

LIME LAND WELL FOR RED CLOVER

Raleigh, N. C., March 9.—To secure a good stand of red clover it must be sown on well drained land of good texture that has been properly limed. If the land is poor, manure it well in preparing the seed bed and plant only good seed.

There are suggestions for beginning a new field of red clover given by E. C. Blair, extension agronomist for the State College of Agriculture. Mr. Blair says, "Sow red clover on well drained land; use Alsike clover on wet land and Lespedeza on sandy land. Do not expect the red clover to grow without lime. Some soils contain this material but if a field has grown several crops of clover, the lime is likely to be exhausted. One may be sure of this if the clover has failed. Tans of seed have been wasted by sowing on land not properly limed.

"Sour soils should be limed at least six months to a year before sowing the red clover seed. Use from one to two tons of a good grade of limestone per acre."

Mr. Blair states that good clover seed are at least 98 per cent pure and germinate about 90 per cent. They are free from such weed seeds as plantain and dodder. They are usually higher in price than low grade seed but are cheaper in the end.

He recommends also that only American-grown seed be used. Foreign seed are not adapted to our climate. The seed are sown in early spring, he recommends that they be put in late enough to avoid the severe frozes and early enough to get the plants well started before hot, dry weather. The latter part of March is a good time to sow. In the fall, allow the plants a chance to grow some before freezing weather.

The seed are best sown by using a grain drill. It takes eight pounds per acre by this method. Mr. Blair states that one should drill in from 200 to 200 pounds of 15 per cent acid phosphate per acre along with the seed. If some forty or fifty pounds of muriate of potash are used with the phosphate, still better results are obtained.

Simple Way To End Night Coughing

No matter how long you have been troubled with excruciating coughing at night, robbing you of valuable sleep and thereby weakening your system and laying you open to dangerous infections, it can usually be stopped at once by a very simple treatment. Most people have found that they can sleep the whole night through undisturbed often the first time they try it.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The result is you usually sleep soundly the very first night, and the entire cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and almost every throat irritation. It contains no opiates or other harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. On sale at all good druggists. Ask for
