FRIEZE-RAYMOND

Miss Katherine Raymond Becomes the Bride of Albert Freeze at High Point Church.

A High Point special to the Greensboro News gives an account of a wedding in this city, in which Concord and Cabarrus people will be interested. The groom's father is A. M. Freeze, of Mooresville, but formerly of this county, and E. W. Freeze is a brother. The account of the wedding follows:

Miss Katherine Raymond was wed to Albert Freeze here last night in a ceremony of unusual brilliancy. The wedding occurred at 8:30 o'clock before a large crowd of people in the Wesley Memorial church.

It was an American Beauty wedding. The color of this flower was the motif of the whole scheme of decoration. The chancel of the church was banked with tall fern and smilax festoons. In the background were baskets of American Beauty roses and sprays of pussy willow, and eight white candleholders holding lighted candle candles.

A charming musical program was rendered before the bride and groom entered. The first members of the bridal party to enter were six guests of honor, who took their seats on either side of Dr. E. K. McLarty, the officiating minister.

Four ushers entered, followed by pretty bridesmaids and groomsmen. The dame of honor was Mrs. Hugh Black, of Spartanburg, S. C., bearing Ophelia roses showered with buds.

The bride entered with her father, Harry Raymond, and was met at the altar by Mr. Freeze, attended by his brother, Edward W. Freeze, as best man. Dr. McLarty performed the impressive ceremony.

The bride was lovely in an exquisite wedding dress of white satin trimmed with duchess lace and embroidered in pearls and white satin roses. Her veil was of Brussels lace over tulle and was arranged like a halo, studded with pearls, and the tulle veil was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried bride roses, lilies of the valley and orchids.

O. E. Mendenhall was master of ceremonies. After the wedding a brilliant reception was held at the home of the parents on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeze left during the evening for a bridal trip north. After ten days they will be at home to their friends in their apartment in the Madison, on North Main street.

Last night's bride is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raymond. She attended school at St. Mary's in Raleigh and at Salem college, in Winston-Salem.

Mr. Freeze is the son of A. M. and the late Mrs. Freeze of Mooresville, but has made his home in High Point for many years. He is vice president of the Cannon & Fetzler Company here.

Thursday night, March 4th, will be held in the No. 2 school. So much interest has been aroused in the matter, it is said, that a centrally located meeting place had to be chosen as well as a building large enough to comfortably handle all those expected at the meeting.

It is planned to organize a team that will be superior to any of teams that has represented the Gibson community in the past, this despite the fact that the community has boasted of some of the fastest semi-pro teams in the State.

One son, Richard Johnston, is the only near relative that survives. Pecan Planting Week. Raleigh, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The week of March 8-13 has been designated "Pecan Planting Week" by the North Carolina Pecan Growers Society of which W. N. Roper, of Raleigh, is secretary.

The society is composed of the principal growers in the State. It is a fostering organization with no regulatory power and its purpose is simply to stimulate the production of pecans in this state by pointing out the natural advantages North Carolina offers. It also has for a purpose to keep its members advised of methods of planting and of marketing conditions.

"In the past," it is pointed out by Hugh N. Curran, forester for the State department of agriculture, which co-operates with the society, "the greatest trouble has been due to unscrupulous salesmen who sold seedling trees as budding stock and undesirable varieties which would not fruit in this zone and to root-grafted trees which were winter-killed in this climate.

"Pecans can be successfully grown from Salisbury to the coast." clubs of North Carolina and South Carolina and 34 clubs are expected to be represented at the convention. "Tabl" is one of the "original" words being used (words made out of the initial letters of words forming phrases) and means, "Towards a better Ireland."
