COUNTRY CORRESPONDENCE

FAITH.

Here is a letter we just received: Kannapolis, N. C., Feb. 16, 1926. Dear Venus, Faith, N. C., Route 3: Inclosed find one dollar for which send me another jar of your eczema salve. Send it at once.
MRS. N. C. BURGESS,
N. Poplar St., House 834.
P. S.—As I am about out, my boy has eczema on his leg and it is about well, but my salve is about out, so send it at once. It sure is good. He went to a specialist but it didn't do any good but your salve has about cured it.
Here is a letter we received today: Salisbury, N. C., Feb. 16, 1926. J. T. Wyatt, Dear Sir: I have a violin in good condition with name and date inside as follows: "Nicholaus Amatus in Cremonafiet, 1622." Can you beat it?
Respectfully,
I. A. KIDD,
119 S. Caldwell St., Concord, N. C.
The other day in Salisbury a man gave us a lead pencil and here is what was printed on it: Salisbury Marble Company, manufacturers of memorials of quality, 117 West Fisher St. We received by mail today two lead pencils and here is what was printed on them: Farquhar York, Pa., manufacturers engines, boilers, saw mills, threshers. It seems like everybody knows Venus all over the U. S. The Stanly News-Herald of Feb. 16, 1926, has over a column of Venus items on page 2. Look them up.

Mr. L. H. Berrit, of Lexington, N. C., motored to Faith today expressly for a dollar jar of eczema salve. His baby has a spot on its cheek and was suffering. He is a fine young man and is with the Water Works Co., of Lexington, N. C.
When the granite quarry business was started here by J. T. Wyatt there was no derrick to be seen anywhere. Now there are hundreds of them all along the granite belt.
Here is a letter we just received: Dear Venus: I saw in your items where a man has a fifty cent piece dated 1811. I have one dated 1809. This fifty cent piece was found when they were tearing down the old depot in Salisbury several years ago. So if you can beat it trot out your 50-cent piece.
Respectfully,
CLAUD BOSTIC,
Harrisburg, N. C., R. F. D. 1.
Where is Harrisburg?

Venus suggests that the correspondents get up a picnic. What do you all say. Wouldn't that be nice?
The Concord Times and the Daily Tribune both had two sets of Venus items in this week's issue and everybody is reading it here while it is raining and they can't work at the quarries.
The Sunday issue of the Arshehor Violets the correspondent from No. 7 township, says: Venus, Mr. Cephas Honeycutt has had two sets of triplet lamps. Can you beat that. We give it up. That beats us.
It has been raining here for the last few days and nights and the ground is full of water.
We heard from our old friend, Mr. Henry Blue, one of the old Civil War Veterans. He lives in the country out from Concord.
VENUS.
