

BORN AFTER MOTHER HAD BEEN BURIED

Strange Story of Birth Of Rev. Colin Lindsay in Scotland County

(Correspondence of Lumberton Reheonian.)

Bennettsville, S. C., Nov. 14.—During the past summer, while on a month's vacation, I visited Scotland county, N. C., and met many of the good sturdy Scotch people in that county. I spent three or four days over in that Scotch section as I have quite a number of relatives residing in Laurinburg, the county seat, also many who live in the country.

During my visit there I visited the Stewartville old cemetery, five miles northeast of Laurinburg. This cemetery is in the center of a large Scotch settlement. It contains five acres enclosed with stone post and iron railing. The first body buried in this old cemetery was in 1774. He was a Revolutionary soldier who died on a march in that community, and was laid to rest by those Scotch patriots. Since then hundreds of Maes have been buried in that sacred and hallowed habitation of the dead. James Chishom, who was born in the Isle of Syke, Scotland, came to America in 1803. His body sleeps in this cemetery. Hugh McLaurin came to North Carolina in 1790 from Appin, Argyle, Scotland. He also is buried in this cemetery.

Now I am going to write something romantic, but the truthfulness of the statement is vouched for by many reliable persons in Scotland county.

Rev. Colin Lindsay was born in Scotland. He became a Presbyterian minister, and came to America more than a century ago. He served old Smyrna and Red Bluff Presbyterian churches, the latter in Marlboro county, S. C. Rev. Colin Lindsay is buried in old Stewartville cemetery. Mr. Maxey John a prominent attorney and Christian gentleman who lives in Laurinburg, N. C., told me that his grandmother who was a McRae, had told him that she often heard Rev. Lindsay preach and had heard him relate from the pulpit the strange incident about to be related. Recently I had a conversation with Mr. Lindsay's grandson, who also vouched for the truthfulness of the statement, as he had often heard his mother speak of it.

Before Colin Lindsay was born in Scotland his mother died, or was supposed to be dead. She was buried with much jewelry on her fingers and person. The night after her burial two grave robbers visited the cemetery, disinterred her body. Her fingers were swollen, they attempted to amputate her finger in order to remove the valuable rings. This caused a reaction, the blood began to circulate, Mrs. Lindsay awoke, recognized the two robbers, spoke to them. They faintly: They knew that it was a capital offense in Scotland to rob a grave. Mrs. Lindsay told them that she knew them both but if they would accompany her to her home that she would never divulge their names. Only one went home with her. The other was unable to walk. She went to her home, awoke the astonished and frightened family, and for many years lived happily with her husband; and she never told the names of the grave robbers.

Colin Lindsay was born after this incident, was educated in Scotland and came to America, where he preached for many years.

This is a true story. I believe every word of it. I had heard something several years ago, but until recently I obtained facts and data which are indisputable and cannot be controverted.

This is a piece of history which should be preserved and perpetuated, therefore I am sending it for publication.

News Club Boy Winning National Attention

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 3.—Bunyon Love, a seventeen year old boy of Catawba County, is winning national attention by the continued success of his club work. Recent photographs made of Bunyon showing him with his calf and some of his club sheep caused officials of the United States Department of Agriculture to want to know more about him and J. W. Hendricks County Agent, was glad to write a letter telling of his accomplishments.

Bunyon is now conducting projects in the Sheep, Calf, Corn and Cotton clubs and is making a success of them all. He bought his first sheep in 1919 when twelve grade ewes were purchased for him by the sheep extension specialists. This flock, now numbering 33 animals, is headed by one of the best pure bred rams in the State and a careful account of exact by what the sheep have cost Bunyon since that time shows that he has made a net profit of $381.90.

He has a shearing machine and puts his wool up in nice shape for market. Mr. Hendricks reports that he uses the best of management practices and has made money consistently each year.

In 1922, Bunyon became a charter member of the first Jersey calf club to be organized in the South. He bought a three months old calf for $25 and was offered $85 for her when not quite one year old. He sold one calf for $100 at the recent sale of Jersey cattle in Hickory.

Bunyon has been a member of the corn and cotton clubs for the past four years and has made as much as 105.5 bushels of corn per acre at a cost of 27.9 cents a bushel. He has produced 2101.6 pounds of seed cotton on an acre which is double the average yield for the county.

Mr. Hendricks says: "He takes great interest in his work and I am expecting him to make an outstanding farmer in his county in a few years."

NEW FARM CLUB MAKES MONEY FOR MEMBERS

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 3.—A new farm club begun first in Buncombe County has proved to be a profitable project for those boys taking part in it this year, reports L. R. Harrill, assistant county agent for that county. At a recent sale of Hereford cattle three club calves were sold for an average price of $103.33 1-2 per head. The highest price paid for any animal in the sale was for a calf owned and cared for by Hubert Clapp of Swannanoa, son of the superintendent of the Mountain Branch Station.

In reporting this, Mr. Harrill says: "These calves were placed with the club boys on the 13th of last April. The Biltmore-Olsen bank loaned us the money to buy them. The boys who purchased calves grow them primarily for this sale and the animals clearly demonstrated that they were properly fed and fitted for the occasion. They were easily the best animals in the sale as shown by the fact that they averaged $20 more per head than the average for the other animals. This was in spite of the fact that there were four cows with calves at foot offered at the same time."

Mr. Harrill's Baby Beef club has proved a success in every way. Financially the boys made a gross profit of $115 on the three animals. Hubert Clapp made a gross profit of $50 in seven months; Morgan Ashworth made $35 and Oliver Alexander made $20.

It is felt by the agricultural authorities of the State College and Department of Agriculture that the financial success of these young club members will make it possible to stimulate greater interest in Baby Beef clubs in western North Carolina next year. There is a great need for better sires to head the beef cattle herds of that section and with this interest on the part of the young people, beef cattle production appears to again be started on the road to success as a farm project in the mountain territory.

MECKLENBURG FARMERS PAINT HOMES

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 5.—Mecklenburg will be a place of more beautiful homes as a result of the recent Home Beautification Campaign put on in that county by the extension workers of the State College and Department of Agriculture. Reports made by the township committees appointed by the home and farm agents, Miss Bertha Proffitt and Kope Elias, show that 210 houses will be painted on the outside, 478 on the inside, 52 farms will have the barns or outbuildings painted and 44 farms will have the machinery painted. Pineville and Sharon townships led for first honors in securing the most pledges to paint and Charlotte came second. The following communities won top gallons of paint each for the pledges turned in: Sharon, Pineville, Central Steel Creek, Cochrane Academy, Mint Hill, Newell, Derita, Cornelious, Gilead, Ho-Jewell, Paw Creek, and Lower Providence. Pineville and Sharon townships will be given 20 gallons of paint each and Charlotte will be awarded 10 gallons. All of this paint will be used on some public building such as a community house or church.

A total of 12 meetings were held in the fifteen townships during the campaign and demonstrations were made to show how to use paint for all purposes and the importance of having the barns, sheds, grass and trees about the homestead or school yard also painted.

lunenburg County. It is felt that the influence of this campaign will be felt over the whole State and that soon North Carolina will become known as a place of beautiful homes and farmsteads.

Rural homes are lighted, modern outhouses built, crop yields increased, boys and girls trained into leaders and people work together for the common good in those counties where the home and farm agents of the State College and Department of Agriculture are located.

Tom Tarheel says: The farmer who does not study his business is like the prehistoric animal which could not adapt himself to changing conditions and life passed by him. Standing is stagnation.

If you cant plant your best acres to pasture, then use the uncertain acres and if these are too valuable try the idle acres; but, anyway plant some pastures advises Zeno Moore of Edgecombe county. Feed is the foundation of the livestock industry and grazing the basis for its success any livestock specialists to the State College and Department.

"The ultimate factor in the solution of most life's great problems is leadership. The real leader is the man who can get the community, the township, the county or the state to pull together and accomplish something worth while." Dean J. H. Skinner, Purdue School of Agriculture.
