IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

DR. CAMPBELL'S FRIENDS WOULD DO HONOR TO HIM

Reported Here That Determined Effort Will Be Made to Elect Him State Republican Chairman.

W. M. SHERRILL

It became known here Thursday from what seem to be reliable sources, that eighth district friends of Dr. J. H. Campbell, of Norwood, are waging a quiet but determined fight to land for him the chairmanship of the State Republican executive committee.

Just who is leading the fight for the Norwood man, seems a little hazy, but one of his admirers while in Concord Thursday spoke emphatically in commending him, and added that the eighth district, was entitled to the honor this year.

Dr. Campbell is not the only candidate. J. J. Jenkins, of Siler City, is said to have the backing of Marion Butler, and other men of prominence in the Republican party are said to be supporting Dr. J. D. Gregg, of Liberty, Charles A. Jones, of Lincolnton, and B. C. Campbell, of Greensboro.

W. G. Bramham, the present chairman, told members of the committee several weeks ago that he would not accept the post again. He finds it impossible to give the time the work demands. It may be that friends of the Durham man will persuade him to change his mind when the State convention meets in Durham in April, but there seems little chance of this. That's the reason friends of the announced and unannounced candidates are so active.

H. S. Williams, member of the Concord bar is a member of the executive committee, but he is not talking about Mr. Bramham's successor.

Friends of Dr. Campbell, or at least the friend who was sponsoring his cause here Thursday, declare no man in the State has worked harder to do more for the Republican party than Dr. Campbell. "He came nearer getting to Congress than any other Republican in the eighth district has been able to do in a dozen years," this friend said, "and besides he has always been active in this district. Republicans are about as strong in the eighth as any district in the state, and we are entitled to some consideration."

Dr. Campbell opposed Robert L. Doughton for the seat in Congress from the eighth district in 1922, and he waged a bitter fight. After the votes had been counted and Doughton was found the winner, the Norwood candidate entered a protest, alleging unfair methods at the polls and some other irregularities. Despite the fact that Congress was controlled by Republicans, the committee which heard the contest declared Mr. Doughton the winner, and that Dr. Campbell had not got out of it was some publicity and a certain amount of money which is allowed to every defeated candidate making such protest.

So far as is known here no meeting of eighth district Republicans has been held for the purpose of formally endorsing any candidate. But the friends of Dr. Campbell are hard at work, however, is indicated by the fervor of the supporter who was here Thursday, passing his praises to all with whom he talked, and whooping up his candidacy in a rather dignified but just the same emphatic manner.

Mr. Bramham's successor is to be chosen at the Republican State convention which meets in Durham on April 8th.

SAYS MASSACHUSETTS IS NOT THE SOURCE

Demand For Women Survey Was From Women Leaders of State.

Greensboro, Feb. 25.—Reports originating in Raleigh that the call for a survey of "woman in industry" in North Carolina may be the work of textile interests in Massachusetts, jealous of the growing ascendancy of North Carolina textile business, do not seem to be supported by the facts in the case. The local Congress of Parents and Teachers, by means of a formal resolution adopted at their meeting, called for such a survey, and none of the members of the Congress owns any cotton mill stock in Massachusetts.

According to Mrs. W. H. Swift, of this city, who, in addition to being a member of the local parent-teacher organization, is president of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers, two other organizations of North Carolina women had already asked for a survey of this kind, and so far as is known not one of the members of those two organizations owns any cotton mill in Massachusetts. They are in North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs and the Young Women's Christian Associations.

Mrs. Swift, who offered the resolution to the local Congress of Parents and Teachers, explained that a survey had been requested of the State Welfare Commission, but it replied it had no money with which to do the work, although it had planned such a survey. Then, she said, the women's bureau of the federal government was asked to do the work. It had the funds but explained that it did not like to make such a survey unless requested by a state agency. The resolution called upon the State commission to invite the federal bureau to make the survey.

Governor McLean then stated that he was opposed to outsiders making such a survey; that North Carolina could do her own surveying. He also stated that he had not been asked to authorize one. Later came the story from Raleigh, quoting Frank Grist, state commissioner of Labor and Printing, as being of the opinion that Massachusetts textile interests were at the back of the whole thing, being jealous of the textile business in this State and willing to do something to hamper it.

Apparently the women of the State beat Massachusetts to it. Mrs. Swift, in her brief talk to the Congress of Parents and Teachers here said that under certain conditions girls of 14 years of age are allowed to work in North Carolina plants and she was asked by a 14-year-old girl being called a "woman in industry." She did not refer to the cotton mills or single out any particular industry.

TOM DRAKE IS ARRESTED BY CONCORD OFFICERS

Arrested on Warrant From Stanley, Charging Participation in "Dad" Watkins' Murder.

Another arrest has been made in the "Dad" Watkins case, one of the most mysterious and important that has developed in Stanley county in many years.

Tom Drake is the newest defendant in the case, he having been arrested by city police officers here Thursday night at the request of Stanley county officers.

Drake came to Concord Thursday, it is said, and during the afternoon secured work at the Hartsell Mill. He began his work when the night shift went on duty at 6 o'clock, and had worked but three hours when officers arrested him. He was traced through relatives here with whom he ate supper.

Officers said Drake talked but little after being arrested. When told by the officers that he had been arrested for alleged participation in the Watkins murder, he is quoted as saying he could prove an alibi.

Local officers said the Stanley officers did not divulge the evidence they have against Drake. They have been working on the case for several months and three other persons are being held in connection with the death of the old man.

The others under arrest are Carl Sweet and wife and John Gray. The latter was to have been given a hearing in Albemarle this week but at the request of the solicitor it was postponed. Stanley officers, according to information from Albemarle, have refused to divulge any evidence they have secured as effecting any of the persons now under arrest.

Watkins, it is charged, was killed several weeks ago and his body placed in a barn which later was burned. At the Gray hearing the specific charges against him are expected to be brought out, and at the same time charges against the other defendants also may be brought to light.

Drake is said to have been a frequent visitor in Concord, a number of his relatives living in mill villages near this city. He was traced to this city when a friend passed him on the road Thursday and a rised officer that he was headed toward Concord.

DISCUSS INSTITUTE TO BE HELD IN THIS CITY

Merchants Tell Something of Work to Be Done and Speaker Who Will Deliver Sessions.

Concord merchants are showing unusual enthusiasm over their institute which will be held here in March. They are laying plans for one of the most interesting and useful undertakings in the history of the city.

One merchant in discussing the institute stated that the primary aim is "to assist directly local merchants in planning trade extension constructive community work. In addition to this, the institute consists of intensive short courses in salesmanship, personal efficiency, advertising, business management and control, and kindred allied subjects."

J. W. Grist, general manager of The Retail Merchants Institute, of Chicago, has been secured to lead the discussions at the local institute.

"Under the general direction of Mr. Grist, nearly one thousand towns and communities throughout the country have had their business conditions analyzed and the constructive program recommended by him," another Concord man states.

"It is seldom that an individual is found with a combination of successful business training and marked ability to speak in public," said Mr. Grist, "we have this rare combination. During the years of his extensive travel in forty states and eight provinces of Canada, he has gathered a vast amount of vital information for those who want to enlarge their individual business and develop the community in which they live."

"Mr. Grist's lectures treat, in a general way, of the need of practical training along the lines of community development, co-operation, trade extension, salesmanship, advertising, personal efficiency and organization work."

EARL CARROLL DENIES WINE BATHING STORY

Countess of Cathcart Says Party Was Entirely Proper; Start Inquiry.

New York, Feb. 24.—A party given by Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, at which it was reported in published accounts that wine had been served from a bathtub, in which a nude chorus girl reposed, was the subject today of two investigations. Police commissioner, McLaughlin took steps to determine whether there had been a display of nudity and prohibition agents sought to learn whether a bath-tub full of wine had been served.

Approximately 200 guests attended the party, given Monday night in the Earl Carroll Theatre.

Mr. Carroll issued a flat denial of the bath-tub wine report. He said the party was entirely orderly, and one which any man, even a minister might have, with propriety, attended with his wife.

The Countess of Cathcart, who attended, said that if there was any bathing done, it took place after she had left the theatre.

"While I was at the party nothing occurred to which any one could take the least exception," she said. "It was a wonderful party; I have never seen anything like it. We do not have such affairs in England."

"There was a bath-tub," Mr. Carroll said, "but there was nothing but ginger ale in it and nobody took a bath in the ginger ale. The only thing the guests had to drink besides this ginger ale was near beer and no one was intoxicated during the party."

LAWING TAKEN TO SHELBY TO ANSWER TO CHARGES

Lawing, Alleged Thief of Meat in Cabarrus County, Will Face Court Charges in Shelby before he can be brought to this county for trial.

This fact was learned Thursday when a warrant issued by J. T. Brooks, of No. 10 township, charging Lawing with the theft of meat from the Brooks farm, was sent to Spencer where Lawing was arrested several days ago with a load of meat. Local officers with the warrant were advised that Lawing had already been taken to Shelby, persons of this county having issued warrants for him charging the theft of meat found on the truck at the time of his arrest.

Meat was stolen recently from a number of farms in this county and officers have expressed the opinion that Lawing was a member of a gang which stole the goods. A companion with Lawing in Spencer escaped when he saw the officers approaching, and it is believed that at least four men were in the party that carried off a majority of the meat from farms in this and adjoining counties.

FIND STOLEN GOODS AT HOMES OF THREE BOYS

Articles Taken From Homes on East Depot Street Recovered By Local Officers.

Thursday night a Mr. Womack who lives on East Depot street told Chief of Police Talbirt that a watch, locket and fountain pen had been taken from his home recently and that he had reason to believe they had been stolen by Floyd Richardson, negro boy.

Chief Talbirt went to the Richardson home, where Floyd told him that he had given the goods to Earl Bell and Buddy Swanson. Later the officers went to the Bell home, where he found the watch. The Bell boy, he said, told him that he did not have anything else.

Then Chief Talbirt went to the Swanson home, and although he could not find Buddy, he found the locket and pen. The locket, Chief Talbirt said, was being worn by a negro girl he thought, and the pen was found in the bottom of a trunk.

The three boys are too young for trial in recorder's court so they have been turned over to J. H. Brown, county welfare officer.

Chief Talbirt said he had been advised that the Richardson boy had entered a number of homes on East Depot street and later had returned to their owners some of the goods he had taken.

The famous Bonanza gold mine which laid the foundation of the great fortune of John W. Mackay, James G. Fair and their associates, paid $100,000,000 in dividends in the five years between 1874 and 1879.

TRAINING SCHOOL HERE WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Daily Attendance of 200 at Training School For Sunday School Workers.

The final session of the Standard training school for Sunday School workers will be held in Central Methodist Church tonight at 7:30.

The school began Sunday afternoon with sessions each night this week. The school has been held under the auspices of the Methodist and Presbyterian denominations in Concord and a daily attendance of about 200 has made the school one of the most successful ever held in Concord.

Persons who have attended the sessions regularly as members of the various classes being conducted by the leaders will be awarded certificates which will be presented Sunday morning.

The certificates will be presented by pastors of the Churches of which the students are members.

In addition to those persons who are taking regular courses in the school, a number of visitors have been present during the week.

A social session will be held after the final business session tonight.
