This Actress Wants Action, Not Sympathy. When she's in film. One of the first things the average actress asks when she is offered a part in motion pictures is: "Will the character have sympathy?" But Margaret Livingston, who plays the highly dramatic role of Violet Deering in the William Fox screen version of "Havoc," which opens Wednesday and Thursday at the Star Theatre, is not the average actress. She is far above the average.

Sympathy on the screen means nothing in the young life of Miss Livingston. What she wants is high-powered parts which call for histrionic ability. If they get the much-desired sympathy, well and good; if they don't, well and good anyway.

"I have done the best work of my career in the adventure type of parts," said Miss Livingston recently in discussing the subject. "The 'Chorus Lady' was one of these. I have never gotten sympathy in my parts, but I found I did get attention. And that, in the long run, is what counts. I want parts which will be noticed by the audience. Love interest must be in the picture, but I don't care whether I have it or not. I want to act and if I get the chance to act in a picture, whether I'm an adventuress, bad woman or what, I'll be satisfied."

"My part in 'Havoc' is that of a cold, coddled girl of English society who plays with men's hearts and breaks them just as she might break and discard toys of which she was tired. The audience will not like this girl Violet Deering, but they certainly will notice her. If they do that I will be pleased."

Starkers in the "Havoc" cast are George O'Brien, Madge Bellamy, Walter McGrail, David Butler, Harvey Clark, Wade Boteler, Edythe Chapman, Sulaie Jensen, Leslie Fenton and Bertram Grassby. The picture is from the stage success of the same name. It was directed by Rowland V. Lee and adapted by Edmund Goulding.

The so-called "cold light" of luminous fishes and insects is the result of oxidation, but the heat, possibly less than one-thousandth of one degree, cannot be measured by present instruments.

Big Meeting of Woodmen at Kannapolis Tonight.

Writing in the fraternity page of the Charlotte News Sunday, J. Milton Todd, district Woodmen's officer, had the following about a big meeting to be held in Kannapolis tonight:

"Pinewood Camp No. 302, Woodmen of the World, of Kannapolis, will hold a joint social meeting with its Woodman Circle Grove in W. O. W. Hall Tuesday evening. Hon. D. E. Henderson, of Charlotte, State Head Consul of the Head Camp of North Carolina, will deliver the address of the evening.

"The Kannapolis Woodmen are arranging a very fine program for this evening and expect to have a record crowd in attendance. Mr. Henderson is North Carolina's most enthusiastic Woodman and holds the highest office in the Order from the State. He is one of the best speakers in the State and will have something of the very best to give his audience Tuesday night.

"A number of Charlotte Woodmen are expected to attend the Kannapolis meeting."

Not For Mr. Cannon.

Charlotte Observer.

Yesterday's paper carried a bit of information for which the public—the local public, at least—had been looking for. Mr. Chas. Cannon, who was handed the nomination for the United States Senate by the Republican convention at Durham, declines the honor. The Observer's information from the convention is to the effect that the matter of making nominations for the several offices to be filled was of a perfunctory procedure, the candidates having been named by a few stragglers after conclusion of the Butler fight, when subsequent proceedings interested the main body of the convention no more, and after that body had been largely dissolved. And Mr. Cannon had a mighty good excuse for declining the nomination. He is a man of large business affairs, affairs of a nature which would not invite neglect for mere political activities. Mr. Cannon thinks affairs are going along finely enough, and he advises selection of "some well-known and available candidate" to carry on in his place. It is not suggested that a Republican candidate in this State for the Senate would have the remotest chance of being elected, but the running of a man might help the morale of the party. He attributes the existing prosperous condition of the country in part to the confidence the people have in Mr. Coolidge, which might be taken to mean that Mr. Cannon is a second-term-for-Coolidge man. It would not matter, of course, whether there is a shift in the North Carolina congressional delegation, so that there should be four years more of Coolidge confidence. As for running for the Senate, however, Mr. Cannon, like other sensible men on occasion, is willing to "let George do it."

All Candidates Must File For Primary Not Later Than April 24.

Raleigh News and Observer.

Judge Walter H. Neal of Laurinburg, chairman of the State Board of Elections, has announced that all candidates desiring to enter Democratic or Republican primaries must conform with the law and file notice of their candidacy not later than Saturday, April 24. Two years ago the law was stretched, but Judge Neal has given warning it will be strictly enforced this time.

While a United States senator, a corporation commissioner and four members of the Supreme Court are the only officers to be voted on in the primary by the State as a whole, candidates for Superior Court judge, solicitor and the State Senate, where there is no special arrangement, must file with the State Board of Elections, which has opened offices in the Capitol, with Phillip Busbee, assistant secretary, in charge.

Dr. Wiest Arrives in Concord.

Rev. Edward P. Wiest, D. D., of Columbus, Ohio, arrived in Concord this morning and is located with Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Lyerly on West Corbin street. Dr. Wiest will open a gospel meeting in Trinity Reformed Church tonight. His first message will be on the subject, "The Power of Love." This theme will give an index to the messages he will bring during the two weeks he will be in Concord. Rev. C. C. Waggoner, of Newton, will reach Concord late this afternoon and be ready to lead the song service. He will be entertained in the home of his brother, B. F. Waggoner, on East Depot street. Tomorrow and each day thereafter a service will be held at 3:30 o'clock.

Y COLLECTIONS MET WITH SOME SUCCESS

Canvassers at work collecting back pledges at the Y. M. C. A. had a rather successful day Monday, it is reported.

In most instances, it was said, the canvassers met with a generous response and a majority of the people seen paid all or some of their pledges. In a few cases the canvassers were told that the pledges could not be paid, although they were made in good faith. Circumstances developing since have left the subscribers unable to pay, it is said.

The association building has been closed during the canvass. All attaches of the association assisted in the work and those persons who were not visited Monday will be seen during today or tomorrow.

"We plan to see every man and woman who made a pledge," one attaché of the Y said this morning. "We need the funds to carry on our work and we are going to give every one an opportunity to pay."

Those persons who were not seen Monday or this morning will be seen during the week.

The association building will be opened again tomorrow when the regular program will become effective again.

Bible Story Contest at McKimmon Church.

The following were the winners in the Bible story contest held at the McKimmon Presbyterian Church Sunday:

Group A—Mary Welch Crooks, first; Edna Waddell, second; and Sara Crooks, third.

Group B—Stewart Henry, first; Margaret Brown, second; and Lenwood Brown, third.

Group C—Mabel Henry, first; Wallina Crooks, second; and Fred Brown, third.

The contestants spoke before a congregation that filled the church and the stories were described as among the most interesting told in any contest in the church. This church has always furnished some of the best contestants for final honors and friends of the winners are expecting a most creditable showing for them in the final contests.

To Present Flag and Bible.

The Junior Order and Patriotic Order Sons of America will present a flag and Bible to the North School at Kannapolis Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Several speakers have been secured for the program and members of the two orders are requested to be present.

Members attending are asked to meet at the Y. M. C. A. or the Mary Ella Hall in Kannapolis at 2:30, so they can march to the school in a body.

Moving Sod From Site of New Church Here.

Preparatory to the raising of the house which stands on the site for the new First Presbyterian Church here, sod on the property is being taken up and utilized by members of the congregation.

It is known that the lawn will be torn up while the church building is being erected, so all available sod and shrubbery are being removed.
