IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

EVOLUTION DISCUSSION HAS PART IN PENTUFF ACTION

Case Will Be First Civil Action in State Growing Out of the Evolution Discussion. The suit by Dr. J. R. Pentuff, of this city, against The Raleigh Times, its owner and editor, is the first civil action growing out of the evolution discussion, in North Carolina. Facts brought out in the case since notice of the suit was made public, show that Dr. Pentuff wrote to the Times on March 3rd, serving notice that suit would be brought. The Times accepted the challenge without comment. The editorial which is the basis of the complaint discussed Dr. Pentuff's activities in behalf of evolution, so this mooted question forms the background for the suit in which damages to the amount of $25,000 are sought.

The Raleigh bureau of The Greensboro News in an article dated March 23, said under a Raleigh date-line: "Expected suit of Rev. Dr. J. R. Pentuff, Concord pastor, against the Raleigh Times, John A. Park, publisher, and Oscar J. Coffin, editor, got in the papers today."

"For two weeks it has been known that Dr. Pentuff was making demand on the paper which chose to stand pat and is now in for a hearing in the old home of Gaston Means, which old home can stage a great trial when occasion demands. This will be the first civil action growing out of the evolution discussion, or lack of it, in North Carolina."

"Mr. Pentuff led the assault on evolution when the Peobe bill came up before the education committee of the 1925 house. Chairman H. G. Connor presided and had the big folks here. Mr. Pentuff made the long speech, which consisted of a demolition of Darwin. After the opponents of the bill had their inning, Mr. Pentuff desired to ask some questions. The first reference of the clergyman so displeased the pastor that Chairman Connor rebuked him publicly. But the evening of the whole was very interesting."

"After going back to Concord, Dr. Pentuff challenged Dr. W. L. Poate to join the discussion, according to Wake Forest people, but the Wake Forest people did not desire to enter a prizefight in the state. Recently the Concord pastor came to Wake and lectured at Fuquay Springs on evolution. The result of the series was a resolve on Fuquay's part to carry evolution into county politics, asking legislative candidates how they stand on the issue and determining to support none who will not back a bill to put down evolution in the schools."

"The Times was editorializing on this episode when it offended Dr. Pentuff."

Brock Barkley, writing to The Charlotte Observer from Raleigh and discussing the case, said summons in the case had not been served on the owner and editor of The Times after Tuesday afternoon. It was further stated in the Barkley article that The Times probably will discuss the case editorially this afternoon. The article in part says:

"The Raleigh Times, John A. Park, publisher, and Oscar J. Coffin, editor, had not been served with summons or complaint today in the suit for $25,000 damages for libel brought in Cabarrus superior court by J. R. Pentuff, Baptist minister of that city."

"Neither Mr. Park nor Mr. Coffin had any statement to make tonight, though it was announced The Times would make editorial comment on the action tomorrow afternoon."

"The article to which the minister took exception appeared in the paper of the issue of February 23, a day after a mass meeting of citizens in Fuquay Springs. Wake county spurred on by Mr. Pentuff, had adopted resolutions proclaiming their purpose to vote for those candidates only who would pledge themselves, to support anti-evolution legislation in the 1927 general assembly."

"Mr. Pentuff, The Times, announced this afternoon, served notice on the paper and its management of his purpose to bring suit on March 4."

Secures Option on Local Mill Property. (BY JAZZY MOORE)

Kannapolis, March 23.—John S. Carpenter, of Kannapolis, was in Concord yesterday looking over the Corbiter Mill property with the view of organizing a furniture company to be known as the Colonial Furniture Manufacturing Company to manufacture antique furniture.

Mr. Carpenter has an option on the property and stated he would capitalize at fifty thousand dollars providing the Concord people would subscribe for ten thousand worth of stock. Mr. Carpenter understands furniture and knows how to market it, which is the big end of all manufacturing concerns.

JOHNSTON LEADS IN BALES COTTON GINNED

Robeson Second. With Nash a Close Third—Figures For This Section. Final figures on cotton ginnings by counties in North Carolina for the 1925 crop show Johnston county still well in the lead in the amount of cotton ginned, with Robeson county second, Nash a close third, Halifax fourth and Wake fifth. The figures, compiled by the bureau of the census and just received here, are preliminary, the bureau says.

The total for the state, previously announced, is 1,146,500, as compared with 700,147 for the 1924 crop, and the figures for counties, of course, in most instances, who a like increase over 1924.

The figures for both 1925 and 1924 for each county in this section follows:

Marion Davies' Latest Real Treat for the Flappers. Good morning, girls! If you want to get something on grandma, see Marion Davies in "Lights on Old Broadway," a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayr, at the Concord Theatre Thursday and Friday.

Your blood has tingled many times when you have seen Conrad twisted about his little finger in a manner that would make it seem he were double-jointed.

The lovely Marion flaps quite ardently and beautifully, even if she uses more antiquated methods than is the mode of today. She has some of the 1871 style of sheiks going flippings and landing kepklung right at her feet.

She's demure and all that, but she exercises her wiles in an even deadlier manner than she does now—and she has poor Conrad Nagel twisted about her little finger in a manner that would make it seem he were double-jointed.

Evening Papers to Have CAPITOL NEWS BUREAU

To Be Established in the Sir Walter Hotel at Raleigh Early in April. The evening newspapers of North Carolina will inaugurate a new departure in journalism in early April with the establishment in the lobby of the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh of a State Capitol news bureau, to represent twenty or more leading afternoon papers, of which The Concord Daily Tribune is one.

The service of the bureau is designed to give more complete coverage of news events happening in the capitol, both political and general, and to provide the 600,000 readers of the papers represented with news of particular interest to them which is not of sufficient general importance to go on the Associated Press wires.

The bureau has been in operation for several weeks, but arrangements have just been completed with B. H. Griffin, manager of the Sir Walter Hotel for the use of space in its lobby.

This is a peculiarly strategic position, since the Sir Walter is the meeting place for politicians and others of importance from all over the state. Next to the office of Governor Angus W. McLean, more important events transpire, or are planned, in this hotel than in any other single place in the state, and The Tribune bureau will be in the heart of it all.

Current issue of all of the papers represented will be on file at the bureau and Concord citizens who are in Raleigh for a day or longer are invited to keep up with events in their absence by visiting the bureau daily and reading The Tribune.

As soon as remaining details can be cleared away, probably by April 1st, the bureau will move into its new quarters.

"Reckless Lady" Cast Headed by Ben Lyon, Belle Bennett, Lois Wilson, Kirkwood, Sherman and Murray. Film fans are expected to be able to find their favorites in the cast of Robert T. Kane's First National picture, "The Reckless Lady," now at the Concord Theatre today only.

Belle Bennett, Lois Moran, Ben Lyon, James Kirkwood, Lowell Sherman and Charlie Murray head the all-star cast. The film is an adaptation of the Sir Philip Gibbs novel of the same name. Thomas Holding, Marcia Harris, Julia Hurley and Edwin August complete the cast.

"The Reckless Lady" tells the story of a great love between mother and daughter and of the sacrifices of the former to preserve the happiness of the latter. The majority of the scenes are laid in Monte Carlo, the playground of the world. The colorful and spectacular carnival procession, with its gayly decorated floats and its hundreds of people in an unheard-of variety of costumes, figures prominently in the picture.

Sada Cowan, who prepared the scenario of Kane's "The New Commandment" and Howard Higgin, who directed it, served in the same capacities in the present picture.
