

FRANCIS E. WARREN, OLDEST MEMBER OF U. S. SENATE, DIES

Venerable Wyoming Statesman Oldest Member Of Senate, Succumbs To Pneumonia

HIS LONG CAREER IS ENDED

Washington, Nov. 24.—Death today removed from the senate the man who had participated in more of the political struggles of that body than any other person in history—Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming.

The 85-year-old "dean" of the senate, who had served continuously since 1895 and for three years previously, succumbed at 10:05 o'clock this morning to an attack of pneumonia after three week's illness starting with bronchitis.

Oldest Senator

The veteran statesman was the oldest member of the senate both in years and length of service and was the only member who participated in the war between the states, serving in the union army along with Justice Holmes of the Supreme court, Representative Stedman, of North Carolina, is a veteran of the Confederate army.

His passing came as a shock to his senate colleagues and to his many Washington friends who had hoped his rugged constitution would bring him through to recovery.

A turn for the worse came last night and so weakened his resistance that he was unable to rally, despite every effort made by his physician, Dr. John Minor, who maintained an all-night vigil at the bedside.

General Pershing At Bedside

Present when he died were Mrs. Warren, his son, Fred Warren of Cheyenne, and his son-in-law, General John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditory force to France in the world war. General Pershing, upon his arrival from abroad Monday, visited his father-in-law and expressed confidence that he would recover.

Vetch Beats Clover As Cover Crop

As a winter growing, soil improving, cover crop, vetch was slightly superior to crimson clover in a demonstration conducted in eastern Carolina this season by W. F. Meadows of Trenton, Jones County.

The two crops were planted side by side last fall with part of the field left bare as a check plot. The rate of seeding was 25 pounds an acre for each crop and a good stand was secured in both cases.

Last May, when I examined the growth of the two crops, the vetch had spread over the land to an average length of two feet and the crimson clover was standing about 12 inches high," says E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College. "Both crops had the ground well covered in their respective areas, though the crimson clover made the best show. Mr. Meadows turned the crops under on May 6 and planted corn over the entire field a few days later. He fertilized his corn with 200 pounds of an 8-3-3 mixture and used no nitrogen side application."

Mr. Blair says that it was not long before the corn began to show the effects of the turned under legumes. Where the vetch and crimson clover had been plowed in, the corn was greener in color, the height of the stalks was greater, and, later, the crop was better eared.

The corn crop was harvested on October 30. That from each shock was shucked and weighed and gave the following results: Where no cover crop was plowed under only 17-1 bushels an acre was produced; where the crimson clover had been grown and turned under 35.5 bushels was produced, and where the vetch was turned under 38.9 bushels an acre was produced. The crimson clover increased the yield 100 per cent and the vetch did slightly better than that.

However, Mr. Blair points out that this slight difference might be due to the stand, by minor variations in the fertility of the soil or other slight differences. Both vetch and crimson clover are excellent soil improvers in eastern Carolina as this demonstration shows.

How Discontent Can Be Driven Out

The sum of the whole matter is this, that our civilization cannot survive materially unless it be saved by becoming permeated with the spirit of Christ and being made free and happy by the practice which springs out of that spirit. Only thus can discontent be driven out and all the shadows lifted from the road ahead.—Woodrow Wilson.

Eyes Scientifically Examined

D. N. ROSENSTEIN & SON

West Main Street

The Postman Brought This Baby

Three year old Alfred Foster Patterson was adopted by Mrs. Beulah Patterson, a widow of Taft, Cal., through channels following the "mail order" idea. Alfred's mother, injured in an auto accident, was unable to care for the boy. A friend of Mrs. Patterson sent her a picture of the boy. She wrote and asked for the boy, and he arrived shortly after.

Farm Work Animals Are Getting Old

Horses and mules used on the farms of North Carolina are getting old and few colts are being grown to replace them.

On January 1, 1925, there were 408,411 horses and mules on the farms of the State, and the figures for 1928 show that there has been little change in this number. The statistics further show that the State is importing about 5,000 work animals annually. Estimating that this imported stock costs $200 a head, farmers of the State are sending out one million dollars each year for replacements. This is a serious and constant drain upon local agriculture and could be largely avoided by raising a few colts on the farm.

The piedmont section is ideally suited for this purpose, say agricultural workers at State College. The animals consume chiefly those crops which are not readily sold for cash and with the abundance of forage crops and the good pastures of the piedmont region, colts could be grown here economically.

The farmer who raises his own colts, handles them properly and provides plenty of roughage on his own place will get his power very economically. About the only cash outlay in such a case is the money required for harness and shoeing. Harness may be obtained for $12 a pair and shoeing costs little. Those few who are now raising their own colts find that much of the forage and pasture consumed would otherwise be unused and say that few farms are so heavily stocked with dairy cattle, beef cattle or sheep that there is not grazing available for colts.

However, no one who is not provided with ample pasture should attempt to grow colts, say the livestock folks. This is essential in keeping the cost of producing work animals at a low figure, and also keep the young

State Councillor Issues Proclamation

Monroe, Nov. 25.—Members of the Junior Order throughout North Carolina are being urged to attend religious services Thanksgiving morning in a proclamation issued by Charles E. Hamilton, state councillor, of this city, issued to all of the councils in the state. "Our membership has shown commendable gains during the year," Councillor Hamilton declares, and in other ways the order has been blessed during the year.

Mr. Hamilton is the first head of the Junior Order in North Carolina, so far as can be ascertained, to issue a proclamation setting aside Thanksgiving as the day on which the membership is requested to attend divine worship to "render thanks and devotion to the Supreme Councillor of the Universe" and it is expected that many Juniors will make "thankful acknowledgement and appreciation to God" for His blessings during the year, by attending worship in their local churches.

When the Farmers Club of Craven County held its recent ladies night gathering at the Brinson Memorial School, 105 persons attended.

ECZEMA Take MILAM

In Use Over 60 Years

Purifies the Blood, Aids Digestion, Relieves Constipation

It cures 25 years with eczema. Took a few bottles of Milam and here he is free of eczema again.—Charles H. Williams

ON SALE BY ALL DEALERS

Insurance measured to your needs

A PERIODIC examination of your insurance requirements is essential to ascertain the safety of your property investment.

Your insurance should increase in proportion to the value of your property so that your interests may be adequately protected.

Our counsel may prove valuable to you. It is given without obligation.

Call,
Phone
or Write
—Today!

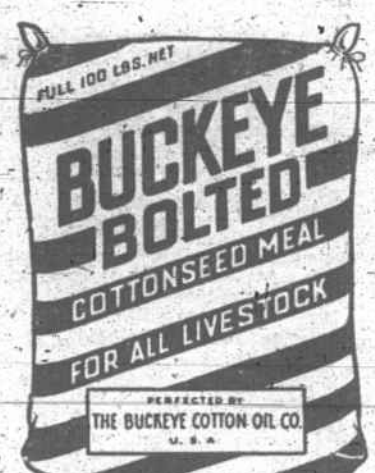

Satterfield Insurance Agency
"Old and Tried"
Roxboro, N. C. District Agents

BUCKEYE BOLTED COTTONSEED MEAL

For all Live Stock.
Uniform, full weight.
Sold on a guaranteed
analysis.

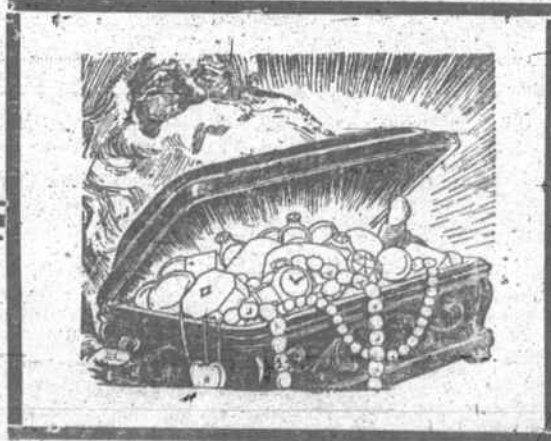

A product of
The Buckeye
Cotton Oil Co.
Mills in 13
Southern Cities

Complete information on the correct use of Buckeye Bolted Cottonseed Meal can be obtained from any of the dealers listed below.

Look for the bag with the red and blue stripes

- D. L. WHITFIELD
- R. H. GATES
- HUGH WOODS
- SERGEANT & CLAYTON
- MOORE BROTHERS
- L. L. LUNSFORD
- AUBREY LONG & CO.
- FOX & CO.
- S. P. GENTRY & CO.
- FRANK WHITFIELD

Pick Your Gifts From Our Treasure Box of High Quality Jewelry

For him as well as for her—we have the very finest jewelry that will delight the heart of the recipient on Christmas.

Ultra smart and ultra modern, our jewelry will strike a responsive chord in every person of taste.

Diamonds—necklaces—wrist watches—rings for men and women—bracelets—ear rings—pendants—lavallieres—brooches—a hundred other gift possibilities high in quality and running in a wide range of prices suiting every purse, large and small.

Many imported articles of jewelry that are fascinating in conception and execution at real values.

THE NEWELLS
"Jewels From The Newells"
Roxboro, N. C.