

Sallie's Temptations

Ted Billings—At His Worst

"Boy Howdy!" I finally managed to exclaim when I saw that the strange visitor was Ted Billings. "Gosh, you gave me an awful start," I continued. "I didn't recognize you, Ted, you're so squicy."

He caught my shoulders. This was the second time that night they had held firmly. Curtiss Wright had pressed his hands to them a few moments before, but this time the touch was different. Ted's grip was so intense.

"Ith awright, Thallie," he stammered, "all that innocent, baby-doll stuff ith over. I love you, you lil' devil!" he concluded, at the same time trying to force his kisses upon me. I had never seen Ted drunk before and he was revolting. A bit of Marjorie Chenoweth's philosophy came across to me at that very moment. "Laugh, Bambina," she had told me in one of her heart-to-heart confessions, "men can't stand to be made fun of in their love-making. They want to be serious and a sense of humour is sometimes more protection to a girl than a chaparrone, or even virtue!"

"Where'd you get that pre-Volstead jagg, old Scout?" I laughed up at Ted Billings. "Come off, Teddy, you aren't a sheik and this isn't the Garden of Allah. It's Atlantic Beach and much nicer."

"This is no joke, stop that informal kidding," he commanded, and his fingers sank deeper. "You've had a pretty good time playing with me, but that don't go to-night. D'ye hear, you lil' beauty?"

He crushed me to him and I felt a wave of repulsion that was overwhelming. Our shadows made weird distorted blotches, like giants on a string, in the moonlight.

"Don't be so squirmish," he admonished. "Wassa matter, Thallie, you never have minded a lil' loving. Don't be so stingy with your kisses. Ah! savin' 'em for your architect friend," he sneered. "The rest of the bunch aren't dumbbells. Thallie; we all knew you were pullin' a pettin' party."

I flinched, and the picture of Curtiss Wright paraded before me. I could not help comparing the two men. Curtiss Wright hadn't even permitted ME to kiss him when we were playing a silly game earlier in the evening, and while Ted's words wounded me deeply, I couldn't bear having Curtiss Wright accused of something he was above doing. I hated the injustice of his implications.

"Listen, Ted," I tried to summon a tone of raillery, "you're tight and you're not being a good sport, either. You can't find this in the book of etiquette. It isn't being done this season!" and I smiled faintly, until I noticed that he wasn't paying the slightest attention to what I was saying.

Then I struggled desperately, but he twisted my head up with his arm and forced more of his offensive kisses upon me.

"Ted, you dog!" I screamed at him. "Let me go or I'll holler!" There was no need now of pretense of humour. "Go ahead, and holler your head off," he suggested, grabbing me closer. "No one can hear the pretty lady." Ted panted. "I've got you! Wheel! What a lil' mermaid!"

"Tell you what let's do, Ted," making my voice as natural as possible. "Sit down, we'll have a good old 'fag' and talk it over."

"Talk, hell," he laughed harshly. "Come on, now, lil' Thallie—I'll never forget the disgusting way he said my name—"be the life of this party. Don't chew wanna love me?"

He didn't even look like the Ted Billings I had always known. Gone was the good-humoured boy with whom I had laughed and danced and frolicked since childhood. I looked across the lonesome sand dunes and realized the situation and for the first time in my life I was frantic.

"I'm not like that, I'm good, really I am, Ted; please, please let me go." I began to sob.

"Stuff don't go, Thallie, you're spooin'!" And with that he gave one tug at my shoulder strap and I could hear the taffeta splitting.

Let me go, you CAD!" I hissed at him. But he jeered at my efforts. (To Be Continued)

RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Roxboro who suffers headaches or distressing urinary ills, can afford to ignore this Roxboro man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Roxboro resident can doubt.

Charlie Morris, says: "I had severe pains in the small of my back and my kidneys acted irregularly. I had to get up often at night to pass the kidney secretions and I often had headaches and dizzy spells when black spots danced before my eyes. I was always tired and languid and when a friend told me about Doan's Pills I procured some and used them. The pains left my back and my kidneys were regulated. Doan's Pills gave me a cure." (Statement given July 3, 1918).

On December 13, 1920, Mr. Morris said: "Doan's cured me of an attack of kidney trouble and when I feel the least bit of trouble now a few Doan's always fix me up in A-1 shape."

"If Your Pain Is There, What You Need Is a Good Tonic For the Kidneys"

The kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating and the poisons from the blood. Their signals of distress are easily recognized and include such symptoms as lumbago, backache, depression, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic twinges, dropsy.

People are realizing more and more every day that the kidneys, just as do the bowels, need to be flushed occasionally. The kidneys are an eliminative organ and are constantly working, separating the poisons from the blood. Under this continual and perpetual action they are apt to congest, and then trouble starts. Uric acid backs up into the system, causing rheumatism, neuralgia, dropsy and many other serious disturbances. It means that you are a victim of uric acid poisoning. Then ask your druggist for Anuric (anti uric acid) and you will very soon become one of hundreds who have been helped by this powerful enemy to uric acid.

Dr. Pierce manufactures Anuric (kidney-backache) tablets and you can obtain a trial pkg. by enclosing 10c and addressing Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Practical Nurse Tells

Mrs. N. E. Snow, of Route 1, near Paris, Tenn., tells the story of her experience as follows:

"I am 62 years old and I have been a practical nurse for more than 20 years, taking mostly maternity cases. One of my daughters suffered from cramping at . . . She would just bend double and have to go to bed."

CARDUI

was recommended to her and she only had to take about two bottles, when she hardly knew that it was . . . she suffered so little pain.

"My youngest daughter was run-down, weak and nervous, and looked like she didn't have a bit of blood left—just a walking skeleton, no appetite and tired all the time. I gave her two bottles of Cardui. It built her up and she began eating and soon gained in weight and has been so well since."

Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, has helped suffering women for over forty years. Try it. At all druggists. E-100
