GORGEOUS GOWNS ENHANCE POLA'S BEAUTY ON SCREEN

Star in Latest Production Shows Fashion Trend in Styles and Jewelry.

In her new Paramount starring picture, "A Woman of the World," which opens at the Star Theatre Thursday, Pola Negri introduces Parisian styles that smartly dressed women will decree in jewelry.

"Combining the fashionable short evening gown with a train effect is one of the new style ideas. This is a formal evening dress of white satin, solidly embroidered with pearls and rhinestones. It has a fan-shaped front of chinchilla suspended from the skirt by chains of rhinestones and pearls.

Very wide bracelets are the new order. The narrow bracelet is automatically passe. Jewels are correct with anything in wear for women under the evolving style regime. Miss Negri wears seven bracelets on her left arm and one on her right arm with the satin evening gown. She also wears a pearl and diamond pendant suspended from a chain of marquis-cut diamonds, a marquise-shaped diamond solitaire of fifty-nine carats, two other solitaires of forty and twenty-eight carats respectively, and two huge pearl solitaires. These are her own jewels and are valued at a great figure.

In one scene she wears an afternoon frock of white mousseline de soie posed over a slip of bois de rose satin, that is very fetching. At the waist is a huge black velvet bow held in place by a bar pin of diamonds.

Ultra-rich is an ensemble coat of black velvet and black satin sewed together in longitudinal strips with a collar and cuffs of ermine and seal worked together. With this she wears black Russian boots. The dress worn beneath the coat is plain black velvet.

Her negligees are gorgeous creations. One is of gold cloth upon which is appliqued black velvet in long points. Around the hem of black velvet is a heavy band of links. The sleeves are long floating drapes of black soufflé. Another is a Du Barry negligee of cream lace over which is worn a rose velvet coat edged with a cascade of lace. She wears a heavy rope of pearls with the negligees.

Her hats are exceedingly smart. One is a little Watteau hat of rose satin garnished with silver flowers and black velvet streamers. Another is a little black felt hat covered with a Chinese design of bits of eggshell in geometrical pattern. The "egg hat" is remarkably chic and effective.

Star Theatre Thursday and Friday, special.

CENTRAL CHURCH MEN HOLD FINE MEETING

Get-Together Meeting Favored One of Most Interesting in History of Local Church.

More than sixty men of Central Methodist Church met Tuesday evening for a get-together meeting, the most important result of which was the naming of a committee to draw up plans for a permanent brotherhood in the Church.

D. B. Coltrane, chairman of the board of stewards, and Rev. R. M. Courtney, pastor of the Church, leaders in plans for the meeting, described the affair as "a very successful and delightful occasion," and talks made by several persons present indicated that similar meetings will be held from time to time.

Mr. Coltrane was toastmaster and during the evening told of the work of the board of which he has been chairman for a number of years. He stressed the importance of co-operation between the board and Church members, declaring that such co-operation is necessary for the successful operation and maintenance of any Church.

Short talks were made by Dr. W. C. Houston, J. Lee Crowell, Sr., Howard Collier and Dr. T. M. Rowlette, various phases of the work of the Church and the duties of the members being discussed by the speakers.

The principal address was made by Mr. Courtney, who spoke of "The Privileges and Responsibilities of Church Membership." The Church is the greatest institution in the world, Mr. Courtney said, and every member should realize his duties and appreciate his privileges as such.

"It is inspiring and helpful to be in a group of good men like this, whatever may be the purpose of their coming together," said Mr. Courtney. "This is especially true when that body of men comes together in connection with the work of the Church. It seems to me that the significance of this gathering becomes more apparent when we consider that the Church is the greatest institution in the world. Every other institution or organization that is interesting to the welfare of the race depends for its very life on the Christian church. If the church should for any reason pass out of existence (and I do not mean to suggest that there is any danger that the church will cease to exist) every beneficent organization would go with it.

"Again I want to remind you that the church is the most progressive institution in the world. You may doubt this statement if you limit your observation to some church members or to some individual congregations, but if you take the church as a whole you will see that this is true. If you will study the great forward movements among men you will find the church always leads the way.

"Who blazed the way in education? This morning I picked up my History of North Carolina and looked up a little on education. I turned to the paragraph headed "Early Schools." Here is what I found, as far as our records show, the first school in North Carolina was opened in 1703. In that year Charles Griffin opened up a church school in Pasquotank district. Also it is noted that the Rev. Daniel Earl and his daughter conducted a high school in Chowan. Under this same heading in another paragraph it is stated that a private school was started in New Bern. In this connection this interesting statement occurs, "this school received each year a small gift from the Society for the propagation of the Gospel." The first president of our State University was a preacher of the gospel. "Was not Dr. Wiley, the first Superintendent of Public Instruction for the state, a preacher? Nearly all our great colleges and universities of this country started as church schools.

"Take prohibition. Lots of people are claiming the credit for the eighteenth amendment, but you know that it was the churches that led in this fight. Politicians climbed on the bandwagon only when they saw the handwriting on the wall. I have mentioned only two of the many many movements in which the church has led.

"I was going to talk to you on the privileges and responsibilities of church membership. When you joined the church, the preacher said to you, "We rejoice to recognize you as a member of the Church of Christ, and bid you welcome to all of its privileges."

"I shall not undertake to speak of all the privileges that come to us along with our church membership, but will mention very briefly only a few of them.

1. There is the privilege of fellowship.
2. Another is the help we receive from the means of grace which alone we can get to enable us to live right. It is a privilege to belong to an organization that has helped tens of thousands to fight successfully the battles of life. Not many people live the Christian life outside of the church.
3. The church furnishes a fine field for co-operation in service.

There are obligations of church membership, for privilege brings with it an obligation.

1. Our first obligation is to live so that we shall not bring reproach upon the name of the church.
2. Faithful in the discharge of duties. Someone has divided church members into three classes: reliable, liable and unreliable.

"Ask yourself this question: 'What kind of a church would this church be if every member were just like me?'"

Made by a trio composed of Price Duggs, Dr. Rowlette and W. B. Webb proved one of the most interesting features of the evening.

In addition to the excellent speaking program a meat and salad course was served by the women of the church. The ladies were given a hearty vote of thanks for the very excellent dinner.

The meeting was held in the auditorium of the Sunday School building, being the first meeting of laymen in the building since its completion last year.

Those present included: J. C. Bodschneider, R. A. Brewer, Ernest W. Bigger, H. W. Black, Sidney E. Buchanan, Howard E. Collier, D. B. Coltrane, David Crowell, J. Alex. Caton, Ben H. Craven, J. TRIPS BANNED AS OUTLAWS IN THE UNITED STATES

Cedar, Barbary, Black Currant and Rosehip Harbor Enemies of More Useful Growths.

Manchester, Guardian.

The cedar tree, the barbary, the black currant, the rosehip—these blithely repulsive citizens of the vegetable kingdom—are nowadays banned as outlaws in certain areas of the United States.

Their fall from grace is due to the discovery of the part they play in harboring and fostering enemies of more useful growth. The cedar, for instance, often carries a parasitic gall known as the cedar apple. When this is ripe it gives off spores—quartz-like seed particles that ride away on the wind.

These spores show a special fondness for any apple trees that happen to be planted in the neighborhood. Settling on these trees, they multiply rapidly and produce a disease, the so-called "cedar rust," which makes the fruit undeveloped and unmarketable if it does not actually kill the trees themselves.

One county in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia has lost 100,000 barrels of apples in a single year on account of the cedar rust.

Post and Flag's Cotton Lettins.

New York, Jan. 18.—There has been a slightly easier tone to the market today with some hedge selling and more or less profit taking by recent buyers but offerings on the whole have been well absorbed and even if demand does not follow advances it is well in evidence on moderate recessions. Trade advices on the whole are satisfactory, indicating that a large amount of goods are wanted and will eventually be taken although buyers influenced by the size of the crop are disposed in some instances to hold off in hope of cheaper prices for material to be received in better portunities to secure goods.

The danger in such a situation that mills will restrict themselves to work full schedules and accumulate goods, the prospect of which will encourage buyers in their policy of delay in the hope that these accumulations will presently be offered at bargain prices.

As far as possible mills should limit operations to filling orders and not indulge in the policy of disorganizing a prospective demand by having on hand the goods to meet it and if it materializes. Spot advice are bullish showing a good demand for all grades at firmly held prices and no pressure to ease. A market without reactions would be as rare as a white blackbird but the better policy still seems to utilize such reactions for purchases.

AUGUSTUS CICERO BARRIER BURIED AT MT. PLEASANT

Civil War Veteran Laid to Rest—Was in 82d Year and Was Eminent in His Town.

Augustus Cicero Barrier was born February 2, 1843 and died January 19th, 1926, aged 82 years, 11 months, 17 days. He was the son of Daniel and Nancy Matheson Barrier. In early manhood he was confirmed in St. John's Lutheran Church, Cabarrus County, and transferred his membership with many others to found a new congregation—Holy Trinity—at Mt. Pleasant, N. C., in which he remained a faithful and useful member until death. In May 1860 he was married to Jane Rosena Shipcock, daughter of Col. John and Christina Miller Shipcock. To this union were born six children, Ernest E., Mrs. E. M. Dry, Hugh W., Howard M., Mrs. C. R. Shankle, of Albemarle, and Whitfield A. All are living except Ernest and Hugh. In June, 1925 his faithful wife preceded him to the spirit world.

Mr. Barrier is survived by four sisters, Mrs. L. I. Lentz, Mrs. M. E. Welch, Mrs. M. C. Bowman and Mrs. C. G. Helig, all of Mt. Pleasant; one sister, Mrs. Dr. L. R. Rose, died shortly after her marriage, and one sister, Mrs. W. M. Miller, of Jefferson, S. C., who died about 13 years ago. The late Capt. W. A. Barrier, of Charlotte, was his brother, and also Lawson Whitfield Barrier, who died a young man, and George L. Barrier, who died at the age of 48.

Mr. Barrier was one of the first students in Western Carolina Male Academy at Mt. Pleasant, which in 1859 was changed to N. C. College. He was in school there when our State came into the Union. The thought of ending her days as a pauper, dependent upon the county for food and shelter, was too much for her, however, and her heart failed to stand the strain.

Rocky Kansas, the new lightweight champion, is an Italian-American. His real name is Rocco Tozze.

WORN AND FEEBLE DIES ON WAY TO POORHOUSE

Aged Woman of Rockingham County Said to Have Suffered Broken Heart.

Madison, Jan. 18.—When Miss Lizzie Mabe, old, toilworn and feeble, started over the hill to the poorhouse from here Sunday she embarked upon a journey that, though not long, was destined never to be finished, for when about half way between here and the county home she sank down in her seat and died before aid could be given her.

For the past 15 to 20 years Miss Mabe had made her home with a family in this place, but becoming too old and decrepit to work, she was about to be placed in the county home to spend the rest of her life. The thought of ending her days as a pauper, dependent upon the county for food and shelter, was too much for her, however, and her heart failed to stand the strain.

NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO COUNTRY CLUB

Membership of Club Almost Totals Hundred Now—Social Program Is Arranged.

Renewed interest in the Cabarrus Country Club is reported as a result of the campaign for members which is being conducted now. The campaign is not an organized one, but President J. A. Cannon and other officers have secured quite a number of new members during the past several weeks and others are expected to join in the near future.

As a means of continuing interest in the club during the winter season, when activities at the club house and on the golf course are somewhat hindered by weather conditions, a series of social entertainments have been planned. The first was the square dance held at the club house several weeks ago and the second in the series is the bridge party to be held at the Merchants and Manufacturers Club Friday evening.

It is planned to continue these entertainments through the remainder of the winter.

Kiwans to Celebrate Its Eleventh Anniversary

The Concord Kiwanis club will join in with the 1450 other clubs of Kiwanis International on the North American continent to observe the 11th anniversary of the organization's founding during its recognized anniversary week of January 17-23.

The announcement made by Howard Collier, Secretary of the local club today.

"Our club's program will be under the direction of the Committee on Kiwanis education, and will include several numbers that are to be featured by all the clubs throughout the United States and Canada," said Mr. Collier. "With the 95,000 Kiwanians celebrating the 11th anniversary it is hoped that the general public will become acquainted with Kiwanis' many achievements, accomplishments, and work during the past 10 years."

The first Kiwanis club was organized in Detroit, Michigan, and the first meeting was held on January 21, 1915. The International organization therefore recognizes January 21 as the authentic anniversary date.

Kiwanis International has had a remarkable growth. Its present number of clubs exceeds 1450 and has a total membership of more than 95,000. John H. Moos, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is International president, being elected at the 9th International convention in St. Paul, Minn., last June. The 1926 convention will be held in Montreal from June 7-10. Two delegates from the local club will attend the annual session.

Skiing may be called the national sport of Norway, its native country. From the royal family down to the poorest peasant it is a delightful and passion. The King and Queen are both adepts in the sport, to say nothing of young Prince Olaf, who is a past master in both running and jumping.
