East Roxboro School Boundaries

According to a ruling passed by the Board of Trustees of the Roxboro Schools, children living east of the Norfolk and Western railway and in the area bounded on the north by a line extended east from the Harvey Redrying plant and on the south by a line extending east from the railroad crossing near Jesse B. Davis's home, said area extending to the top of the ridge east of the school building will be required to attend the East Roxboro school through the first four grades. This action is necessary because of the overcrowded condition in the Central School building.

Respectfully,

KIWANIAN'S MEET WITH THE H. MILLS P. T. A.

John R. Smith, Prominent Martinsville Attorney, Was Principal Speaker

Meeting on Monday night in the auditorium of the Hurdle Mills High School the Roxboro Kiwanian Club was royally entertained by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Hurdle Mills school. The club was present almost one hundred per cent, there being only three members absent. At the conclusion of the most bountiful supper served by the ladies of the community and the members of the faculty, President Mangum turned the program over to Robert Burns and Gip Prillaman, leaders for the evening. Mr. Burns introduced Mr. John R. Smith, a prominent lawyer and charter member of the Martinsville, Va., Kiwanian Club. Mr. Smith spoke inspiringly and in an interesting manner to those present. He chose for his subject "The Responsibility of the Individual," pointing out that individual effort led to cooperation among a group of individuals. When he had concluded, Dr. E. J. Tucker addressed the chair and moved that the club give Mr. Smith a rising vote of thanks for that splendid speech, and the club responded in an enthusiastic manner. Mr. Smith's talk was one of the most enjoyable that it has ever been the privilege of the Roxboro Kiwanians to listen to. The program was concluded with the closing song

Aren't You Tired Of That Make-Shift Proposition

It looks a bit more promising for the fall; why not make up your mind to step into better clothes and better shoes and then learn the real economy and satisfaction of Good Clothes and Good Shoes.

New things coming in daily. The ladies are quite elaborate in their praise of the shipment of dresses received the past week.

And young men: We carry one of the South's best tailoring lines. They make them as we measure them and we know how. Ask those who have tried.

Gorman Withdraws His Peace Offer; Prepares For Prolonged Battle

American Federation of Labor, announced that other unions had pledged both organizers and funds in sufficient number and amount to meet the present needs of textile strikers. A meeting of representatives of 108 national and international unions was postponed until next month, and its scene shifted from here to San Francisco. "This struggle is of such immense importance," he said, "that all organized labor must do everything possible to assist in now eliminating the abuses in the nation's textile mills out of which this tremendous protest grew."

Basic Struggle. "I know what our trade union movement will do. Already it has done enough to make that clear. The United Textile Workers of America will not lack support from every part of our great movement. The struggle, basically, is one for human freedom and it must be won."

Six o'clock tonight saw the expiration of an offer by the national strike committee to submit the dispute to arbitration by the Winant board. It had been stipulated, however, that both sides would have to agree in advance to abide by the board's decision and all mills would have to be closed during the negotiations.

Promptly at six, Frances J. Gorman, national strike chairman, issued a statement saying: "The proposal is withdrawn. The battle goes on." The offer, he said, had demonstrated the faith of the labor leadership in the "fairness and high-mindedness" of the Presidential board. He pointed out that the dead-line had been postponed for 24 hours while the board met with the manufacturers.

WILEY POST MAKES FIRST TEST FLIGHT

Chicago.—Wiley Post, the picturesque air adventurer, drove his "Winnie Mae" more than 40,000 feet up into a sullen sky today as a prelude to his attempt to establish a new altitude record for heavier than air craft.

The globe-girdling aviator spent two hours and two minutes in the heavens, testing man and machine for a journey he hopes will carry him 50,000 feet into the stratosphere.

Weather permitting, he may go up tomorrow.

Post expressed himself as well satisfied with his test flight. "My pneumatic rubber suit worked well," he said. "I turned on the air pressure at 25,000 feet. I found the skies overcast at 30,000 feet." He did not estimate the exact altitude to which he had ascended an dhad no barograph aboard. He flew as far as South Bend, Ind., and then circled back to land again at Curtiss Field in suburban Glenview. Descent from the zenith of his flight required only 15 minutes he said.

Some minor adjustments would be made, he said. Extension of the guide stick, made necessary by the restrictions the robotlike suit placed on his movements, interfered with the oxygen conduits leading from tanks to his uniform. These will be re-arranged.
