Morgan Is Supporting Roosevelt Government

Washington, Feb. 12.—Thomas W. Lamont, in a letter read to the senate today, said J. F. Morgan and company, of which he is a member, has "cordially supported" the Democratic administration. He lauded President Roosevelt's "withdrawing" from the gold standard.

FRANCE—has grafters

I find a certain patriotic satisfaction in the disclosures of official graft and corruption in France. It proves, what I have often said, that political crookedness is not solely an American trait. Some of my friends would have me believe that everything European is better than anything American. My observation is that human nature is the same all over the world, and that given the opportunity to get away with it, men who will use their political offices to feather their own nests at public expense can be found anywhere.

French politics has always been corrupt. This time it looks as if the gang which has been in power for years was through. Some of my Paris correspondents are greatly alarmed; they predict another revolution in France.

TUT—no curse

Superstitions are hard to kill. Humanity is credulous because most of us want to believe in something we can't explain. The story that has been going the rounds for several years about the curse laid by the Egyptian Pharaoh, Tut-Ankh-Amen, upon whomever might despoil his tomb, I have heard seriously discussed by otherwise intelligent people, who informed me gravely that every one or nearly every one, of the members of the expedition which found the treasures in that ancient tomb a few years ago had since died a mysterious death.

A check-up by Director Winlock of the Metropolitan Museum of Art proves that out of the forty persons present when King Tut's mummy was unwrapped, thirty-three are still alive and in good health, after ten years. The seven who died lived to an average of sixty.

That doesn't sound as if Tut's curse had been very effective, but I imagine foolish people will continue to repeat the original tale for generations. It is more interesting than the truth.

WHEELS—source of grief

I have a good idea of sympathy with the point of view of Tarchin Babee of Kallimpong. Tarchin is editor of the monthly newspaper, the only paper published in Tibet, the title of which, translated into English means: "The mirror of the New Vicissitudes of Every Corner of This Universe."

In his latest issue the editor, sitting on the roof of the world in the high Himalayas, looks around and discovers what is the matter with the rest of us. It is wheels. Abolish wheels and there would be jobs for everybody, he thinks. By the use of wheels, he points out, the uncivilized world outside of Tibet has made it possible for two men to do the work that takes a thousand in Tibet.

As I said, I have a good deal of sympathy for the idea that we have let machines do too much for us, and have got out of the habit of doing things for ourselves.

FIORIELLO—on his way

I want to give Mayor Fiorello La Guardia another pat on the back. He has taken hold of his big job as Mayor of New York City with such vigor and determination that it looks as if he might really succeed in cleaning up the frightful mess of corruption and crime which was fostered by his Tammany predecessors. And he has the people of New York behind him to a degree of unanimity which I have never seen in the New York political picture before.

Fiorello is a lone wolf in politics. Therein lies much of his strength. He owes nothing to any party. Nobody has any strings on him. Nominally a Republican, he was once elected to Congress as a Socialist when the Republicans refused him a renomination. He loves to stir up trouble among politicians. That is one reason why ordinary citizens like him.

Keep an eye on Mayor La Guardia. He will go far.

EDUCATION—and leaders

The young new President of Harvard, Dr. J. B. Conant, said the other day that the whole college system needs reorganization, both in the way of making it harder for those unfitted for higher education to get in and easier for youth of real talent to obtain the best education available.

We are going to look more and more to the universities for leadership. I imagine, especially if the "New Deal" proves a success. The program on which the effort is now being made to rehabilitate the nation is largely the product of university men of comparatively recent crops. I think the time is past when the principal qualification for public leadership will be a loud voice and a pair of ready fists.

I have no illusion, however, that the mass of the people will ever vote for a man merely because he is more intelligent than they are.

CORN AND COTTON CONTEST

Raleigh, Feb. 12.—A corn and cotton contest from an economical production standpoint to be engaged in by students of vocational agriculture will be sponsored by the Division of Vocational Education, State Department of Public Instruction, through the cooperation of the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau, announced Roy H. Thomas, State Supervisor of Agricultural Education.

The object of the contests is to stimulate interest among the boys and men on the farms in the importance of production cost in growing crops at a profit. In doing this the student will study the various elements of cost that enter into crop production, such as land and equipment investments, labor, seeds and fertilizers.

Any member of an all-day or evening class in vocational agriculture may enter the contest. To take part in the contest and compete for prizes the student must grow crops in accordance with the recommendations of the North Carolina Experiment Station. In determining the winners of the contest, each student's work will be judged on a basis of project work with records. Winners must furnish a photograph of themselves, of a growing crop, and a project story with complete records. Prizes of fertilizer will be awarded to winners. The contests are open to both white and Negro students in the State. In the 72 counties in which vocational agriculture is offered there are 208 teachers instructing 15,000 students.

HINTS for the HOME

To keep lettuce crisp and ready for serving for several days, wash thoroughly and place in a paper bag, with the top closed tightly. Keep on ice.

Angel food cake should not be cut but sawed with a piece of string.

For a rich brown crust on pie, mix an egg yolk with a teaspoon of cold water and brush the top before baking.

To fry cooked hominy to a golden brown, use just enough fat to prevent sticking. Bacon dripping is preferable to any other fat because of the flavor. Should be served as a substitute for potatoes.

In preparing fish for cooking, wet the hands before touching the fish and keep wet while handling. The odor will be imperceptible afterward.

In spite of the exotic green color imparted, soda should never be used in cooking vegetables, as it tends to destroy the vitamins.

To clarify meat dripping, put it into a bowl and pour on enough boiling water to cover. Stir well and let it cool. The dripping will form a solid cake on top, and after wiping dry is ready for use.

If fat is discolored or has a strong flavor, clarify it by adding a sliced raw potato to the fat and heating it slowly. When the potatoes are golden brown strain the fat and store it in a cool place. It will be entirely sweetened.

In potting flowers or preparing window boxes, scatter old nails in the bottom layer of soil. Fill with rich soil above and plant flowers as usual. The nails will rust through the wet soil and result in sturdy plants.

A few tablespoonsful of cold tea, or a tablespoonful of freshly-made coffee, may be turned over an apple pie in addition to the other spices, and produces an indistinguishable, pleasant flavor.

Sugar used for meringue, whether powdered or granulated, must always be sifted. If a large amount of meringue is needed, requiring more than three eggs, a little cream of tartar should be added to harden the albumen.

To keep rugs from slipping on a polished floor, sew a strip of oil-cloth under each end.

Never serve a creamed soup when one of the vegetables for the main course is creamed or "au gratin."

Adopt Dairy Program Mountain Farmers

Economical production is featuring the dairy forming program in the foothill and mountain counties this year, says F. R. Farnham, extension dairyman at N. C. State College.

Dairy and livestock producers particularly are seeking advice from their county agents for ways to lower their production expenses so as to meet the prevailing prices and still make a profit.

Specialists in the dairy field of office have worked out a four-point program which is being recommended through the county agents as follows:

Prepare a trench silo; grow a winter cereal hay crop; grow plenty of lespedeza, and provide lounging rooms for housing the cows during the winter months.

The trench silo has been proven a tremendous advantage, Farnham said, in providing silage for winter.

A good cereal hay crop can be planted with three bushels of vetch or Australian winter peas to the acre. Where an ample supply of silage is available, lespedeza may be plowed under and used chiefly for soil building.

Barns remodeled so as to eliminate many box stalls will provide excellent lounging room for the cattle, which should be rehoused before turned in together. Ample ventilation should be provided.

Farnham pointed out that manure from cattle kept in shelters is much better conserved than that from cattle allowed to roam over dried or dead pasture lands.

Parasites Affect Many Dairy Calves

The early spring months are the worst time of year for cattle lice, particularly on calves, according to R. H. Huffner, head of the State College animal husbandry department.

Cattle infested with lice cannot be thrifty, he said, and they frequently lick and rub their skin until the hair comes off in great patches around the neck, dewlap, back, and withers.

The best treatment consists of washing the animal with a solution of one ounce of sodium fluoride to one gallon of water, Huffner said. The liquid should be applied over the entire body and worked in well with a brush around the back and sides and with a rag under the belly and neck and between the legs.

A clear day is best for the treatment, so that the animals will dry off rapidly. After the liquid has been applied the animals should be rubbed until almost dry, then allowed to stand quietly.

All manure should be cleaned out of the barn and the walls and floor swept and disinfected thoroughly. In inspecting animals for lice, it is well to examine them closely around the neck, dewlap, back, and rump.
