OVERCOATS IN GOTHAM AND 100 IN THE DAKOTAS

East and Middle West Present Strange Contrast in Day's Temperatures.

Chicago, May 24.—The East and Middle West today recorded contrasting weather conditions described as "highly unseasonable."

In the Rocky Mountain regions and east to Omaha, extending through the Dakotas, temperatures reached 90 degrees, and above, and in Omaha one man was prostrated by heat, where the maximum was 84 with temperatures of 100 degrees in South Dakota, the severe contrast was found at New York where top-coats were comfortable even if accompanied by straw hats. Ball games were postponed due to the cold.

In Chicago cool weather prevailed and thermometer ranging in the fifties.

Forecasters said the heat wave from the west would creep eastward tomorrow and probably reach the Atlantic coast within the next day or two.

Recent rains and quickly changing weather from mid-summer type to fall coolness, have caused many middle western citizens to carry their topcoats.

TRAVELING SALESMAN IS INSTANTLY KILLED

Car Leaves Hard Surface, Strikes Culvert, Turns Over Three Times.

Winston, May 24.—Claude R. Clark, traveling salesman for T. O. Gwaltney and Company, Norfolk, Va., was killed in an automobile wreck on the State highway between Windsor and Aulander this morning about 8:30 o'clock.

The deceased was traveling alone in a Ford roadster and was turning a slight curve when his car left the hard surface road, struck a culvert and turned over three times according to eye-witnesses who were at work in a nearby field. Clark was killed instantly.

There were no indications of what caused the car to leave the hard surface road. Clark, however, was traveling at a high rate of speed. He was a native of Westfield, Va., and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Louise Clark.

END OF CONGRESS NOW IS CERTAIN

Coolidge Demand for Action on the French Debt Balks Early Adjournment.

Washington, May 25.—Republican leaders are at sea over arrangements for adjourning Congress early in June, now the administration has ordered the French debt settlement acted upon provided the French parliament ratifies it during the first week in June as its expected.

Coupled with farm relief, the Turkish treaty, radio and coal legislation, to mention only the high spots, this means several avalanches of gusty oratory before Congress can quit for the summer.

They are blaming Senator Smoot and Representative Burton, both members of the debt commission, for talking President Coolidge into having the French agreement ratified before adjournment.

It is understood here that, apart from possible arrangements for extension of reserve bank credits to ease the franc, they are looking into the question of direct private loans.

Senate of the Italian loan debt terms before the Italian debt terms were ratified, that the administration has decreed that private loans to France should follow instead of precede ratification of the French settlement.

It is probably on the advice of Mr. Winston that the administration has decided on immediate action on the French settlement to clear the way for private advances before next fall.

Much of the opposition to the debt settlements is founded on the theory that it furnishes powerful political ammunition. Some of the irreconcilables have said openly they can make more trouble on the stump because of the debt terms than they have been able to stir up over the world court.

They have no hope of preventing ratification and little wish to do so, but they plan to make the Senate a sounding board for their version of the transactions and this means much oratory and takes time.

Farm Bills in Senate. Now that the farm bills have been extenuated in the House and there is not a ghost of a chance of passing them, it would be supposed that the farm bloc would not plague the Senate with them.

But not so. Senator Gooding and others who are up for election this year are full of dire threats and bursting with peaches.

If half their threats materialize it would take months to get to adjournment through the welter of oratory with which they propose to engulf the Senate.

Almost as much debate is bound up in the Turkish treaty to re-establish diplomatic relations. Senator Borah is determined to call it up, unless the President is willing publicly to recommend its postponement.

Mr. Coolidge evidently will not take that responsibility, although he and Secretary Kellogg are extremely reluctant to put the treaty to the test in the fact of almost sure defeat.

Mr. Borah thinks he may be able to save it, but Republican leaders think otherwise. It takes two-thirds of the Senate to ratify it. Senator Swanson, heading the almost united Democratic opposition, says he has almost a majority, let alone the one-third needed to kill it.

Minorities Chief Snag. The opposition is founded almost exclusively on the alleged want of adequate guarantees to protect the Armenian and other Christian minorities. Church organizations are strenuously opposing it and have been sending bales of letters to senators.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ADDRESSES RED CROSS

Says Red Cross Expresses Our Spirit of Consecration to Peace.

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—The Red Cross has provided a means by which the American people may express their spirit of consecration to peace and to the friendly co-operation of all nations.

President Coolidge asserted today in an address welcoming the delegates to the second pan-American Red Cross conference.

Speaking in Continental Memorial Hall, the President described the Red Cross as "in the truest sense a popular organization," which "springs from the people" and said that in bringing about such discussions as provided for at the conference the delegates were holding before their respective peoples "new ideals which can not but have a wider and wider reaction."

"In recent years," he added, "there has been much discussion of international relations. And, indeed, the need for such discussion is apparent. The application of scientific discovery to commerce, to transportation, to industry, has bound the peoples of the world together to a degree our forefathers could never have anticipated."

"Social organization seldom keeps pace with human activity in science, industry and commerce. The very complexity of modern governmental problems is appalling to those who share the responsibility. In the face of these increasing problems of international intercourse, co-operation of the peoples of the world must rest on a broad and fundamental basis. Mutual understanding, sympathy and tolerance, must grow up among the peoples themselves and cannot be imposed upon them."

"The ills of humanity are common to all nations and afflict us all alike. The chief factors conditioning human life and happiness are still natural rather than social in their character. Our chief problem, and the universal dilemma of the race is that of perfecting our adaptation to our natural environment; of controlling the blind forces of nature to make them serve as instruments of human happiness; of circumventing the operation of natural causes destructive of our health, our vitality, or our lives. As mankind learns to devote its efforts to these tasks, rather than to futile and internecine strife, international relationships will become increasingly cooperative and less controversial."
