

Looking Back Ten Years

The Following Items Were Taken At Random From The Courier Of Ten Years Ago This Issue

Attended the Hall-Carter Wedding: Mr. G. W. Pulliam, Mrs. M. U. Daniel, Mrs. G. Otis Hall and Miss Mary Willie Hall spent last Thursday evening in South Boston attending the wedding of Miss Ruby Hall and Mr. Irvin R. Carter.

Ground Hog Making Good: The ground hog has sure been on his job this week—everything covered with sleet. If your coal pile is running low you had better see Henry Gates for there is yet four more weeks of ground hog weather.

Around the World: "Around the world" is about the only way you can describe where Mr. Lawrence Woods has been during the past three years. He enlisted in the Marines and for three years has been on the go, but his enlistment having expired he returned home last Friday. His friends hope he will decide that Roxboro is the best place, and will enter business here.

Change in Business: Having sold an interest in my business to Mr. J. J. Woody the firm name in the future will be E. D. Cheek & Co.

Misses Louise Stalvey and Eva Harris of Raleigh, spent the weekend here.

Mr. Robert Featherston, who has been attending A. & E. College in Raleigh is at home this week.

Revs. J. A. Bean and R. E. White attended the funeral of Dr. Hobgood in Oxford Monday.

Dr. E. L. Marshal of Bedford, Va. spent last Friday here visiting his son-in-law, Mr. W. G. Miller. Dr. Marshal was on his way to Florida where he will spend several weeks.

We enjoyed a pleasant call from our friend, Miss Minnie Glenn last Thursday. Miss Minnie has been reading The Courier ever since it was established and was kind enough to say it was better today than ever before in its history. Such kind words are appreciated.

Several cars of beef cattle fed by C. A. Brown of Cleveland in Rowan County paid for their feed and have provided him with between 700 and 1000 tons of manure.

LOCAL H. S. GIRLS GIVEN CHANCE TO GET SCHOLARSHIP

University scholarships will be the goal of high school girls of this city who compete in a nation-wide essay contest just announced in detail to local teachers of home economics.

This educational project known as the national meat story contest, has been conducted annually since 1924 under the supervision of teachers in hundreds of high schools throughout the country, according to the National Live Stock and Meat Board, its sponsor.

National, sectional, and state winners are selected each year. Miss Gladys Best Tripp, an Ayden girl, was the state champion of North Carolina last year.

Contestants have until March 15 to get their essays in. These essays, judging from past years, will cover a wide range of subjects such as meat in the balanced diet, the preparation of meat, meat in the economy budget, the importance of the livestock and meat industry, etc.

Selection of the winning essays will be in the hands of a committee of eminent home economics authorities whose names will be made public at a little later date, according to the announcement. Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the federal bureau of home economics, headed this committee last year.

Teachers say they have found this type of competition of value not only for the scholarships it affords but also for the training it provides in the interest of better home-making in the future, according to the Board.

The organization sponsoring this annual contest represents the entire livestock and meat industry. It is interested in extensive research into the subject of meat, working closely with leading colleges and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The essay contest is conducted with the purpose of assisting in the study of meat in high school foods classes.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks and most grateful appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their many kind and helpful acts, their thoughtful consideration and expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Isiah Gentry, The Gentry Family.

GOD'S ACRE PLAN HELPING MANY CHURCHES

Country Churches of South Getting Out Of Red As Result Of Program

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 18.—The country church of the south is keeping step with improved economic conditions, and through a plan of its own making—the God's acre plan. Preachers are being paid, debts are being liquidated, and mortgages destroyed, thanks to the soil, and the determination of those who till it.

The plan is a simple one. The rural church member simply sets aside an acre of his land, or any amount he may desire, for the benefit of his church. Cotton, corn or grain is planted, and after the harvest, the money thus derived is poured into the church coffers.

Ministers throughout the south where the plan has been applied are enthusiastic over its success. Nothing has so helped the rural church to overcome the hard times of the past years, they say, and the movement is spreading. Georgia, North and South Carolina, Alabama, Texas, Virginia—practically all the southern states are falling in line. The plan is now new. Dr. Louie

D. Newton, Baptist minister here, says it has been in use in Georgia for two or three generations.

It gives everyone a chance to help, Dr. Newton says, the men, women and children, and gives them an opportunity to use the materials they have at hand.

The rules do not restrict the plan to use of the soil alone. Hogs, calves and chickens are raised for the church in many communities. W. O. Rosser of Pisgah Baptist church, in North Carolina, reports the sale of honey, canned goods, and soap among other things as a means of meeting salaries and church budgets.

The plan has been used successfully by Pisgah church for the past five years, Mr. Rosser says, with the result that the number of givers has increased from 60 percent to 95 percent of the total membership.

"Usually the gifts are collected near Thanksgiving," Mr. Rosser explained. "Our church calls it 'harvest day.' A few days before the day of sale the members of the committee make arrangements to deliver bulky articles, such as cotton to the church if the donor is unable to do so. A service of praise and thanksgiving is conducted in the church at 11 o'clock on harvest day, after which a bountiful dinner is served on the grounds in picnic style. After the dinner the gifts of various kinds are sold at auction.

The bidding is usually spirited." Last year the church through its sale made enough money to pay its bills for the next eight months, he said.

The Rev. Charles C. Gillespie, pastor of churches in the Flat River association, North Carolina, says the plan has resulted in increased giving for missions, salaries and church expenses. "Those who have tried the plan this year want to continue it," he said.

Many ministers prefer to develop the movement on an individual rather than a group basis, however. "Let each man, woman and child have his own God's acre," they say, "and more good will be derived."

ceefully defied the burning fiery furnace of Nebuchadnezzar. So the disciples, though very few in number, boldly and triumphantly challenged the pagan world of their day.

Of course the field of their operation was limited, for Jesus bade them go only "to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Their ministry was wisely centered by the Master on the local neighborhood and its immediate need. The time was not ripe for a foreign missionary tour. But it was not long before their message had been carried to the ends of the earth.

were held to discuss current farm problems. Most of the meetings dealt with reorganizing the farm business and problems in growing a better quality of tobacco.

Dr. Middleton, seed specialist for the N. C. Crop Improvement Association, and J. K. Coggin, Vocational Agricultural Supervisor were visitors on Monday night, Feb. 13. Dr. Middleton made a very interesting talk on the value of good seed in growing quality crops.

The members of the local farmers club have been busy the past week cutting and hauling logs for the new club house which is to be constructed by the CWA soon.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held Friday night March 9, at 7 o'clock.

Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. Charles E. Dunn

THE TWELVE SENT FORTH

Lesson for Feb. 25th. Matt 10 Golden Text: Matt. 9:37, 38

As we think of the twelve disciples we are reminded of that impressive word of the apostle Paul, "Not many wise men, not many leading men, not many of good birth, have been called!" Not one of these twelve was a college graduate. Not one belonged to the professional or upper classes. They were humble, obscure souls, common folk of Galilee assembled from the rank and file. At least four of them were fishermen. One was a despised tax collector, one was a militant, zealous antagonist of the Roman Empire, and one was a traitor.

Yet these apostles of lowly origin heralded the gospel with such signal success that the Christian movement, although it lost its footing in Jerusalem, spread rapidly as a conquering force through the Gentile world. To quote again from the noble-hearted Paul, "God has chosen what is weak in the world to shame what is strong."

Here we have an illustration of one of the striking lessons of the Bible. The Good Book is eager to point out the power of a resolute minority. "The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong," Abraham was told that Sodom would be spared if ten righteous men could be found therein. Jeremiah sought for one conscientious man in Jerusalem, confident that his presence would save the city. And Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego suc-

Nagging Pains are Warning Signals

TEMPORARY pain relief remedies may save you much suffering at the moment, but putting a mask over a warning-signal does not clear up the condition it was telling you to avoid. When periodic pains, due to a weak, run-down condition, distress you, treatment for the cause of the trouble should be started without delay. Take Cardui to build up against the nagging symptoms of ordinary womanly ailments. So many women praise CARDUI it must be good to have the widespread use that it has today. Sold at drug stores.
