

Leigon Marches In Paris Parade Amidst Cheers

American Legion Convention Opens In Paris With Addresses Of Welcome By President Of French Republic; General Pershing And Others Speak; Then Came Colorful Parade With War Veterans From Every State In American Union In Line; Crack French Soldiers And Band Form Escort; Reviewed By Foch And Pershing.

Paris, Sept. 19.—The American Legion marched into the hearts of the French today. The men who fought for France "came back home," and hundreds of thousands of the French populace, their eyes dim as they thought of the war times, cheered the Americans as they marched along. Overcome with emotion, many women along the route of the parade wept.

Each of the fourteen thousand men of the Legion and several thousand of their mothers, sisters and wives passed under the Arc De Triomphe. In silent tribute to the French unknown soldier buried there, the Legionnaires passed with their hats off and their colors dipped in salute. As each passed he dropped some red, white and blue flowers around the grave. Soon the marchers had built around that tomb a wall of fragrant and tender tribute that hid from view the flame of memory that burns there.

No Disorder In Paris
Rain fell as the procession was being formed and came again as it started, but soon the weather brightened. There was a guard for each of the 14,000 Legionnaires in the line of march, but none was needed. The 14,000 soldiers and policeman were grouped along its route or waiting in reserve, but there was no disorder in Paris except the frenzy of cheer.

Many of the spectators wore mourning bands and many saw the parade with quickened hearts as they remembered again the days of the war and visualized these men in tin hats trudging along for the line of fire where their own kin fought and died.

Throughout the whole of France, and her colonies it was American Legion day. Every city was flag bedecked and often little ceremonies marked this the first official holiday ever declared by France in honor of her foreign friends.

Long Troubled by Constipation

"Black-Draught has been a family medicine with us for fifteen years," says Mr. F. M. Huntley, of Neosho, Mo. "I read about it first in the Ladies Birthday Almanac and what I read there sounded so convincing I made up my mind to try Black-Draught, as I had been troubled with constipation for a long time."

"I found Black-Draught to be the ideal medicine for this trouble. It gave me quick relief. Frequently I had had headaches and pains, due to toxic poison. By taking a course of Black-Draught I gave my system a thorough cleansing, and I have had little or no trouble since then."

"Now, if I am becoming constipated, I take several small doses of Black-Draught, and am very soon feeling fine."

Costs only 1 cent a dose. C-122
