

Approves Campaign.
Statesville, Feb. 6.—Concord Presbytery, in called session held yesterday afternoon, approved recent action of the board of trustees of Mitchell college in initiating a campaign to raise $60,000 this year to meet the needs of the institution. The college has no endowment and it is to maintain its present standard it must have an annual income of at least $50,000 to meet requirements. Presbytery authorized the trustees to raise for the institution $60,000 which would be equivalent to the income from an endowment of $100,000.

Escaped Tragedies of Sea in War and Drums From Cannon.
Owls Head, Maine, Feb. 7.—During the world war, Eric Haggard served on two transports which were torpedoed. In each case he escaped. Today he was drowned within sight of his own home when his little boat, laden with lobster traps, capsized in the heavy surf.

LOCAL MENTION

A. J. Shinn, of No. 5 township, is seriously ill at his home, according to a report received here today.

Members of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Corbin street school are asked to meet at the school tomorrow afternoon at 3:15.

The week-end just closing has been one of ideal weather. Spring temperatures prevailed Saturday and Sunday, with not a single cloud in the sky.

The War Mothers will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. E. Ridenhour on West Depot street. The meeting will be an important one and all members are urged to be present.

A large delegation from the Concord Y. M. C. A. plans to go to Gastonia this month to attend the Old Boys Conference. The dates for the conference are February 26, 27 and 28.

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following couples: Garner Verble and Miss Martha O. Miller, both of Concord Route No. 6; and T. Fred Robinson and Miss Pauline Canup, both of Kannapolis.

Health pictures will be shown by Dr. S. E. Buchanan, county health officer, at the meeting of the Georgeville Community Club Tuesday night. The meeting will be held in the schoolhouse beginning at 7 o'clock.

Funeral services for Jack Songer, of Miami, Fla., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ridenhour, of Concord, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Miami. Mrs. Ridenhour left Concord Saturday to attend the funeral.

Members of the various Hi-Y clubs of the city are planning now for a masquerade Valentine party to be held next Tuesday evening at the Country Club. Various stunts and other entertaining features are being arranged for the event.

Hundreds of motorists crowded the paved highways in and around Concord Sunday. Weather conditions were ideal for motoring and auto owners took advantage of the low temperatures and bright sun for pleasure drives about the county.

Persons who are interested in volleyball purely as an exercise, are invited to join the men's team to be organized tonight at the Y. M. C. A. Men of the city who formerly belonged to such classes are especially invited to join the class tonight.

Figures taken from the Concord Standard of April 5, 1922, show that low middling cotton was selling then for 6 3/4 cents, middling at 6 cents, good middling at 6 1/4 cents and stains at 4 1/2 and 5 cents. The figures were quoted by Cannon and Fetzer.

On Sunday, February 21st, a Sunday School Institute will begin at Central Methodist Church to continue for a week. The institute will be sponsored by Central Methodist Church and the First Presbyterian Church. The full program will be announced later.

Eight cases are to be tried in recorder's court this afternoon, police officers announce. Most of the defendants are charged with violation of the prohibition laws, including operating cars while intoxicated, having liquor for sale, having liquor and being intoxicated.

Practically all of the grammar grade teachers of the county were in Concord Saturday for the conference with Prof. J. B. Robertson, superintendent of the county schools. Matters of peculiar interest to the grammar grades were discussed at the meeting which was held at the court house.

The Sunday School Council of Central Methodist Church meets in their church tomorrow (Tuesday) night at 7:30 o'clock. All teachers and officials of the Sunday School are asked to attend the conference which has been called at the direction of H. L. Collier, Sunday School Superintendent of the Church.

A committee from the local chapter of DeMolays has asked that an "Older Boys Gang" be organized at the Y. M. C. A. for boys between the ages of 16 and 20. It is probable that the "gang" will be organized by Secretary Blanks of the Y who has been told that between 60 and 70 members are ready to join now.

Major Kenneth E. Caldwell, Inspector General of the North Carolina National Guard, started on his annual inspection tour today. The companies in Greensboro are to be inspected tonight and tomorrow night. From Greensboro he goes to High Point, Raeford and Wilmington. The tour will be completed April 30th.

Rehearsals for "The Gondoliers," the comic opera to be given Friday night at the High School, are progressing very nicely. Concord is to have the opportunity to see and hear some of their favorite home talent actors and actresses. Mrs. Pickard, Mrs. H. G. Gibson, Mrs. Ernest Robinson, Miss Elizabeth Woodhouse, S. A. Wolf, E. E. Ridenhour, Jr., W. J. Richards and newcomer to our town, Dr. T. M. Rowlett, are among the principals. The choruses by the high school boys and girls are as snappy as though they were done by professionals. All in all, it will be a very creditable performance.

SAVING MONEY A HABIT AMONG NEW ENGLANDERS

Habit Formed by Necessity—Leads in Savings Bank Deposits.
Boston, Feb. 6.—Saving money is a habit among New Englanders. It is a habit formed by necessity, which accounts, in a large measure, for the fact that this section, despite its lack of natural resources in the way of ores or fertile soil for agriculture, leads the nation in the average savings bank deposits per person.

Seven per cent. of the country's population, lives in the six states and in their savings banks are 16 per cent. of the total deposits. Fifteen per cent. of the total number of depositors live here.

The need of the New Englander to save with him from the time the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, said Joseph H. Soliday, president of the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts. The climate of the Plymouth colony was such that the Mayflower's passengers were immediately faced with the fact that they had to make provision for the winter if they were to exist. The very nature of the situation demanded that they save.

"From this need came the habit," continued Mr. Soliday. "I know of hundreds of cases where persons living the simple lives of their neighbors have left estates of $250,000 or more. In your New Englander the thrift habit is ingrained. William A. Gaston, a Boston millionaire banker, for years maintained the account and pass book his father bequeathed him. It is a custom of long standing to open a trust savings account for each child at birth. The pass book, at the child's coming of age, is an impressive object lesson in thrift."

And, Mr. Soliday pointed out, the saving habit is no less fixed in the foreign born who have come to New England.

In addition to the fundamental and natural causes for saving, the habit has been made attractive in New England. It was in 1816 that the Mutual Savings Bank plan was launched in Boston and Philadelphia simultaneously. In Boston a group of citizens met in a coffee house and formed the Provident Institution for Savings in the town of Boston. Some $80,000,000 are now on deposit in that bank. The limit of an individual's deposits was set at $500 because "the object of the institution is to aid the poorer and muddled classes of society." Seamen and soldiers were advised to deposit their prize money, it was the days of privateers, and the bank was suggested for the use of a young man intending to marry at a future day, and young women who may expect to change their condition.

As New England became increasingly industrial the mutual banks kept pace. They are still a benevolence. There are no stockholders and the trustees serve without pay. The profits, with the cost of operation deducted, are returned to the depositors in dividends. They also have had the effect of obtaining a higher rate of interest to depositors in commercial banks. The average rate in Massachusetts is more than 4 1/2 per cent., as against the 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 paid where commercial banks have the field to themselves.

"City life, as well as industrial conditions, make for larger savings," said Mr. Soliday. "People living in cities are in a more rapid procession. They save to educate their children or to improve their homes so as to keep up with the others. There is more class distinction than in the country and therefore more competition."

Mr. Soliday cited figures of the American Bankers' Association which showed that on June 30, 1925, New England led the country with $473,462,000 in savings banks per capita.

Past Week Dull Period in New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, Feb. 7.—The cotton market has been more dull during the past week than during any like period in a long while. This lack of trade has been due to the absence of any speculative interest from the market owing to the practically immovable character of the nearest cotton, the slack spot demand and the sharp falling off in exports. Statistics have been against the market particularly the large stock at ports and in the interior but there has been little incentive to sell the market short because of the conditions prevailing in the options of the March and May.

That the position of shorts in the near months is uncomfortable is evident as the long interest in those months is in strong hands and the small certificated stock precludes the idea of any extensive liquidation of contracts by actual deliveries. There is little prospect of increasing certificated stocks as a considerable part of the unmarketed cotton is of lower grade than can be tendered on contracts and there is no inducement to tender high grades, particularly staples, owing to the premiums such cotton command in the spot market.

While prices moved but little in the early days of the week, they improved later on the coverings of March and May shorts. March on Friday advancing to 19.00, or 28 points above the close of the previous Saturday and May trading up to 19.85 or 31 points up. Some of this gain was lost in the final trading, but the undertone remained comparatively firm and the close on Saturday showed a net gain for the week of 10 points on March and 14 on May.

There would seem to be little prospect of any material change in the situation until March and May commitments are liquidated or the developments connected with the inception of the new crop season warrant a change in the existing conditions. A radical reduction in acreage or an unpropitious spring would be needed to create a new view point with respect to supplies.

8,000 MILL WORKERS OUT

Plants Open For All, Says Official, But Employees Object to 10 Per Cent Wage Cut and Hold Parade.
New York Mirror.

Eight thousand textile strikers, many of them women, yesterday paraded the streets of Passaic, N. J., in protest against the 10 per cent. wage cut ordered by employers last October.

The strikers were employees of the Botany Worsted Mills, the Garfield Worsted Mills, the Passaic Worsted Spinning Co., and the Gera Mills. The Gera employees struck in sympathy with the workers of other mills a few days ago.

Banners carried by the strikers read: "We want our 19 per cent. back" and "Shoulder to shoulder we'll win." Four women with baby carriages led the parade.

Other banners carried by the strikers read: "Wage cuts mean throat cuts"; "Why can't we have enough to eat?"; "Coal is $22 a ton, our wages are $20 a week"; "Reward for 40 years in the textile mills—Strike?"; "Slaves of the mills—awake!"

immediate demand for new crop positions on the dips which was attributed largely to continental account. Relatively steady Liverpool cables accompanied by reports that continental was buying spot cotton out of the Liverpool stock and of a well maintained demand for cotton goods in Manchester, naturally helped the tone of the market here. Some selling was reported on the advance, however, which was supposed to be based on the falling off in exports since the first of the year and expectations of increased spot offerings in the south with the advance of the new planting season. Recent arrivals at New York have included a few small lots of consigned cotton, but the certificated here has been reduced to about 42,000 bales.

TODAY'S EVENTS.

Monday, February 8, 1926.
One hundred years ago today died Francis Kinloch, a noted South Carolina soldier of the Revolution and a delegate to the Continental Congress. Sixty-five years ago today a provisional Constitution was adopted for the Confederate States of America by the convention at Montgomery.

Gradna Eliza Nusbaum, 55, who has confessed to plotting the murder of her husband because of her youthful affinity, faces trial with her four co-defendants in Chicago today.

Hearings to develop the facts in the bread merger case involving the Continental Baking Corporation of Baltimore, charged with being a monopoly, will be started by a Federal Trade Commission examiner in New York City today.

The Commissioner of Agriculture of Texas has called a general conference of farmers to meet at Dallas today to discuss plans for a better system of farming and marketing and to encourage the reduction of the cotton acreage during 1926.

Weekly Cotton Summary.

New York, Feb. 5.—After remaining comparatively quiet during the early part of the week the cotton market became more active with prices advancing on an increased demand for near months. This was attributed largely to covering by March or May shorts, however, and after selling up to 20.50 for March 19.92 for May the market showed renewed narrowness. It looks as if the more urgent demand for the months had been supplied on the advance and when the buying tapered off, prices reacted under realizing or re-selling by earlier buyers. Buyers were probably disappointed by the failure of the advance to bring in a more general demand. The offerings were comparatively light, however, and there was enough buying on the dips to give the market a fairly steady undertone toward the end of the week. The near month covering movement, as it was most generally referred to, was attributed to the near approach of March contract maturity, combined with the recent steadiness of both spots and futures in spite of a comparatively small business. The feeling appeared to be that a higher price might be found necessary to attract tenderable cotton here from the south for delivery next month, but at the advance trade interests seemed willing to sell March quite freely against purchases of May at a difference of 58 points. This supplied the demand for March, apparently, and after the covering of May shorts had run its course there seemed little demand aside from some scale down buying to fix prices for the trade in the near months and

THE BEST SYMPATHY

It is only human for a funeral director to feel sympathetic in the presence of bereaved patrons. But it is real sympathy when he recognizes an obligation to see to it that the highest character of burial equipment is furnished at honest prices. Such a policy has been responsible for the success of this concern.

Typical of the burial equipment furnished by us is the Clark Grave Vault, recognized as a leader in the vault industry, because it gives positive and permanent protection.
