

CARROLL IS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCES BY JUDGE GODDARD

Broadway Producer Is Sentenced to Serve 2 Years in Jail and Pay Fines Amounting to $2,000.

PERJURY GUILT DECIDED CASES

Jail Sentences Will Run Concurrently So Carroll Will Have to Serve Only One Year.

New York, N. Y., June 3.—(AP)—Earl Carroll, Broadway theatrical producer, convicted of perjury in connection with the grand jury investigation of the party in his theatre at which an unclad chorus girl served drinks while seated in a bath tub, was sentenced today to serve a year and a day on each of two counts, and to pay a fine of $1,000 on each.

Carroll was originally indicted on six counts. Two referred to his testimony that there had been no liquor served at the party, two to his statement that he had occupied the bath tub, and two to his assertion that he had no list of guests at the party.

The great list indictments were dropped on recommendation of prosecution. The production was found not guilty of liquor indictments but guilty of the two indictments concerning the nude woman in the bath-tub.

The court ordered the jail sentences to run concurrently so that Carroll will have to serve a year and a day and pay a fine of $2,000. Sentence was imposed by Judge Goddard before whom Carroll was tried and convicted.

U. S. Attorney Buckner after Carroll had been sentenced, consented to a motion by Carroll for the producer to admit Carroll to bond pending argument on appeal before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Carroll's bail of $5,000 was continued and Judge Goddard granted permission to the producer to leave the jurisdiction of the Southern district of New York, pending the outcome of the proceedings before the higher court. This is not usual, but was granted because of Carroll's theatrical work which his counsel said necessitated his leaving the district.

Carroll faced a maximum sentence of five years and a fine of $2,000 on each of the counts on which he was convicted.

Piggly Wigly Liqueur Plant Is Found Near Fayetteville

Fayetteville, June 3.—(AP)—A piggly wigly still is the newest thing in these parts. Such a liqueur plant was discovered in Rockhill township by Sheriff N. H. McCaskey and a party of deputies and federal officers. There was nobody in sight when the officers reached the still, though it was running full blast, and a dollar bill was found pinned to a note informing the proprietor that a customer had purchased one quart. An excellent copper worm was used with a grain of iron. The worm, the note and the dollar bill were brought to the sheriff's office. Seven gallons of whiskey and four barrels of beer were destroyed.

British Officials Regard the Situation Complicated by the Victory of Zaglou Pasha's Nationalist Party in the Elections as "Distinctly Grave."

London, June 3.—(AP)—Great Britain has sent a note to the Egyptian government reserving "complete liberty of action" regarding the recent acquittal of six persons charged with assassinating Sir Lee Stack, British sirdar of the Egyptian army in 1924.

A War ship is being sent from Malta to Alexandria as a precautionary measure, and the British presiding judge of appeals court which acquitted the six men has resigned in protest against the action of the native judges in out-voting him to achieve what he terms a miscarriage of justice.

Several things in the last few days have served to disturb the composure of the old guard and to wake them up to the fact Reynolds is in the race for the Senate and that he is by no means a myth and not to be reckoned with.

One thing that has caused some little restlessness is the fact that the mails over the state in the last few days have contained some 65,000 postal cards, sent by various Reynolds supporters—not by Reynolds himself to their friends, most of them but lukewarmly interested in Reynolds, desiring them to vote for Bob on Saturday. Another thing is the enthusiastic, active work being done by the out-and-out Reynolds men in his behalf. And another, if not the most important factor, is the number of personal contacts Reynolds had made in his personally conducted tour of the state, as the result of which he says he will carry sixty-one counties on Saturday. Beginning today, his picture is being flashed on the screen of seventy-one moving picture theaters over the state, thereby making an impression upon those thousands of people who enjoy the world of the imaginative.

So there are age versus youth. The law and order chanzeth. Evolution as compared with fundamentalism in the field of politics.

Reynolds left Raleigh late yesterday afternoon on his return trip to Asheville, seriously confident. No brag, no careless air of the debonnaire but cool, calculating, sure of his own strength.

Saturday will solve the riddle.

ARE AGE AND YOUTH ARRAYED AGAINST EACH OTHER

Will the Spirit of the New South Be Manifested in the Primary Saturday?

Tribune Bureau Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, June 3.—In the spirit of the awakening South about to be manifested in the senatorial primary contest in North Carolina Saturday Are age and youth arrayed against each other, age scoffingly confident, youth eager, enthusiastic and hopeful? There are those who are in close touch with the political situation over the state who say this is the situation. This older group smiles sagely when Reynolds' name is mentioned, and they wear heads in mock sympathy for that "young boy from Asheville" who has been so deluded to think that he could ever hope to aspire to the Senate with a man like Senator Lee S. Overman, as his opponent. They fail to see how any one who has reached years of discretion and attained an age sufficient to entitle the exercise of suffrage could possibly consider voting for any one other than the present junior senator from North Carolina. They point to his long years of service, his seniority on many committees, the influence which he has in Washington among the various departments. They even point to the fact that during the Wilson administration, Overman was one of Wilson's most trusted and dependable aides—and there are many who will read scripture from the Wilson political Bible daily. It is a potent argument and one not to be sniffed at, so the cooler ones hope.

But what of the younger men and younger women in the state who do not as learned in political folklore as their elders, and who have of late started thinking independently of matters political and forming their own conclusions? What of these younger minds, schooled in independent thinking, possessed of initiative, which to his destined guide, the destinies of the state and nation in the years that are not far off—what are these younger intellects thinking?

And right there is the nub of the whole matter—the solar plexus of the present political question, anatomically speaking. The news to that question is what the Overman cohorts would give a pretty half-dollar to know, for the last few days they have realized that their lips of thought has by no means been telepathetic, and that there are those in the state who have steadily refused and continue to refuse to accept their way of thinking.

Several things in the last few days have served to disturb the composure of the old guard and to wake them up to the fact Reynolds is in the race for the Senate and that he is by no means a myth and not to be reckoned with.

GROWTH OF THE STATE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

Graphically Shown in a Comparison of Figures.

Tribune Bureau Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, June 3.—The tremendous growth of the North Carolina educational system as reflected in its public schools is graphically shown in a comparison of figures and data contained in the June edition of "School Facts" issued monthly by the department of public instruction, and which is just off the press today.

In 1900 and 1901 there were but 435,184 children enrolled in the schools of the state, the entire expenditure for that year on the schools amounting to only $1,248,157.34. In 1924 and 1925 there were 809,834 pupils in the elementary and high schools of the state at an expenditure of the state amounting to $33,718,003.08.

These figures become even more significant when attention is called to the fact that in 1900-01 only 59 per cent of the school children attended school regularly while in 1924-25 73.6 per cent attended school regularly. The average expenditure by the state for each child in 1900-01 was but $28.7, while in 1924-25 it was $41.96.

These figures not only disclose a wide difference in school expenditures, but also show that the enrollment has nearly doubled and that the percentage of regular attendance has also made a decided and substantial increase. Another interesting factor is the increase in the length of the school term that has resulted. In 1900-01 the average school term was but 86 days while now 147.9 in the schools for white children. Also more and better teachers at better salaries are employed to take care of the increased enrollment and better attendance.

Out of the $33,718,003.08 spent in 1924-25, 65.3 per cent was spent in the rural schools of the state for the education of 612,570 children, or 75.6 of the total school enrollment. The remaining $11,770,374 or 34.7 per cent of the total expenditures, was spent in city or special charter schools. The average cost of educating one child is now $25.97 if the cost of buildings and equipment is omitted; if this is included, the per capita cost at present amounts to $41.96 per child per year.

Lutheran Synod Features Dedication of Seminary.

St. Louis, June 3.—(AP)—The new $3,500,000 Concordia Seminary, described by its builders as the largest Protestant theological seminary in the world, will be formally dedicated here June 12th as a feature of the international triennial convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states.

More than one thousand accredited delegates from all parts of the world and thousands of visitors are expected to attend the convention and dedication.

The seminary buildings, which are virtually complete, include an administration building, two lecture halls, auditorium, library, service building, power house, two dining halls, eight dormitory units and twelve faculty buildings. The architecture is Tudor-Gothic and the material is a combination of vari-colored limestone.

Construction of the seminary is part of an extensive educational program inaugurated in the last two years by the Lutheran Church, for which $5,000,000 was subscribed in a general campaign.

Speakers at the dedication ceremonies will recall the chief events in the history of the Missouri synod, which dates back to 1838 when a group of 750 Saxon emigrants left their homeland to find in America the freedom of worship which had been denied them.

DECISION OF WAR LIES WITH YOUNG MEN, WILBUR SAYS

Graduates of the Naval Academy Told of Great Faith Nation Has Shown In Them.

Their Action of Great Interest How They Conduct Themselves and the Jobs Assigned to Them Has a Bearing on the Future.

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—(AP)—The decision of war lies in the hands of young men.

This was the message of Secretary Wilbur today to the graduating class at the Naval Academy.

"If you feel that you are hearing of your liberty to the unknown demands of your nation, what do we say of the duty of the nation in placing its destiny in no small degree in your hands?"

The Naval Secretary said in his prepared address, "Have you done anything which justifies the confidence in this expression of its great confidence?"

CONDITIONS DUE TO LONG DRY WEATHER

Conditions on the Farms in the State Are Growing More Serious.

Tribune Bureau Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, June 3.—It may take the old folks to tell that it "aint gon'na rain no mo' but it is very probable that the youngest in any North Carolina farmer's family will be able to tell you that "it ain't rained in a long long time. The damage to young plants just beginning to grow as probably already climbed far up into the million dollar class, and each day of dry weather means that conditions on the farms are growing more serious, officials of the State Department of Agriculture say.

Scattered showers have occurred over the state at intervals but these have been insufficient for the needs of the crops, and cotton stands in plants just beginning to grow. Some sections in the Piedmont have had no rain since April 12th and the average temperature has been much below a normal for the season.

The growth of cotton plants in North Carolina averages from two to three weeks late at this time, and some farmers in the southern counties of the belt say that loss of cotton planted four weeks ago was not up by June 1st. The seeds, planted in the dry baked soil have germinated very poorly and it has been difficult to get a fair stand throughout most of the cotton belt.

A considerable acreage has been replanted through the southern counties and some are still replanting while others state that they are waiting for rain to replant. The counties in the extreme north east of the state report conditions in better shape. More frequent showers have occurred and cotton stands in this section are considered fair. The general statement from most of the cotton belt is that cotton growth is at a stand still, prospects very poor and discouraging with lots of the cotton dying in the field. Some chopping has been done but a small percent of the crop has been chopped so little of it is up to a stand at this time.

No weeds have been observed yet except in isolated instances. The acreage of cotton which was reported as 98 per cent of last year may be further reduced by the ravages of the drought unless rains come soon to relieve the situation.

THE COTTON MARKET

Opened Steady at Advance of 7 Points to Decline of 1 Point.

New York, June 3.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 7 points to a decline of 1 point, active months selling about 3 to 6 points net higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables, reports of further rains in the southwest and talk of an increased spot demand in the South.

July sold up to 18.42 and December to 17.58 in the early trading. Offerings were comparatively light, and prices held within a few points of the best at the end of the first hour.

Another private report pointed to an increase of 1 per cent in the acreage and estimated the end-May condition at 71.6 per cent of normal.

Cotton futures opened steady, July 18.41; Oct. 17.62; Dec. 17.55; Jan. 17.50; March 17.65.

TO REVIVE TRAFFIC ON MISSOURI RIVER

Another Era in Transportation on the "Big Muddy" About to Be Ushered In.

Kansas City, June 3.—When the little blue-winged test first took the water on the Missouri River ages ago, it began navigation history on the "Big Muddy" that soon is to see another step in its evolution.

The Indian with his canoe, the half civilized voyager with his pirogue, the fur trader with his keel boat and the "dingy" or little steamboat with a single boiler and engine, successively toiled up and down the river, each marking a step forward in navigation.

The magnificent steamboat of the 50's, that great floating palace that marked the heyday of steamboating on the Missouri, held sway for a decade or more and with its passing river traffic halted. Now is to come the power boat and string of freight-laden barges. This modern means of river commerce is to be made possible by a channel improvement program extending over five years, whereby approximately $2,000,000 will be spent the first year between Kansas City and St. Louis.

The first attempt to navigate the Missouri by steam was made in 1819. It was a hazardous undertaking. Besides the danger of the river, which needed the most skillful navigation because of snags, sandbars and tortuous channel, there was the danger of the lurking savage, concealed in the grass along the river banks ready to open fire on the boatmen without warning.

The Western Engineer, a small steamboat 75 feet long, was the first to ascend the river as far as Council Bluffs, which it reached September 17, 1819. It was built expressly to make the Indian trail, on the bow, running from the keels on, was a large steam escape pipe, making in the shape of a serpent. The pipe was painted black and the mouth of it, and clouds of steam bleached forth as the little ship crawled upstream at the rate of three miles an hour.

The first steamboat to ascend the river above Council Bluffs was the Yellowstone of the American Fur Company, which left St. Louis April 16, 1831, and reached the mouth of the Bad River in South Dakota, on June 19th. The following year the Yellowstone river, thus demonstrating the claim long made by army engineers that the Missouri was navigable that far.

Traffic on the "Big Muddy" flourished after 1850 and was at its height between 1850 and 1890. Lines of noble boats plied the stream, making possible the military and trading posts of the ever extending frontier.

WOMEN WANTED TO BE CAREFUL ABOUT REDUCING METHODS

Should Reduce on Schedule of Reliable Physician General Federation of Clubs Decides.

DENY REDUCING IS NOW MANIA

It Is General Practice But Women Refuse to Admit That S Has Reached the Mania Form.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—Reducing may be a practice, but it is not a mania nor a habit, the General Federation of Women's Clubs today decided before adopting a resolution urging the women of America not to imperil their health by the use of reducing methods not advocated by reliable physicians.

A resolution endorsing the principles of a bill to subject prison-made goods to the laws of the state into which they came also was adopted.

The original draft of the reducing resolution declared this practice a mania. Mrs. Wm. E. Townor, of Holyoke, Mass., moved to substitute habit for mania, and on suggestion of Mrs. Walter McNab Miller, of New York, the resolution was amended for habit.

Mrs. Townor made three paragraphs of the resolution in which reducing nostrums and injurious methods of reducing were condemned and the advice of a reliable physician advocated. These paragraphs, she asserted, contained "medical propaganda." When this failed she proposed laying the whole resolution on the table, but there were only seven votes opposed to its adoption.

EDITOR OF NEW YORK WORLD SPEAKS AT WAKE FOREST

Says College Is Widely Known Because It Has Put Truth in First Place.

Wake Forest, June 3.—(AP)—Paying tribute to Wake Forest College as a "place where the long laborious un-rewarded and often dangerous search for truth is still honored," Walter Lippman, editor of the New York World, in the literary address prepared for delivery at the commencement exercises here today, declared that the democratic principle of government is not secured in the present day world and outlined the general principles which "may help us to find our way out."

"The problem of democratic government turns on how men with finite minds can master events that are infinitely complex," he said. "How men with limited education can understand questions that are technical and intricate; how men with confined consciences are to formulate rules of conduct in a world that is vastly different from that in which their traditional rules of conduct were formulated."

"Wake Forest," Mr. Lippman declared early in his address, "has friends far beyond the boundaries of this state and far beyond the circle of its graduates, because it has demonstrated that at Wake Forest truth is put in the first place and not in the second place
