

Local Officials Get Non-Partisan Views on Constitution

Both Sides Are Presented In Current Issue Of "Popular Government" Presents Principal Issues Involved

All of the issues involved in the proposed Constitution for North Carolina are presented from a non-partisan point of view and are subjected to a searching analysis in the current issue of "Popular Government," the official organ of the Institute of Government, which has just been received by local county and city officials and many members of the bar.

The study was made by Dillard S. Gardner and Henry Brandis, associate directors of the Institute. The comprehensive and fair treatment given the proposed basic law has evoked much favorable comment from those who have seen advance copies of the publication.

It required 150 pages for this issue of the booklet to tell the full story about the Constitution. It begins with an historical outline of the Constitutions of North Carolina—past, present, and proposed. It compares the provisions of the present and proposed constitutions, the principal issues involved and the main considerations urged for and against it by its advocates and opponents.

The booklet is divided into eleven articles under the following general headings: "The Bill of Rights," "The Legislative Department," "The Executive Department," "The Judicial Department," "Revenue, Taxation, and Public Debt," "Suffrage and Eligibility to Office," "Education," "Homesteads and Exemptions," "Public Welfare, Institutions and Punishments," "Agriculture, Industry and Miscellaneous," "Amendments, Existing Laws and Offices."

In the effort to make this analysis fair and impartial Mr. Gardner and Mr. Brandis have (1) discussed it with its leading advocates and opponents, (2) studied their public utterances, (3) submitted the results to them in manuscript form for further suggestions and criticisms, (4) quoted from their own arguments in their own words, and (5) sent advance copies to representatives of groups of officers and citizens throughout the state in order to incorporate all points of view into the final printing.

Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. Charles E. Dunn

MICAHIAH SPEAKS THE TRUTH
Lesson for July 29th. I Kings 22
Golden Text: I Kings 22-14

This is a day of international conferences. It is the custom, in some quarters, to disparage such gatherings because they seem to accomplish so little. It must be remembered, however, that the very fact that nations assemble for purposes of consultation is, in itself, a great gain. And the more they get together the more the technic of their negotiations is improved.

Now the lesson admits us into the presence of two ancient monarchs engaged in consultation. Here we have an early example of international cooperation. It is all the more illuminating because the two men were opposites in character. One of them, Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, was a good ruler who carried out the religious reforms of his high-minded father Asa. The other was Ahab, one of the worst of the kings of Israel despite his energy and courage.

Was this alliance an evil? The apostles of isolation would answer "Yes! Samaria, with its corrupt court, was no place for a statesman with the decent impulses of Jehoshaphat." And they would continue, in the same strain, to argue against the entrance of the United States into the World Court or the League of Nations.

It seems clear, however, that the agreement between the two kingdoms was fundamentally a good. It certainly ended the long hostility between them. To be sure, the joint military adventure against Syria came to a sad ending at the battle of Ramoth-gilead. The candid Micahiah spoke the blunt truth in foretelling this disaster to the allied armies. In contrast to Ahab's lying prophets Micahiah is refreshing in his honest proclamation of doom. But the loss of a battle does not invalidate the principle of united effort. Uncle Sam rightfully placed his tremendous resources at the disposal of the Allies in 1917 even though he thereby contracted the worst head-ache he has ever had. We must learn to be internationally-minded despite every risk.

QUINTUPLETS SET LONGEVITY MARK

Dionne Children Still Getting Along Nicely; All Not Out Of Danger Yet

Callander, Ont., July 18.—All records for longevity of quintuplets were broken today by the Dionne sisters—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie.

Only 33 sets of quintuplets have been born since 1694.

By living beyond July 17 the Canadian babies, born May 28, broke a record established in 1866 in Lisbon, Portugal, by a girl who died on the fiftieth day of her life. Medical history records the life of no other quintuplets beyond two weeks. The previous record for group survival was a mere four days. This was held by the Lyon boys of Kentucky, born in 1896. Their parents had seven children, all born singly, before the quintuplets arrived, all born within 12 minutes. The first child died after four days and in two weeks all were dead.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the country doctor who assisted the Dionne quintuplets into the world, said today he is "well pleased" with their progress.

"I would make it plain, however, that they are not yet free from danger, especially the two younger ones, Emilie and Marie," he said. "Yvonne, the oldest and biggest, is doing very well and I think she and Annette, the second oldest, will be equal to normal babies in two weeks. Cecile, the third baby, is coming along, but she is not the equal of her older sisters."

It will be necessary to measure 16,000 tobacco fields in Surry County to survey the acreage affected by the adjustment contracts signed by growers.

Al Smith Again With Tammany

Makes His Peace With Wigwam And Appeals To Give Advice To New Leader

New York, July 19.—Al Smith, the "Happy Warrior" of other days, made his peace today at the Tammany wigwam.

The former governor, estranged from Tammany Hall in the turbulent reign of John F. Curry, returned to give his advice and counsel to the new leader, youthful but cautious James J. Dooling.

This action presaged speedy accomplishment of a new charter for New York City, consolidating the out-moded, over-lapping municipal and county governments.

"I had a talk with the new leader," Smith said at his office in the Empire State Building. "We discussed the constitutional amendments for a new form of city government I found his views were very sound. He expressed the desire to be helpful and I think he'll come along in fine shape. He's coming to see me next week for a longer discussion."

Asked if his visit foretold a return to influence once more in Tammany, the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate asked:

"What do you mean by that?"

"Well, everyone knows your advice has not been sought and has not been given in Tammany's recent years. Does your visit with Dooling mean you'll once more be active and give your counsel in shaping its policies?"

"Yes," he replied. "I suppose that's right."

"I am anxious to help the young man all I can. I like him and I think he's going to do a fine job."

Textile Market Feeling Demand

In Past Ten Days Many Buyers Have Been Noted In New York's Textile Markets

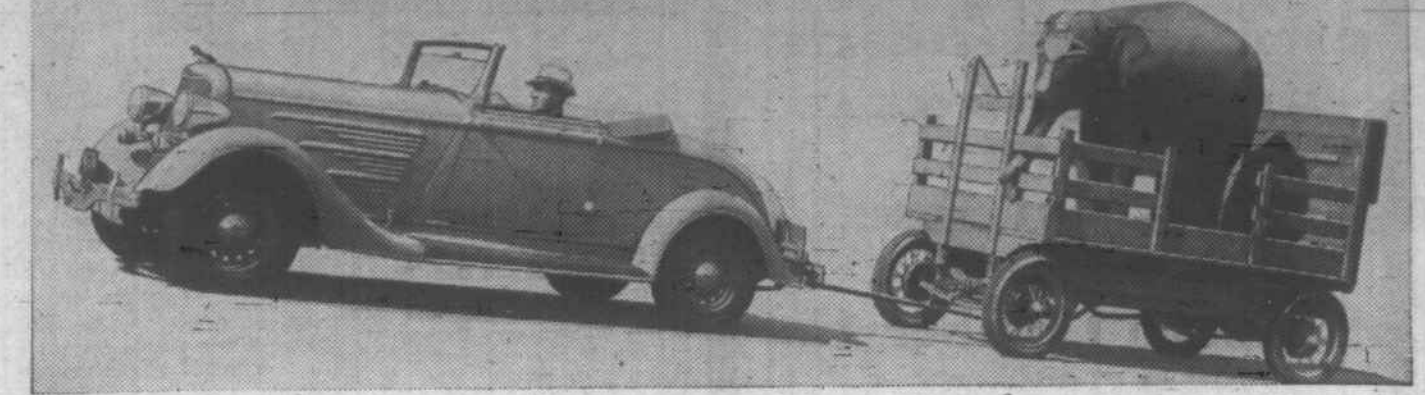

Charlotte, July 19.—A feeling closely approaching enthusiasm over the progress of the cotton textile markets is developing among Carolina manufacturers, according to reports obtained from various well-informed sources here today, states an article in The Charlotte News.

One of the most significant reports was that obtained from D. H. Hill, Jr., associate editor of "The Textile Bulletin," who was informed that in the past ten days more buyers have visited the textile markets in New York than in any similar period in many years.

Reports coming into Charlotte over brokers' wires and to manufacturers from their selling agents said that the demand for print cloths is particularly brisk and the demand for almost all other lines of textiles is broadening steadily, with buyers showing a willingness to pay somewhat advanced prices.

The industry as a whole is not disturbed at present, it was learned by the strike in Alabama and other scattered localities. In this connection it was pointed out that, though mills where strikes are in progress must suffer losses, the industry as a whole will have its statistical position strengthened somewhat, in addition to the improvement that is being brought about
