SEMORA ROUTE ONE.

The farmers are doing a lot of plowing in this community.

Mr. F. L. Murray of South Boston was a Semora visitor last week.

Mess Robert and Clyde Scott were Roxboro visitors last week.

Mr. George Cunningham spent Easter in Burlington.

The Semora school closed Friday. They had a nice entertainment given by the primary class.

The farmers are busy hauling their fertilizer.

Miss Ethel Scott was entertained Saturday night by several of her friends. They enjoyed themselves playing rook and carrom.

Mess. Clyde McSherry and Scott Taylor spent Easter in Burlington.

There will be preaching at the Christian church Sunday at 11 o'clock, a. m.

Miss Helen Baker spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Willie Wagstaff. On her way back home she let the horse walk out of the harness—some driver, isn't she?

The Turbeville school gave a play at the Semora school Wednesday night. It was very good and greatly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Connally spent Sunday with Mr. Connally's mother, Mrs. R. L. Paylor near Concord.

Mr. Stanfield Harrison, who has been working in Danville, has returned to Semora.—Betsie.

LAW STORE ITEMS.

We are having some fine weather now.

We regret to hear that Miss Lula Laws is very sick, but hope she will soon improve.

put on this campaign against rats, they still have time for it. It will certainly be time well spent, and we hope we shall hear from other schools and other communities.

I recently heard a well-informed farmer say that he believed the rats in Person County destroyed enough each year to pay the County taxes. I have also seen it stated that it costs $2.00 a year to feed one rat. At this rate, the children of Olive Hill township have saved more than $3600.00.

Miss Helen Graves and her assistants are to be heartily congratulated for putting over this campaign, and we hope we are going to have similar reports from many schools.

ONE-LEGGED ROBIN

Billie Brownie went to call upon a little robin red breast he had heard about for some time.

"We'll be so Cozy."

He had been told that this little robin only had one leg and that every summer the robin went back to the same home.

So he went to the place where the robin was supposed to be and, sure enough, there he saw a one-legged robin.

"I have heard about you," said Billie Brownie to the one-legged robin after he had introduced himself and had told the robin how it was that he was able to talk so the robin could understand every single word.

"Yes, Mother Nature gave me her gracious permission to understand the language of all her different children and that is why I can understand you."

"Then she told me how to speak so all of you could understand me."

"And that is why you do understand me. Won't you tell me your story, Mr. Robin?"

"I'd so much like to hear it."

"Gladly will I tell it to you," said Mr. Robin. "And I'll also tell you a little secret."

"Someone told me that my story had been in the newspaper. Yes, it seems a little girl read about it and she asked that my story be told to more and more boys and girls for she liked hearing about me and thought others would."

"She really felt the same way about it as you," said Billie Brownie. "And perhaps you can get the story around to other boys and girls; do you suppose you can do that, Billie Brownie?"

"I do believe I can," said Billie Brownie, "and it will give me great delight to do so."

Then the robin invited Billie Brownie to perch upon an apple tree in what the robin called his daytime living room.

"We'll be so cozy here," chirped the robin.

"Four years ago," he began, "I was here for the first time. I hurt myself and I didn't think I'd live. But I began to grow better and better and soon I found I was going to live."

"To be sure, I was only going to have one leg. I had lost my other in my accident, but, dear me, I have one leg left and my wings and my voice and my feathers, and I'm happy as can be."

"Oh, the children on the farm nursed me back to health. They fed me; they cared for me. They loved me!"

"Every winter I go away to a warmer climate, but every spring I come back here and stay all through the summer."

"They all shout with delight when they see me appear."

"Spring is here, spring is here, our robin is back," they cry.

"Yes, they call me 'our robin.'"

"Isn't that nice? And I call them my family. Often I'm saying that in my songs to them and I feel they understand."

"I take many a nice, cheery little meal with the chickens in the barnyard. Oh, I am well looked after and no mistake. And I wouldn't go to another summer home for anything—no, not this robin."

"I'm just as happy as I can be. And if you are going to tell my story I wish you'd tell the boys and girls about my song of happiness."

"Do you suppose you could do that, Billie Brownie?"

"I am sure I could, and I would be delighted to do so," Billie Brownie said.

"This is my song," the robin said. And then the robin sang, and this was his song:

I have a voice, I have a throat, and songs I love to sing.

Of all the things there are on earth And of the happiness they bring, There's sunshine and there's laughter, There's singing and there's joy, There's many a lovely girl and many a splendid boy, They feed their friends the birds, They love to see us eat! They give us good, fresh water, So we think they're very sweet.

They fix baths for us "They Fed Me," also And put them good and high So cats cannot go for us, When they see that we are nigh, Oh, the world is full of glory, And this is the end of my story.

And Billie Brownie thanked the cheery robin for his gay little story.

Depends on Variety.

"I wonder if my little boy knows how many seconds there are in a minute."

"Do you mean a real minute, mama, or one of those great big wait-a-minutes?"

The Cost of Our Local Improvements

From all parts of the country come reports of great activity in towns and villages in the matter of public improvement. Nothing could be more encouraging providing the plan is sensibly attacked. But if your village begins to improve without a proper perspective of finance then many of them are brewing serious trouble. Taxation is on the jump almost everywhere. The amount of taxes now paid by the American people is larger than the whole foreign trade of the United States both incoming. The sum total of taxation is four times as great as the American profit on all foreign trade.

In Germany is heard the cry that taxation has brought utter ruin to the people. We hear the echo from France, and also from England. Let us not forget that the law of economics is not national. It is universal. America cannot escape the effect of exchange taxation any more than can Great Britain or the benighted Choctaw of Passamaquoddy.

The business of the world today needs more capital than ever. The trouble is the man on the street does not grasp the first rules of national business building.

With restricted capital business cannot expand. It requires more money to harvest and market a hundred acre crop than it does a ten acre crop and if American industry is to expand and prices be kept within the normal, liquid capital and legitimate credit must be increased. We cannot have our cake and eat it. If the money of the nation is spent because of a sudden craze for improvements something else will have to go by the board.

Steering Business Ships to Success

Fred P. Mann is a drygoods merchant in Devil's Lake, North Dakota. He sells a half million dollars' worth of goods every year in a town of five thousand population. He has built his business from nothing. His capital has been intelligence. He stands today an inspiration for any small town merchant who seeks to build a paying business on a sound foundation.

There are thousands of merchants who flop along without any definite aim except an instinctive desire to accomplish. These are the merchandising delinquents. The ship that reaches port in time to win the cargo is one that is steered with a definite purpose and along a course thoroughly charted.

Mr. Mann frankly says his success is one of two things—sensible buying and vigorous newspaper advertising. He spends more money in newspaper advertising than any small merchant in the United States. The answer is he does more business than any small merchant in the United States.

Half the local merchants in small towns see in advertising nothing but typographical announcements. The money they waste in direct by mail advertising is astounding. There is not a skilled advertising man in the whole of the United States who uses a direct-by-mail advertising except as a supplement to the newspaper. Without the newspaper the rest is useless. If we fail to learn by the experience of others who have succeeded than we fall behind in the march of progress.

John Wanamaker, Marshall Field and Fred P. Mann are not fools. Hitch your wagon to a star, not to a doubting Thomas.

AUTOCASTER

THE CHURCH BLACKHAND

It has been said by many who are students of the condition, there are two tendencies that are working together to disrupt all orthodox evangelical denominations. These two forces might properly be called false teaching and autocracy.

The false teacher has been in the church since the first century. He tried to destroy with his false doctrine the little group of Christians who began in the first century, and since that time he has been marching across the continents of time.

The rationalist is compelled to set up a human gospel, a piece of human machinery, and to build his little bureaus in order that he may advance his cause. He is corrupt at heart, designing in his motives, autocratic in his methods, bureaucratic in his government.

A great many of those who are teaching and who have taught false doctrines have taught them because they wanted to reduce God's standard and mode of living, or because they have never become regenerated Christians.

The false teachers and the advocates of the vicious doctrines are perfectly willing to use money, political machinery, or any other means that they can devise, to destroy the influence and power of the great Christian leaders of the day. They use every method of chicanery to keep such ministers out of pulpits, to prevent their being called to permanent pulpits, and to deprive them of leadership in their denominations.

No regenerated man has ever denied or will ever deny the deity of Christ. Therefore, any such denial on the part of any man who claims to be a minister of the gospel is prima facie evidence that he has never been regenerated.

These false teachers and rationalistic agents enter our denominations and try to destroy our church governments and establish their Nero-like autocratic, bureaucratic government of destruction.

Will the laymen awake and drive this black hand from the church?
