Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

By ALICE LANGELEIER, International News Service Staff Correspondent

Paris, June 10.—Time is money for the woman-shopper as well as the business man these days. Members of the fair sex are now flying from London to Paris to visit their dressmakers or modistes. Two air companies in the French capital have inaugurated a service which allows plenty of time for spending money. Leaving London at 7:55 in the morning, the shopper arrives in Paris at 10:20, thus having several good hours of shopping besides time for lunch. Tea is taken on the return plane.

According to air officials, the number of women using the air for travel is increasing in greater proportion than that of men. The curious part about it is that, once a woman goes up in the air she wants to fly again. While a man usually only does it to save time, and up to the present time, no men have been discovered making a trip in the clouds for a fitting in Bond street.

The autograph manuscript of Oscar Wilde's one-act drama, "Salome," recently brought one of the highest prices ever paid at the Hotel des Ventes. It was sold for 135,000 francs at a sale of a library formerly the property of the late Pierre Louys.

At the same sale a letter from Wilde to his friend Louys brought 7,000 francs. In it the Englishman reproached his French friend for the insignificance of the dedication written for "Salome."

Three versions of the famous "Aphrodite" brought high prices and a tiny lock of hair belonging to Victor Hugo with a little inscription "Pour Toi, doux ange." (For thee, sweet angel) brought the sum of four hundred francs, nearly $15.

A Swiss Bluebeard, who knew the French one, Landru, has been arrested near Zurich. Max Kaufman has been accused of the assassination of several Swiss domestics after taking away their savings by promise of marriage. He kept many souvenirs of his victims, bits of jewelry, lace from their clothes, or a slipper-buckle. Of greatest interest perhaps is a blue note-book in which he noted down the initials of his sweethearts, the dates of their meetings and other signs which have not yet been interpreted. He has admitted that he spent several years in the French capital and lived only two doors away from the mystery-man who made twelve women and their savings completely disappear.

Belgium gets the Brown Betty for the longest book title ever written. It belongs to the work of the Belgian writer Charles de Grave, published in 1806. More than 150 words make up this title, which is a veritable resume of the entire book, which deals with the Champs Elysees of the Ancient world, and finishes up by proving that the poets Homer and Hesiod were of Belgian origin.

Short titles are to be found among the literature of several countries. Mary Roberts Rinehart's "K" was followed by "E" by Julius Hunckley and "Q" by Captain Newell Burt. In 1901 an anonymous author entitled a large novel "r" and John Drinkwater published one under "K-O." "47 equals 28" is by the French author, Pierre Wolf, and another French writer used a simple question mark for his work. Jorge Anquetil published one of his best without any title whatsoever.

Warns Against the Extended Sun Treatment to Child.

London, June 8.—(AP)—Sir Henry Glavin has issued a warning against the abuse of sunlight treatment, and has advised parents to have the advice of physicians before they submit their children to extended sunlight treatment.

In the opinion of this distinguished doctor there is a tendency to overdo the use of sunlight in the treatment of weak children, and he says it may even be fatal if an ailing child is exposed to the sun for too long a period.

Dinner Stories

The Very Reason.
"Hey!" shouted the purchaser of a balky horse to the erstwhile owner. "You sold this horse under false pretenses. You said you were selling him in order to leave town, and here you are driving a brand new rig and another horse. What's more, this horse is balky and that's why you sold him. I wanted to go out to my cousin's place the other day and I couldn't get him beyond the bridge at the outskirts of the town."
"Well, that's why I sold him," replied the seller. "Because I wanted to leave town."

Just a Stimulant.
"Mother," said a young cockroach, "the lady is sprinkling that powder round again out of the box marked 'Guaranteed Roach Killer.'"
"Never mind, my son," answered his parent. "It's a bit nasty, but a fine tonic. I've raised seventeen hundred families on it and never lost a child."

Figured Out.
"Statistics," muttered the tired man, "bore me beyond words. If all the fellows who quote figures were hanged it would take seven thousand eight hundred acres of full-grown trees to accommodate the ceremonial committee."

"And," added the statistical chap, "it would be necessary to use nineteen thousand four hundred and sixty miles of hemp."

Perils of Life in Kansas.
A. W. Harrier is able to be out. He broke his ankles doing the Charleston.

O. A. Storbeck, of the Pillsbury mill, has a bad cold, caught while taking a bath last week.

County Attorney Morris tried his hand at a friendly scuffle with Under Sheriff Roy Able, and now he is carrying his left ear in a sling.

Humane Society Dogs Set Up Roof.

(By International News Service) Miami, Fla., June 7.—Dogs cared for by the Miami Humane Society set up such a breaking at all hours that the tenants in the neighborhood are prevented from sleeping.

This, according to a petition for a writ of injunction filed in Dade county circuit court, is the condition that exists in the vicinity of the Humane Society's quarters.

The complaint was filed by Claude Ott, owner of an eight-family apartment building adjacent to the society's quarters.

The neighborhood is closely settled, according to the petition, and all residents are annoyed by the uproar as well as being subject to disease.

A Newark girl escaped from an assailant by kicking him. We knew that sooner or later some justification for the Charleston would come out.

Embarrassing Moments

Following in Father's Footsteps.
Barber to little Jimmy—How will you have your hair cut, little man?
Jimmy—Like Dad's, with a hole in the top.

Waiting For the Big Day.
Mother had promised to take little Elaine to the movies the next day, which was Saturday. Elaine was anxiously looking for the big event, and could not restrain herself from saying, "Oh, mother, when will Friday end?"

A Trade Worry.
The teacher asked little Archibald, whose father was an undertaker, to make a sentence with the word "croquette." Archibald replied immediately, "Did he Croquette yet, asked the undertaker?"

NICKELS FACES TRIAL FOR THE THIRD TIME

Charged With an Assault on a Married Woman at De Land, Fla.
(By International News Service) Sanford, Fla., June 9.—Jaded after wearily seeing his fate swing pendulum-like back and forth in the courts for nearly five years, while his counsel waged probably the hardest fought legal battle on Florida court records to save him from the electric chair, Aubrey Lee Nickels, charged with assault on a married woman of De Land, Fla., faced trial for a third time in seventh judicial circuit court here today.

Warrants for the South Carolina youth's death were signed three times by the governor of Florida, but in each instance a reprieve was granted. The case has dragged through the courts since December, 1921.

At his first trial Nickels pleaded not guilty to the assault charge, but accepted his plea to guilty on the following day. He was sentenced to death. When an appeal was taken by his counsel, a reprieve was granted, but when the appeal was refused the youth was re-sentenced to die.

The Supreme Court later upheld an extraordinary motion for a new trial when the defendant maintained that he entered his plea of guilty under fear of mob violence.

The youth was convicted at a second trial at De Land, and again doomed to death, the higher court reversing the lower court's finding, and ordering a new trial. When the case came up for a third trial, a change of venue was granted on the ground that Nickels could not obtain a fair trial in Volusia county.

The Story of a Ring.
(By International News Service) Springfield, Tenn., June 4.—Here's the story of the ring given nearly 70 years ago to the late Col. C. C. Bell, tobacco dealer, by his wife: It was lost 35 years ago in a tobacco factory here.

About a year ago it was resurrected from an unknown source by a negro. The negro traded it to another negro. The other negro dropped it into a hogshead of expert tobacco.

It was carried across the ocean on a slow freighter, and again it was found, this time by a foreign tobacco buyer in Belfast, Ireland.

Says It Is "Mussel" Shoals.
(By International News Service) Bamberg, S. C., June 4.—Spell it Mussel Shoals.

This, according to Dr. J. W. Daniel, one of the South's foremost authorities on Indian folk lore, is the proper way Muscel Shoals should be spelled.

"No place name in the world," Daniel said, "has a better right to survive than Muscel Shoals. From time immemorial the Cherokee name for the shoals was Da-gu-na-hi, from the Cherokee da-gu-na mussel, and hi, locative, and, therefore means Mussel place. The shoals were known by this name when white men first came in contact with the Cherokees. Let the old Cherokee name stand."

LEONARD CLEANABLE REFRIGERATORS

Stand for highest efficiency in retaining the purity of foods and preserving their freshness. By actual test it has been found that its system of refrigeration maintains a lower temperature than any other and the system of circulation keeps the air always dry and sweet.

The improved draining system will not clog and the remarkably small quantity of ice consumed makes the price lower than they first seem.

A good refrigerator in itself means a big saving—saving in ice—a saving in food—a saving in health.

The amount of food and ice wasted by a poor refrigerator will pay for a good one in two seasons. Our refrigerators are efficient. Why not have the best? Come in and low them over before making your purchase.
