the daughters, given by Mrs. C. F. Ritchie, and the other was the response to the toast, given by Miss Mary Cannon. In her toast Mrs. Ritchie told the present day daughters that she had full confidence in them despite the fact that their manner of living is different from the customs that prevailed when she was a girl. Her toast follows:

Dear Daughter Girls:—And that is every one of us, for even though God saw best to take mother away from some of us long, long years ago, we are still, at heart, her precious child just as when she tied our little shoes and comforted our girlish sorrows.

The daughter heart is the most beautiful thing in this old world, the sacred power that keeps things sweet and wholesome, that makes sunshine and happiness out of small pleasures, that finds a way to lighten sadness and discouragement and sorrow, that comes with tender hands and willing feet to give service in any and every place where help is needed.

We older daughters who have learned something of life, have lived to the place where with one hand reaching into the infinite we seek for the comforting clasp of a vanished mother hand upon ours, with the other hand we try to hold secure and safe the lovely girlish fingers, that, by God's sacred gift, we are privileged to guide and train so that they will be skilled to carry on, with us and after us, our share of the world's work of good and useful living.

Let us believe in our daughters as we wished our mothers to believe in us. Let us discourage with emphasis the suggestions we hear and read in almost every paper and magazine, that our daughters, the young women of our state and our country, and even our own town, are less good, less womanly, less trustworthy than the young women of other days.

Dear Younger Daughters: I believe I can pledge you the word of every older sister-mother-daughter here. We do believe in you. We are coming to realize that the conditions and customs amidst which you are living are different from the condition of our girlhood lives. You are doing many things differently from the way we were taught, but the entire world has undergone change and is still changing, and who can say that many of your ways may not turn out better than our ways? You dress more sensibly than we dressed. You care for your bodies more intelligently than we knew to do. You live and eat in a more sanitary way. You play more sensibly. The world is before you to choose what you will do with your freedom, your opportunities and your development. I have faith to believe that you will make good.

No one has ever yet gone through the world without making mistakes. We older daughters have made many and many, and some of them pretty serious ones. We must not expect our daughters to follow in our faulty footsteps for it is only by the difficult path of experience that they will learn to live well. The heart that encourages is ever more helpful than the word that condemns.

It is difficult to decide whether youth learns more from age, or age more from youth. Each helps the other. Each needs the other. It may be that the Father's wise plan of putting us in classes together as mother and daughter succeeding mother and daughter for endless generations reaching on into eternity is the better way to bring to each one of our daughters here tonight Christ's spoken words, "Do ye unto others as ye would that they should do to you."

In her response, which was addressed to "mother, the fairest, the best, the kindest and the gentlest," Miss Cannon quoted a delightful poem of three children who told of their love for their mother. Two made promises of aid but failed to keep them, but the third worked and toiled about the house to make the tasks of the mother easier, making easy, said the poem, the mother's choice as to which child really loved her most.

That the Charleston, the dance which is sweeping the country, holds interest for adults as well as youngsters, was demonstrated when little Miss Mallard gave her fine interpretation of it. Persons sitting back from the center of the floor climbed into their chairs so as to catch the full swing of each of the many steps danced by the youthful artist. Music for the dance numbers was rendered by Mr. Peery, whose fine interpretations

KANNAPOLIS BEATS LANDIS HIGHS IN BASKETBALL

Locals Stage Spirited Rally to Sweep Invaders Off Their Feet—Landis Never Able to Recover Lost Ground—Fowler Shows Up Well.

BY JAZZY MOORE—Kannapolis, Jan. 13.—Landis high school and Kannapolis staged one of the prettiest exhibitions of basketball seen in sometime, and until the last moments there was no telling who would win, but in the last eight minutes Kannapolis piled up a big lead and won 16 to 8. The score had been tied at 8 all and it was then that Kannapolis staged her rally and by some dazzling passing and accurate goal shooting broke the deadlock and copped the game.

Landis had superior passing skill and time after time rushed the ball to the goal only to miss the basket. On the other hand the locals had the better aim and when they did try they were more successful. Practically every goal scored by the Mitchem men was scored from deep court, as the visitors were air-tight around the shadows of the baskets.

Lottie Fowler was the brilliant marksman for the local highs. This energetic little forward rang up 8 points, making some of the most scintillating shots of the season. The nearest approach to his score was that of Deal, for Landis, who registered 4 points.

Captain Harrison did some masterly floor work in maneuvering his team. Kannapolis takes to the road Wednesday night, meeting Welcome at the Erlanger Y. M. C. A. in Lexington.

Substitutions: For Kannapolis, Nantz (4) for Walton; For Landis, L. Yost for Adams; W. Yost for Correll; Corriher for Fleming; Referee: DeMarcus (Penn. State). Scorekeeper: Smith (Kannapolis Hi). Time 20 minute halves.

made the work of the dainty star easier. The full program for the evening was as follows: Invocation—Rev. C. H. Trueblood, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Luncheon a la de Foil. Pep Soup. Singing Hi Y Girls. Toast to Daughters—Mrs. C. F. Ritchie. Romance by Hasselman. Largo by Dvork—Miss Kathryn Riggs. A Daughter's Reply—Miss Mary Cannon. "Beloved" by Neidinger. "By the Waters of Minnetonka"—Mrs. Janie Patterson Wagoner. Flute obligator—S. Kay Patterson. A Spanish Dance—Miss Dorothy Mallard. Souvenir by Hahn. Will-o-the-Wisp by Hasselman. The Foundation by Fann—Miss Riggs. The Charleston—Miss Mallard. Chanson Triste, by Tschnikowsky. Adoration by Borowski. Minuet in G—Rob Roy Peery. Piano accompaniment by Mrs. Peery.

MRS. THOMPSON DEAD AT HOME IN CONCORD

Passed Away After Brief Illness.—Funeral Services Were Conducted This Afternoon.

Mrs. Max Louise Thompson, 70, died Tuesday night at 11:55 o'clock at her home on Kerr Street after an illness of three days, death resulting from paralysis.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home and burial was made at Oakwood cemetery, Rev. M. E. Hansel officiating.

Mrs. Thompson was born in Caldwell county on April 23, 1855. After her marriage to J. M. Thompson she moved to Concord where she has lived since at her home on Kerr street. She has been a faithful member of Second Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are four children: Mrs. Joe Helms, Mrs. C. H. Ritchie, Sam Thompson, all of Concord, and Frank Thompson, of Asheville. Four grandchildren survive Mrs. Thompson.

HIGH GIRLS IN GAME OF BASKETBALL TODAY

Practice Match Arranged With Sunderland Sextet at School Gym This Afternoon.

The Concord High Girls will have their first opportunity to meet an opponent when they strike the Sunderland Hall team at the High School Gym this afternoon at 4 o'clock in a game arranged for practice for both teams.

It is thought that the local girls are unusually strong this year. Miss Margaret Virginia Ervin having taken charge of the work of coaching. A number of the members of last year's sextet have returned and some new material has been added to the team. A tryout is planned for subs this afternoon so that an indication as to the strength of the underclassies as well as of the head-liners may be obtained on the important game with Salisbury Friday night.

A special police regulation prohibiting girls of more than twelve years of age and women from wearing short skirts has just come into operation in Athens. The maximum shortness permitted is twelve inches from the ground.
