

IS PADERWESKI TO BE CANDIDATE FOR HIS FORMER POST?

Noted Pianist and Former Premier of Poland Left New York Without Making Statement.

BERLIN HEARS HE WILL FIGHT

To Be Elected President of Poland So He Can Again Get That Nation on a Peace Basis.

New York, May 22.—(A.P.)—Ignace Paderewski, noted pianist and former premier of Poland, left the Hotel Gotham here he has been confined with illness, this morning to sail for Europe.

At the hotel it was said that Paderewski had given no intimation on leaving what connection there might be between his departure and the present condition of affairs in Poland.

When Paderewski was premier Marshal Pilsudski, who has recently assumed leadership in the country, was for a short period a government official under the musician-Statesman.

Officials of the French Line replied to queries that Paderewski was listed to sail on the liner Paris, but they could not say what his destination would be after landing in France.

Say He Will Be Candidate.

Berlin, May 22.—(A.P.)—Dispatches to the Berliner Tageblatt from Warsaw report that Ignace Jan Paderewski, noted pianist and one time premier of Poland, will be a candidate for president of the Polish republic.

Will Elect President Soon.

Warsaw, May 22.—(A.P.)—A national assembly has been convened for May 31st in Warsaw to elect a successor to President Wojciechowski, who resigned after the Pilsudski military coup.

Will Not Give Destination.

New York, May 22.—(A.P.)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, famous pianist and former premier of Poland, sailed on the Paris today for an unannounced destination while still showing signs of a severe illness which has kept him confined to his hotel for several weeks.

In answer to questions, he said he was not going to Poland but refused to name his destination. He also refused to talk of the situation in Poland since Marshal Pilsudski assumed leadership of the country by force.

"I do not know enough of the facts to say anything," he said. "All I can say is that I deplore stupid bloodshed and I hope that whatever happens will be for the benefit of my country."

No Political Significance Attached to Departure.

Washington, May 22.—(A.P.)—No political significance is attached by the Polish legation here to the departure of Ignace Jan Paderewski for Europe today.

It was said that the pianist had sailed for Morges, Switzerland, where he spends much of his time, and that his trip undoubtedly was on the advice of his physician. M. Paderewski has been suffering from a severe attack of grippe.

Will Revive Evolution Question in Tennessee.

(By International News Service) Knoxville, Tenn., May 22.—The evolution controversy will be revived in Tennessee to play one of the leading roles in the contest for Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

This was revealed when Dr. John H. Neal, of Scopes fame, who has formally announced his candidacy for Governor of Tennessee, laid down some of the outstanding planks in his platform, in which he included repeal of the anti-evolution law.

Other issues on which he will wage his campaign include a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment; abolition of the contract lease system in penal institutions; passage of a law permitting the State and municipalities to construct and operate hydro-electric plants and transmission lines; revision of the tax laws with the end of giving relief to realty and business activity and institution of a state budget system.

NEWTON HIGHWAY CASE

Setting of Definite Date for Hearing Is Being Held Up.

Raleigh, May 22.—Setting of a definite date for the hearing of the appeal before the State Supreme Court in the Newton Highway case is being held up pending an effort that is being made on the part of counsel for the Highway Commission to submit the case on briefs.

Attorneys for the City of Newton agree to this, the case probably will be reviewed without argument on June 27, the date that has been proposed and which will be definitely settled upon if attorneys for both sides of the case agree to submit it on briefs.

Inasmuch as the Supreme Court has completed hearing argument at this time, it is thought that counsel representing Newton will agree to submitting the appeal on briefs, rather than relaying the hearing by insisting upon arguing the case before the court.

Whether or not the Supreme Court would suspend the rule, and permit oral argument in the case at this time, is a question which is being argued by counsel.

ROCK PILE IS IRK SOME TO REV. E. B. MOLL

Writes to Judge Withers, Saying That He Thinks Ninety-Day Sentence Was Too Strong.

Danville, Va., May 21.—Rev. Earl B. Moll is finding the city rock pile irksome. He has penned a lengthy letter to Judge D. Price Withers suggesting that a slight mistake was made in the sentence of 90 days imposed on him for issuing worthless checks.

With the letter he pinned a copy of the new Virginia law which prescribes a penalty of 30 days and said that he failed to understand why he should have been given such a sentence. Since then, however, it has been explained to the former Mississippi minister that the new Virginia check law does not become effective until June 27 and that he was convicted under the old law.

The local authorities say that at the termination of his sentence the minister will not be permitted to leave. He will be held for at least ten days at the disposition of the Mississippi authorities who asked that be done in order to give time for the preparation of requisition papers.

LITTLE WORK TODAY FOR PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Recess Taken During the Morning So Members of the Standing Committee Could Prepare Report.

BUSY SESSIONS DURING 2 DAYS

May Make Change So As to Elect Commissioners to Serve Two Years Instead of One Year.

Pensacola, Fla., May 22.—(A.P.)—Members of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. not members of standing committees found their first opportunity to relax today after two full days of activities.

After the morning session devoted to reports of two standing committees, a recess was ordered until evening to permit standing committees to meet in the afternoon.

Devotional exercises which opened the third day's sessions of the Assembly were conducted by Rev. S. L. Jockel, Waxahatchee, Texas.

Docketed for action early next week is the report of an interim committee recommending that the General Assembly be composed of commissioners elected for two years. If the recommendation is adopted, such Presbyteries will elect one-half of its commissioners annually leaving half the members of each Assembly with experience in the Assembly of the previous year.

Churches May Eventually Unite.

Pensacola, Fla., May 22.—(A.P.)—The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States today continued its work on relations with the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, renewing briefly discussions of possible eventual union of the two churches.

The matter came before the Assembly in a statement from Dr. S. L. Morris, of Atlanta, who with the late Dr. R. G. Reed, Columbia, S. C., formed a committee in existence 16 years, for service in connection with the necessary negotiations and correspondence between the churches.

Dr. Morris directed attention to the fact that the death of Dr. Reed since the last General Assembly had reduced to one the membership of the committee to one.

Dr. J. H. Hill, of Memphis, told the Assembly that a prominent clergyman of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church in his hometown recently had a disposition in some parts of the Church for a union with the Presbyterian Church in the U. S.

ALLOWED TO GO TO DYING SON'S BEDSIDE

North Carolina Justice Is Tempered With Mercy.

Tribune Raleigh Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, May 22.—North Carolina justice was tempered with mercy here when Charlie Jarrell, whose son is at the point of death, was allowed to leave the road camp yesterday and go to the bedside of his dying son in Surry county. The parole was for seven days and Jarrell must return to the camp by May 27.

Short paroles of this nature are not at all usual, and examination of records in the office of the Commissioner of pardons shows, as the State frequently permits a prisoner, when there is serious illness or a death in his family, to return to his home for a few days after which he must return to prison and continue serving his sentence.

An incident was recalled by one of the state officials in this department of a man who was serving a sentence of 15 years in the State Prison here. He had been permitted to go to his home on a short term parole unaccompanied by any guard or prison officials and placed entirely on his honor to return within the given period of his parole.

Two days before his parole expired he appeared at the State Prison. He stated that he had spent a day sooner than required in order to be sure that nothing would keep him from being late.

And this instance is characteristic of the majority of the prisoners who are paroled on their own recognizance. The per centage of violated paroles is so small as to be almost negligible. It also shows what can be done when prisoners are put on their honor," this official said.

Parade of Fashion on Hollywood's Boulevard

Took Peculiar Turn—How Some of the Stars Wear Dresses.

Hollywood, Calif., May 22.—(A.P.)—Fashion's March through the motion picture colony frequently takes a peculiar turn.

A young woman walked down Hollywood boulevard, the scene of sundom's daily "penelope parade," and nearly created a riot because of her startling attire.

Her hair was neither bobbed nor hemmed; she wore a plain muslin dress that neither dragged on the sidewalk nor flapped scantily her knees; she carried her watch on her left wrist, not on her left garter; she did not display the new artificial sun-proof tan. About her neck was a plain string of pearls which did not terminate in a pendant containing a miniature mirror, powder puff and lipstick.

"Bohemians" decided that she must be a product of the farthest backwoods of the American "hinterland" but they were mistaken. She was Esther Blalston.

"Cut them plain, make them simple and omit the frills," was Colonel Talmadge's injunction to the modistes who turned out her spring and summer wardrobes.

Tailored street dresses, tailored suits and tailored tops crowd her clothes hangers. Some of them are almost severe. Several of the suits are of tweed, fur trimmings appear on some, but virtually all the sleeves are plain.

Pastel shades predominate in her evening and formal wardrobe. Blanche Sweet did her stopping in a black Romaine street dress bound in black velvet with pearls sewed on the medium-height black velvet collar. The skirt was straight in back, but its front defied the straight line dictum with a flare. It stopped sixteen inches from the pavement.

Florence Vidor arrived at the studio in a smart gray Kasbah dress, simple, straight, slightly Russian in effect with full sleeves caught at the wrist. She displayed a painted scarf of lemon-yellow and orange in futuristic Russian design. Atop it all was a black sash hat. Grey hose and black patent leather pumps completed the picture.

Beige has found a firm friend in Bela Negri. At an afternoon affair she wore an elaborate beige chiffon creation. Its full, long circular skirt, the sleeves and the edge of the jacket were banded in wide beige fox. Then there also was a beige parasol with a band of the same beige fox. Elaborate Dinners and Over Eating Are Listed Among Our Deadly Sins

(By International News Service) Chicago, May 22.—Elaborate dinners should be listed among the deadly sins, according to Miss Marie K. Johnson, director of the better health bureau, in an address here in which she pointed out the wide-spread modern tendency to overeat.

"No brain worker can consistently eat dinners of five or six courses and expect to live as long as nature planned he should," said Miss Johnson. "It isn't possible. Overeating is responsible for the noticeable increase in the last few years of the 'cardio-vascular-renal disease' or the heart, blood vessel, kidney diseases."

DELLINGER DEFINITELY STARTS FOR THE NORTH

Sure He Will Be Able to Establish His Identity as the Long-Missing Charlie Ross.

(By International News Service) Greensboro, N. C., May 22.—"Charlie Ross, the Philadelphia lad whose disappearance in 1874 went down in crime annals as the unsolved mystery of the century, today left here for the North."

For no longer is his name Dellinger. Identification of the 56-year-old contractor as the faxen-haired cherub who was "kidnapped and brought to Gaffney, S. C., in the same year has been made by J. Frank Gaffney, formerly of the South Carolina town which bears his name."

When the 4-year-old boy was recognized at once by Gaffney, then 24 years old, from photographs which were widely distributed at the time. He asserted then that the boy was the figure in the sensational Ross case, and Gaffney's father, now dead, also insisted that he was the missing Charlie Ross.

All this was brought to light here when Gaffney voluntarily penned an affidavit in which he narrated a series of collateral facts which, it is believed, will dissolve every doubt that Dellinger is not the kidnapped child.

According to Gaffney's spontaneous written story of Dellinger, a man named McHale came to Gaffney with a woman and a boy in September, 1874. Their conduct toward the child, Gaffney said, aroused suspicion and Gaffney and his father were planning to start an investigation. This was foiled, however, partly because McHale spirited the boy away under cover of night, and a few days later he and the woman disappeared.

Gaffney declared he noticed a picture of the missing Charlie Ross in a newspaper along about this time, and he was convinced that the "McHale" child and Charlie Ross were the same. Gaffney declared.

Gaffney never saw the boy again, he said, "until a few weeks ago, when he found him in the little town of Denver. 'He remembered me,' Gaffney said, 'and I recognized him as the little boy I knew 52 years ago.'"

He had been charged with negligently operating an automobile in which he and his half-brother were passengers and in the wrecking of which his half-brother was killed.

Sunday Barbering Not Necessity, Says Gov. Smith, Signing Bill

Albany, May 22.—Gov. Smith has signed the bill forbidding Sunday barbering in New York City and Saratoga Springs. In New York it is limited to 1 p. m. and in Saratoga Springs it is limited to certain months of the year.

"In view of this it is difficult to imagine that it is a work of necessity, because if necessary in New York and Saratoga Springs it should also be necessary in Albany, Binghamton or anywhere else.

"If it is not necessary, men engaged in the business of barbering are just as much entitled as any other citizen to the opportunity for religious observance and the necessary rest and recreation that Sunday affords to all men engaged in lines of business not necessary on Sunday."

WITH HAUGEN-BILL SEEKS SOME NEW MEASURE

Members of House Friendly to Price Stabilization Feature Think It Can Be Passed Yet.

OFFENSIVE PART WILL BE KILLED

Then Haugen-Bill Probably Will Be Presented Again—Want the Democratic Support Then.

Washington, May 22.—(A.P.)—Despite the defeat of the Haugen farm relief bill in the House yesterday, members friendly to the price stabilization measure and representatives of farm organizations conferred today in an effort to frame similar legislation with some of the more controversial features left out.

Several House members from the Middle West said they still believe such a bill could pass if it was modified. Among the provisions of the Haugen measure which they favor dropping was the section basing the prices to be maintained for basic crops at their world market quotation plus the import tariff. One sponsor of the Haugen plan said he was convinced this had cost the bill enough Democratic votes to have assured its passage.

In the revised bill it is planned to eliminate anything that would be construed as price fixing. The proposed federal farm board would endeavor to maintain "adequate prices." The equalization fee on the sales of basic agricultural commodities would be retained as would an appropriation for advances to farm organizations, probably $175,000,000, the amount which the Haugen bill carried.

The conferees hoped to get the compromise bill before the agricultural committee next week and will press for a favorable report.

MARTIN FAILS TO GET USE OF AUDITORIUM

Charlotte City Commission Refused to Let Evolution Debate Be Staged There.

Charlotte, May 21.—An obstacle was thrown in the path today of those arranging for the atheist-fundamentalist debate here on May 31 when the city commission refused to allow use of the city auditorium for that purpose.

Dr. T. M. Martin, field secretary of the Anti-Evolution League of America, is making plans for the debate and announced a few days ago that the society for Advancement of Atheism in America had accepted the challenge.

No indication was given by Dr. Martin as to what site would be sought next for the debate but he has already declared that ministers would not allow it to be held in their churches.

Troubles Never Come Singly.

(By International News Service) Johnson City, Tenn., May 22.—Cliffinger Street, an old mountain town living in a long cabin near here, is a firm believer that trouble, when it comes, does not come singly.

"But let Street tell it: 'I owned a good dog, and he died. I owned several stands of bees, and they died. My cow and my horse died. Then in a few days my wife died. And all this happened in one week.'

And now Street is under indictment for cutting company-owned timber, and he will face trial the latter part of the month.
