Burgin Blames S. C. Cotton Mills. York, S. C., June 29.—A charge that his teaching against the exploitation of child labor had caused the resentment of cotton mill interests represented in the Winthrop College board of trustees was made by William G. Burgin, ousted professor of sociology at the South Carolina State Women's College at Rock Hill.

Professor Burgin added that as far as he was concerned the incident of his dismissal was closed, and that he was not a candidate for reelection to the professorship. He had nothing to reveal regarding his future plans, beyond saying that he wished to be free to make other commitments.

WEDDING OF POPULAR LEAKSVILLE COUPLE

Miss Lucile Reid Marries Harry Lee Fagge in Methodist Church. Leaksville, June 29.—Of great interest in the community and throughout the state was the marriage of Miss Lucile Reid to Harry Lee Fagge on Wednesday evening, before a congregation which overflowed the Methodist Episcopal church, Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler of Salem college officiating.

The church was effectively decorated for the occasion. Prior to the ceremony M. L. Hemer, violinist, rendered Raff's "Cavatina." Mrs. Ernest Robinson of Concord sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Thank God For a Garden." Mrs. Hugh Davison acting as accompanist. During the ceremony, Dan Taylor, accompanied by Mrs. Davison, softly played Elgar's "Salut d'Amour" on the violin.

As the processional Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded, the bridal party entered. First to enter were the ushers: James Marshall, Edward Love, of Leaksville; Alfred Goodwin of Columbia, S. C.; Buford Stone, of Raleigh. Entering the two center aisles, they formed a semi-circle in front of the altar.

The bridesmaids and groomsmen entered in pairs down opposite aisles, crossing at the altar and completing two semi-circles, the maids grouping themselves in front of the groomsmen.

Attending Miss Reid as bridesmaids were: Miss Mary Sue Farrell, Miss Beattie Clark, of Leaksville; Miss Cecelia Cobb, of Reidsville; Miss Letitia Currie, of Davison; Miss Rosa Caldwell, of Concord; Miss Rachel Davis, of Seven Springs. They wore dresses of delicately shaded pink, smartly combining taffeta and tulle and fashioned identically. The dresses were made with taffeta bodies tightly fitting, and cut deep V in the back. The skirts, extremely bouffant, were fashioned of many tiers of tucked tulle over taffeta, and having the uneven hem line. Three large taffeta roses were caught down the left side of the skirt. The maids carried colonial bouquets of pink Columbia roses.

The groomsmen were Phillip Wall, William Ray, of Leaksville; Hal Goodwin, of Columbia, S. C.; Robert Fagge, Fred Woodson, of Martinsville, Va.; Abner Reid, of Raleigh.

Attending Miss Reid as matron of honor was Mrs. Stuart Golden, of Leaksville. Her gown was identical in fashion to those worn by the maids and was becomingly created of blue.

Miss Henriette Reid, and Miss Frances Reid as maids of honor, wore frocks fashioned identically after the dresses worn by other members of the bridal party, and carried pink Killarney roses.

Preceding the bride came Miss Shirley Dickinson, little two-year-old niece of the groom, wearing a dainty dress of point despit over pink, the ruffled skirt being piped in pink. She bore the wedding ring in a lily.

The bride entered with her mother, Mrs. Reuben Reid, and looked exceptionally pretty in her wedding gown of white duchess lace, which was made with tight fitting bodice, and bouffant skirt of tulle which fell in graceful points about her feet. An exquisite yoke and long sleeves of duchess lace accentuated the beauty of the long and snugly fitting bodice. The court train was of duchess lace over which fell the veil of tulle fitting snugly about the face with a coronet of pearls and gathered in the back with a wreath of orange blossoms. Miss Reid carried a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Reid was gowned in orchid crepe, with overskirt of Hama lace.

Mr. Fagge entered with his best man, brother, James Fagge, of Leaksville.

Miss Reid is the daughter of the late Reuben D. Reid and Mrs. Reid, she is a granddaughter of the late Gov. David L. Reid and Congressman James W. Reid of this state. She is a graduate of Salem College, and taught the past year in Salem academy.

Mr. Fagge, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fagge, is a popular young lawyer of Leaksville. He received his education at the University of North Carolina.

After a motor trip to interesting points north Mr. and Mrs. Fagge will be at home in Leaksville.

Gives Lawn Party. Master William Cannon was host to a few of his friends on Wednesday evening from seven to nine in celebration of his fourteenth birthday anniversary.

The spacious lawn surrounding the Cannon home was delightfully picnicking. A story puzzle guests were filled with great merriment and had much fun playing many interesting games. A story puzzle was laid out on the lawn and the unraveling of it brought its rewards, a souvenir for each one. Ribbon confetti added greatly to the merriment.

Refreshments were served during the games and souvenirs of candy made into golf sticks, bottles, pipes, etc., were given each guest.

Delightful refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Sidney Blackmer in Salisbury. Mr. Sidney Blackmer came in from Blowing Rock yesterday after a short rest at home and will go to New York tonight to attend a pressing business matter before leaving for California. Mr. Blackmer has been playing in repertory for the past ten weeks in Atlanta and had a most successful and delightful season there among his many friends and admirers.

Next season's theatrical plans are not yet announced. It is possible that Mr. Blackmer may play in London with Madge Kennedy or they may star in a new play in New York.

Indications point to an unusually large entry list for the annual regatta of the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen which is to be held the last week of July off Port Moody, near Vancouver, B. C.

The three emissaries of France—Josephine, Marie Louise and Eugenie—lost each their respective imperality.

HOME

Home is not made with hands Home is either here or there Home is where true love expands And that may be most anywhere.

It may be in far-off east It may be in the golden west But where it is there's boundless peace And that one place is just the best.

So whether it be grand or not Or whether in a humble cot Where dwells the soul in perfect bliss That's home with highest happiness. —C. Hugh Newton.

Mrs. Wilkinson, Recent Bride, Honored With Reception. An outstanding event of the week was the party given yesterday by Mrs. H. B. Wilkinson and her daughter, Mrs. W. Stowe Greene, at their home on North Union street.

The home was beautifully arranged with quantities of mixed garden flowers.

Receiving at the front door was Mrs. A. B. Pounds. Standing in the receiving line were: Mrs. Greene, Mrs. James H. Wilkinson, Mrs. H. B. Wilkinson, Miss Frances Whisnant, of Charlotte, Mrs. George Patterson Ritchie, Mrs. Charles Griffin and Mrs. James Moore.

Directing the guests to the dining room were Mrs. J. Lee Crowell, Jr., and Mrs. Ernest Hicks.

In the dining room, a color scheme of green and white was carried out. The center of the table was an immense green bowl of shasta daisies. At each corner of the table were green candle stands holding yellow tapers.

Green and white ice cream with cake and nuts were served by Mrs. Fred McConnell, Misses Margaret Corzine, Mary Orchard Boger, Helen Dayvault, Emily Pounds and Katherine Hayworth, of High Point.

Mrs. R. C. Corzine and Mrs. D. W. Whisnant, of Wadesboro, showed the guests to the sun room where refreshing punch was poured by Misses Mary McKinley, Margaret Miller and Mrs. N. T. Deaton, Jr. The adieu were said by Mrs. R. M. Cook and Miss Bessie Moose.

A large number of guests called during the afternoon.

Moose-Ketner Marriage a Quiet Ceremony. A wedding characterized by beauty and simplicity, and of interest to their many friends, was solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ketner on Elm street Wednesday evening, June 29th, at 8 o'clock when their daughter, Ollie Belle, became the bride of Lee Moose, also of this city.

The nuptial ceremony was performed, was beautifully decorated with sweet peas and daisies, a chain of daisies forming the entrance to the improvised altar. Only a few relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. M. L. Kester, pastor of the bride.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of white georgette with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and fern. Her going away dress was of pink crepe with hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moose left for a motor trip to Eastern North Carolina. On their return they will make their home with Mrs. M. H. Cox on East Corbin street. They have the best wishes of their many friends.

Mrs. Efrid Dissents To Will Of Husband. Stanly News Herald. Mrs. Bertie Snuggs Efrid, widow of the late John S. Efrid, Albemarle millionaire cotton manufacturer, has dissented to the will of her late husband, having come before the clerk of the superior court last week through her attorney, James H. Pen, and filed her notice of dissent as prescribed by law.

This action came not as a surprise, as it has generally been expected since the lawsuit to break the will started, that she would dissent, thereby freeing her from all the regulations provided in the will.

Her dissent to the will means that she will make her part and interest in the estate of her late husband just as though there had been no will at all. It is a right which the law grants to every widow whose husband seems fit to make a will. She can either take under the will, or, if she chooses to do so, she can dissent and let the law take its course as to her.

Mrs. Efrid's friends are not only not surprised that she has filed her dissent, but many of them feel that she has done the wise thing, as she has thereby avoided all criticism and misunderstandings which would no doubt, have arisen had she taken under the terms of the will.

Woman Calls Health Officer to Complain About Rooster. Charlotte, June 29.—Dr. W. A. McPhail, health officer, answered the telephone today.

"A health violation is going on in our neighborhood," a woman's voice at the other end told him.

"The condition is intolerable and too bad to talk about. Please send an officer to investigate it."

The inspector went to the fashionable neighborhood. Visions of piled garbage and general filthiness, a cesspool perhaps reeking with typhoid germs, were in his mind's eye as he responded to the call.

When he arrived he was told by the complainant that she had been unable to sleep because of a rooster which crowed under her window each morning at 4 o'clock.

"Something's got to be done about it," she said, "or I'll go crazy."

Osteen Denied Right to Qualify. Greensboro, June 29.—J. L. Osteen, deputy prohibition administrator, in charge of Federal agents in the middle district, states on return from Charlotte that he was denied the privilege of taking examination to qualify as an administrator, because he cannot show the six years of executive experience required for an administrator under the new rulings from Washington.

In the place of the test he desired, Mr. Osteen took the civil service test for a dry agent. He continues to hold his post, under the previous status, until an order is made continuing him as deputy administrator or relieving him from the place.

SOUTHERN SUE FOR $150,000

I. J. Ferris Alleged to Have Been Driven Crazy After Wreck. Charlotte Observer.

The Southern railway system, the Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio Railroad Co., and A. L. Harmon, Southern claim agent, were named in a suit for $150,000 in Mecklenburg superior court yesterday by I. J. Ferris, 29, of 307 North Davidson street.

The action was brought through T. O. Ferris, brother of I. J. Ferris, it being found by the court that the latter is mentally incapable of bringing the suit for himself.

Ferris is "almost an idiot," as the result of injuries sustained when a train in which he was riding crashed into another near Mount Carmel, Ill., February 27, 1923, it is alleged.

The force of the train collision is claimed to have injured his spine, spinal column, head and brain.

Since the injuries were inflicted, he has been forced to spend $12,000 for medical attention, his savings have been swept away, his business wrecked, he has been forced to give up his home and with his wife and child live and be dependent upon his aged mother, he cannot walk, and he has been made a "broken and helpless wreck," according to the complaint.

The railroad, through Harmon, "with knowledge of his mental condition," got his signature to an alleged release for a small consideration without the knowledge of his attorney, it is alleged. Ferris prayed that the court declare void the alleged release.

James A. Lockhart and Ralph Kidd are attorneys for the plaintiff.

(Mr. Ferris was living in Concord at the time of the accident, having moved to Charlotte several months ago. He operated a candy kitchen in this city.—Ed.)

At Hotel Concord. Guests registered at Hotel Concord Wednesday included: H. K. Blocker, Chicago, Ill.; W. T. Spough, High Point; T. D. Folgeman, Burlington; Dick Richards, Liberty Hill, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wardell, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Stern, Tampa, Fla.; R. B. Jordan, Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Foerck, Clewiston, Fla.; C. E. Hotinger, White Rock, S. C.; D. E. Duncan, Charlotte; Joe Gabriel, Cleveland; P. R. Scott, Greensboro; E. E. Iddington, Greensboro; and V. Creitchfield, Greensboro.

Leaves For Extended Trip. Mrs. Louis Campagner plans to leave for an extended trip of several weeks through Maine, Canada and Massachusetts, where she will visit relatives and friends.

Mr. Campagner is superintendent of the Brown Mill.
