WILLIAM WALTON KITCHIN.

Many hearts were sad when the news reached here last Sunday that Mr. W. W. Kitchin was dead. While Mr. Kitchin was a State figure, known and loved by many throughout the entire borders, we all felt that he was peculiarly our own. Here it was he made his start in life, locating here when but a youth, made this his home for many years, and we do not think we exaggerate when we say he probably had more real, close friends than any man who ever lived in the county. He was a big man, broad in his views, loved his friends truly, treated his enemies with every consideration, and none could know him but to either love or respect him.

Broken in health just when the average man is at his best, he gave up work and retired to his old home at Scotland Neck, though we have often heard him say he would rather live in Roxboro than anywhere on earth. He moved to his old home because he owned valuable lands in that section and he said he thought it best to be near where he could give some attention to them.

To his wife, who was a native of this town, and to his children, who were born here, we extend our most sincere sympathy in their great loss.

MUST BE ENTIRELY FRANK.

In an interview given out by Mr. A. W. McLean, the newly elected Governor, he says that there will be no use in not being entirely frank with the people, and if there is a deficit it must be faced, but he assures us there will be no backward step.

In this interview he says: "There will be no use in not being entirely frank with the people," he says. "If we have a deficit, we have a deficit, and we will have to find the money to take care of it. If we have a deficit, we are not going to add to it. Somewhere, we are going to find the money to do the things the North Carolina expects us to do. It will not have less roads, it will not have less efficient health service; it will not have a less effective educational system; it will not give less care to its wards.

These things are going forward. Our educational system must be strengthened. The State must take a fuller interest in the public schools. To that end we must make our equalizing fund more effective, giving aid to those who need it most. The smaller and less prosperous counties must have schools that are the equal of those in the richest. It will require additional revenues and probably a reconstituting of the machinery for distribution.

"The State must live within its income. Economies must be effected wherever it is possible. None of the institutions of the State should be pinched in their facilities for performing their appointed service. You hear a lot about 'putting things on a business basis.' Too often it is an empty phrase. We ought to make it mean something in North Carolina. I am directing no criticism, I am sensible of the service that has been rendered by the Morrison administration and its predecessors."

The returns for the State have not come in yet, and we see it stated that we will not know just how part of the election went until the full returns are received and counted, which will be on Tuesday, November 25th. All of the Democratic candidates, including all of the congressional candidates, are elected, but as far as the amendments and the referendums are concerned, it will take the official count to tell about them. Port-Terminals is defeated by about fifty thousand; exemption taxation of homes is carried by good majority; world war veteran loan fund goes over with big majority; sinking fund amendment is adopted, but the increase pay of legislators is unknown, with the indication that the measure is defeated by about five thousand. And this is another reason why we should have the Australian ballot, so that it would not take three weeks to find out how the election went.

One of the things Mr. McLean promises the people is that he will immediately after taking charge of the affairs of the State find out if there is a deficit in the State treasury. We sincerely hope he will settle this matter definitely, but we hope it will not be necessary to employ an army of high salaried dopsters from Philadelphia to do it.

In another column we are publishing an article concerning the new election law, the Australian ballot, if we mistake not, which was practiced in Surry county for the first time this year. Mr. Porter Graves says it is all to the good, and we would like very much to see the State adopt it. Our election law is one of the things we are out of step with our party in this State on.

The Port Terminals were snowed under, as almost every one expected, but we are still of the opinion that this was the worst days work the voters of North Carolina have done in many years. But we do not despair, for with the showing made we are sure they will yet come into existence and North Carolina will throw of the shackles which we have been wearing for so long.
