Treatment Listed For Heat Illness

High temperatures and the rush of summer work make it easy to be overcome by any of several forms of heat illness, Ashe county farmers were warned this week by county agent Dana Tugman of the State College Extension Service.

The county agent explained that sunstroke follows prolonged exposure to the sun, whereas heatstroke is caused by excessive heat or without exposure to the sun. The effects are the same and either may be fatal.

Symptoms are hot and dry skin, face red and flushed, breathing hard and loud, pupils enlarged and in some cases unconsciousness.

Prevention is the best cure, Tugman said, but everyone should know what to do in case heat illness does strike. Here is what the National Safety Council suggests for sunstroke or heatstroke.

1. Move patient to a cool, shady place, strip to the underclothes, lay on back with head and shoulders raised.
2. Apply ice or cold wet cloths to head, cool the body gradually with a cool bath or with a hose or wet clothes and rub limbs toward the heart.
3. After treating for several minutes, stop and observe patient.

If skin becomes hot again, resume treatment.

4. If patient is conscious, give cool drinks, not ice cold. Do not give stimulants.

5. Get patient to a doctor or a hospital as soon as possible. Continue the treatment in the ambulance.

In cases of heat exhaustion, the patient's skin is cold and clammy. A simple rule may serve as a guide and prevent confusion as to treatment: If the patient is cold, make him warm; if he's hot, make him cool.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

'Now Take It Easy!'

Farming Notes

One of the most important phases of livestock farming is pasture management at this season of the year the most valuable thing that can be done in pasture management is to clip them. Clipping pastures offers several advantages to farmers who are attempting to develop a well balanced pasture and feed program.

Clipping destroys undesirable weeds, affords a source of supplementary hay for winter feeding, reduces competition for nutrients. Moisture and light by undesirable species, stimulates growth of those plants which are desirable, and increases the feed value and palatability of those plants which are desired.

Every livestock farmer in the county realizes that his greatest problem is in producing a feed supply sufficient to winter the number of cattle he can keep during the summer. Clipping offers some relief to this situation, especially if the pasture contains the taller growing species such as Ladino clover with orchard grass or fescue. It can readily be seen then, that through clipping pastures the carrying capacity of the farm is increased.

Regardless of the amount and quality of hay received from pastures, the removal of weeds which afford competition to pasture grasses and the increase in feed value and palatability which results from clipping, makes it a profitable thing to do.

the dean's list one must earn a total of 40 quality credits with no grade below C. Last semester 87 out of approximately 900 students made the list.

A total of 5,400,000 chicks were produced by commercial hatcheries in the state during May. This was almost 1 per cent above the total for May, 1949, and 9 per cent above the 1944-48 average.
