Northeliffe Superstitions. Lord Northeliffe had his superstitions. He was inordinately afraid of the bad luck frequently associated with 13 persons at a table. At a luncheon in his bome in London dast summer, 13 men sat down, including some Americans. Suddenly Lord Northcliffe etclaimed, in a horrified voice: "There are 13 at this table. Every one get up. We must wait until my secretary comes to make 14." Subsequently Ford Northcliffe gravely related to one of his guests, an Amernewspaper man, many tragedies which he sald were the result of the seating of 13 persons at table.
