NEWSPAPER ADS BEST

Studebaker Official Tells Results From $2,000,000 1925 Campaign.

Declaring that the newspaper is the best advertising medium for the sale of automobiles that has yet been discovered, Paul G. Hoffman, vice-president of the Studebaker Corporation of America, in addressing 300 New England salesmen of the company at a luncheon in Boston, last week, urged dealers to advertise liberally in order to increase their sales.

He declared that the Studebaker company last year spent $2,000,000 in newspaper advertising, and that the 1926 advertising campaign would be even greater. He said advertising would create a greater market and therefore greater profits. He warned against using occasional copy, saying continuous copy is the only kind that is worth while, as the cumulative effect of consistency will bear fruit next year and the year after.

Some Next Friend Slightly Off-Key.

Raleigh Times.

We quote from The Salisbury Post:

"The Raleigh correspondent of the Greensboro Daily News says that Mr. L. T. Hartsell, of Concord, has been selected to make the keynote speech at the State Democratic convention April 29th. That ought to please every one, for the Concord man is clean, able and above partisan strife which would make others objectionable."

To which we would promptly and vigorously assent; but we see by the morning papers that Chairman John G. Dawson states that he has not mentioned the matter to Mr. Hartsell, but that another keynoter has been tentatively agreed upon. When Tom Bost turned up the report as to Hartsell we noted with interest that he cited Salisbury people as his authority. Having heard another man honorably mentioned for the assignment and being, perhaps, slightly off-key, anyhow, it was in order for us to register resignation and await developments.

They'll be coming, and if some of the more vocal friends of Mr. Hartsell reach the ear of a reporter while the thing is fresh in their minds, there will probably be a protest against newspapers and maybe one against the Capital correspondent of The Greensboro News personally.

This lends us up to the statement that if occasionally a statesman back home is embarrassed a bit by being touted for a job that does not materialize, it is almost always the fault of some friend of his who has come to Raleigh and attempted some premature publicity.

A match for the English professional billiard championship, between Tom Newman, the present titleholder, and Joe Davis, will be played in London beginning April 19.

INCREASING INTEREST IN REVIVAL SERVICES HERE

Attendance at Central Methodist and Forest Hill Methodist Churches Showing Daily Increase.

The Forest Hill meeting continues to grow in interest. The services held Tuesday were full of interest and good. The morning service, at 9:15, was attended largely by the ladies of the church. At the 3:30 service which is a story hour for children, there were one hundred and seventeen children present. Mrs. Houts held their attention throughout. Children are lovers of stories and Mrs. Houts has a splendid story-telling ability.

The young people's meeting at 7 o'clock was attended by over 100 and Rev. Roy Houts held their attention throughout. He used the 30 minutes to drive home truths needed in young life.

At 7:30 the church was pretty well filled up and they came did not have a chance of going back without something to think about. Mr. Houts preached on II Corinthians 6:14-15: Separating Ourselves From the World and Unclean Things. There can be no fellowship with the work of darkness and at the same time keep alive a vital relation to Jesus Christ. There are certain things which must be left out of a militant Christian life: profanity, drunkenness, gambling, immorality, selfishness.

Naturally some people do not like for the preacher to talk about these things because it gets too close to their peace and way of living.

The Reward of our separation. When we separate ourselves from worldly things and worldly living we can draw others. We give to the world what we are and what we think. God will always be with us, blessing us and using us to His glory.

We shall be sons and daughters of God. The thing we are interested in is in a way look like—we become associated with it. It is a grand thing to associate with Jesus and His work so much that people seeing us liken us with Him. There is a home of happiness for every son and daughter just as he prepares for it.

Home night, sermon on "Home," at 7:30. Parents and children come together.

Thursday night "Law and Order Night." Special invitation given to Masons, Juniors, Odd Fellows, Woodmen and the Ayaks and all the orders of town. You are welcome too.

PASTOR

At Central Church.

The sermon at Central Church last night was on "Prevailing Prayer." Rev. R. M. Courtney, the pastor, read the account of Peter's deliverance from prison in answer to prayer. The text was the fifth verse of the twelfth chapter of the book of Acts which reads: "Peter was kept in prison, but prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him."

The marks of prevailing prayer were pointed out as follows:

First—United. The prayer that effected Peter's deliverance was of the church praying together. Special promises are given in the Bible to those who unite together in prayer.

"If two of you shall agree on earth as touching anything that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven."

Second—Earnest. It is said that the church at Jerusalem prayed without ceasing. They were earnest, importunate in prayer.

Third—Unto God. True prayer is not talking to one's self, neither is it addressing a congregation. In prayer we approach the great God of the universe who is also our Father.

Fourth—Definite. The prayer of the church at Jerusalem was "For 'aim,' for Peter. It was very specific.

God answered the prayer for Peter and still answers prayer. Mr. Courtney gave a number of very definite answers to prayer.

The largest congregation at the morning services so far was present this morning. "The Master's Com-

Cigarettes Ruin Voice, Hempel Warns Girls

Girls who aspire to grand opera or concert careers, and all those who have well-considered opinions as to the relative value of the fifty-seven varieties of cigarettes, will have to choose between singing and smoking, according to the advice of Frieda Hempel, who will give one of her famous Jenny Lind concerts on March 26th at 8:30 p. m. at the Charlotte Auditorium. The prima donna insists that a voice and a cigarette are deadly enemies and thus she warns all prospective singers that their vocal chords are not lubricated to advantage by inhaling.

"Smoking most certainly ruins the voice," says Miss Hempel, "and the would-be operatic star must decide between her art and her acquired pleasure. I say acquired because it certainly is not natural. Careers are often very fragile things and are almost sure to go up in smoke if you blow your rags."

Jenny Lind would doubtless have been horrified at the very thought of girls smoking, career or no career, but for many years a cigar has borne the name of the Swedish nightingale and a Frieda Hempel is soon to follow, if rumors are to be believed.

Miss Hempel is also of the opinion that there will be more home-grown and home-developed opera stars within the next few years, and that Europe will no longer play the leading part in their training.

"There is no need of dashing off to Europe the moment one begins to practise scales," says the soprano. "Some of the greatest teachers in the world are right here in America, and most of them are Americans. I do not under-estimate the good that Europe can do. Europe has centuries of music behind it and Europeans go to the opera as we go to the movies. Singers undoubtedly receive inspiration by even a short visit. But..." and Miss Hempel emphasized the short and effective word into a warning. "...let them go so well equipped that they can intelligently appreciate and discriminate; otherwise, the mass of music may confuse rather than broaden their view. And above all, let them leave their cigarette case at home, or better still, bury it where they will never find it again!"

Mr. Turner was 87 years of age and was born and reared in this county. Although he spent his entire life on the farm he was always interested in all county-wide matters, gave much attention to political matters and was successful as a farmer.

Mr. Turner is survived by three daughters and seven sons as follows: Mrs. Daniel Klutz, Mrs. D. M. Leno, Mrs. James Chaney, all of this county; Cobe Turner, of Texas; Walter James, Paul, William and John, of this county, and Curtis, of Stanfield. The funeral service will be held at Love's Chapel at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The claim has been made that the Chinese were the originators of polo. It is said that polo was played in China during the Tang dynasty, about A. D. 600, and the theory is that the Chinese learned the game from the conquered Tartars.

Entries so far received by a United States Athletic Association, indicate that a large and representative field of runners will start in the annual American marathon, which will take place on April 19th.
