

ROXBORO P. T. A. IN SESSION LAST TUESDAY P. M.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Roxboro schools held its first regular session last Tuesday afternoon in the Central School. It was the largest and most enthusiastic group of teachers and parents that has ever assembled. The good spirit of the occasion was furthered by group singing led by Miss Maude Montague.

Mrs. J. H. Hughes, the new president, presided and conducted the regular business session. Several items were voted on by the members. Possibly the most important was the objective for the year.

Miss Hattie Burch-in a very impressive manner gave the devotional. Her thought was that from the master teacher's formal training, from the master teacher's definite and implied instruction of others, from the master teacher's own divine personality; from our own experience and observation, we learn that being far surpasses any method of leading ever devised, and yields the biggest dividends of any investment in child and student welfare.

Mrs. W. F. West made a very effective talk on "Why We Should Have a Parent-Teacher Association." She emphasized the importance of parents and teachers making a cooperative study of child welfare. Greater education in child psychology is needed. Mrs. West showed by timely illustrations how misunderstandings between parents and teachers can be eliminated. She insisted that cooperation be the keynote and fittingly closed her talk with Kipling's words:

"It ain't the individual Or the army as a whole, But the everlastin' teamwork Of every bloomin' soul."

ALLENSVILLE P. T. A. HAS A GOOD MEETING

An assembly of a hundred and fifty teachers and parents enjoyed a most delightful evening at the first meeting of their P. T. A. on September 20 in the auditorium of the school.

There was a varied program planned by the faculty. The first number on the program was a chorus, "Come Where the Lillie Bloom," by the school glee club, directed by Mr. Jess W. Slaughter. Next, the audience was pleasantly entertained by a humorous reading, "The Honorable Miss Betty," given by Miss Lillian Brandon. The last number presented was a trio, "The Stars and Stripes," played by Miss Odell Slaughter, Miss Cornelia Thompson and Mr. Jess W. Slaughter.

The first speaker of the evening,

Mr. Joe B. Currin, fully explained the purpose of a Parent-Teacher organization. Mrs. B. G. Clayton of the Roxboro school then told of the benefits the Roxboro school had derived from their P. T. A. Immediately following her talk Mr. S. B. Satterwhite, principal of the school, took charge of the meeting and a Parent-Teacher Association was organized. The following officers were elected: Mrs. W. H. Gentry, president; Mrs. S. T. Slaughter, vice-president; Miss Cornelia Thompson, secretary; and Mr. M. H. Hicks, treasurer. The president then appointed a program committee composed of Miss Mary Larkin Gentry, Mrs. T. B. Davis and Mr. Jess W. Slaughter.

When all business had been disposed of, the refreshment committee served fancy cakes and punch to the group.

At adjournment the date Oct. 4 was set for the next meeting.

BETHEL HILL BEGINS FOOT-BALL PRACTICE

For the past two weeks twenty-two hopeful youngsters have been working out daily on the J. H. Merritt Football Field under the guidance of Coach Cannon. With only three lettermen from last year's squad Coach Cannon is having to build a comparatively new team. Although the team will be the lightest which Bethel Hill has ever had it is expected to be the scrappiest eleven to ever wear the gold and black.

Coach Cannon is expecting good work from P. Brandon, who is shifty and fast. He is counting on W. Shotwell and Tingen to cover a good bit of ground in line plunges. H. S. Barnette and Tingen are proving to be good punters and blockers.

A look at the ends show Woody Rogers and Pentecost taking the honors; they are both hard hitting and fast. Day and Walker are doing the best on tackle and should prove to be stone wall on defense. G. Jones and Walter Rogers are both new but are developing fast. Coach Cannon is fortunate in having a cool, steady center in Captain D. Jones.

Some of the reserves who should run some of the varsity players out of their positions before the season is over are: P. Dixon, G. Harris, Woody, Robt. Montague, Parham, Hayes, R. Montague, Long, Perkins, Wilkinson, White, and Manager "Cotton" Powell.

In a practice game last Thursday, Bethel Hill chalked up three touchdowns against a much heavier team composed of former Bethel Hill players. Barnette and Brandon counted for two touchdowns by going through the line, while the other was made by a pass from Barnette to Pentecost.

On October 5 Coach Cannon will take his Hilltoppers to Henderson for a game with the strong Henderson High eleven.

In Memory Of Bro. Henry W. Martin

On May 30, Henry W. Martin passed this life. He was just a young man who had just started out in life. He was a man of Christian ability and tried to walk in the footsteps of his Savior and was ready at all times to lend a helping hand. Why God took you from us we do not understand. God took you back to heaven to complete His holy band. Dear brother, we loved you but God loved you best that's why He took you back to heaven, that you may be at rest.

Dear brother, how we miss you and think of you more and more. We hope some day to meet you on that happy golden shore. We often think of your silence. We often call your name. There is nothing left to answer but your picture in the frame. Though it grieved us to part with you, as the patient Job said, blessed is the name who giveth and taketh away. We can never forget the smile you left us when you closed your eyelids in death, as if to say, While I draw this fleeting breath and my eyes are closed in death and I rise to worlds unknown and behold me on the throne, be of sin doubly cured, saved from sin, and make me pure. Let us not grieve as those that have no hope in Christ. May God's richest blessing dwell upon his heartbroken family. His memory still lingers forever.

His loving brother, Canada Martin.

Agriculture Building Under Construction At Bethel Hill

A new agricultural building with large class room, work shop and Y. T. H. F. chapter room is being constructed by the FERA at Bethel Hill high school.

This new up-to-date building was made possible through the cooperation of the FERA and the Bethel Hill community. Farmers in the community gave 1300 feet of timber, all the rock used and sand for concrete work while the FERA furnished the labor, top, cement, windows and doors, and other finishing material.

"When completed, Bethel Hill will have as well equipped department of vocational agriculture as there is in the state," says A. G. Bullard, local agriculture teacher. A well rounded course, including farm shop work can be offered the farm boys in this community.

Bethel Hill Farmers Club Names Leaders

The Bethel Hill Young Tar HET Farmers held their first meeting of the school year last Friday in the agricultural class room at Bethel Hill high school.

Bill Jones, a senior in vocational agriculture and an outstanding agriculture student, was elected president of the local club. Woody Rogers, also a senior in vocational agriculture, was elected vice-president. The following were elected: S. P. Gentry, secretary; Bryan Montague, treasurer and Reginald Dunn, reporter.

A large Y. T. H. F. chapter room is being constructed in the new agriculture building and with such good leadership this year should be one of the best in the history of the club.

Farm Improvement Clubs Organized In Holloway Township

Three Farm Improvement Clubs have recently been organized at Dixon's Store, High Plain School, and Bethel Hill Colored School by A. G. Bullard, local agriculture teacher.

These clubs meet once each week and discuss such topics as fall gardens, improved practices in growing wheat, terracing to control soil erosion and selecting seed corn. Demonstrations and socials are also planned at these meetings.

This work is being done through the cooperation of the local relief administration and the State Department of Vocational Agriculture. The following meeting places and dates are announced:

Dixon Store, every Monday night.
High Plain School, every Wednesday night.
Bethel Hill Colored School, every Friday night.

All farmers in the above communities are invited to these meetings.

Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. Charles E. Dunn
GOD IN HEBREW HISTORY
Lesson for Sept. 30, Heb. 11:32-40
Golden Text: Psalm 145:13

This is a review lesson when we rehearse the warnings and ideals taught by the kings and prophets with whom we have companioned this third quarter. The lesson text is taken from that magnificent chapter in the letter to the Hebrews upon the heroes of the faith. Now we have come very close these three months to certain figures of high stature in the company of God's chosen. Amongst the kings we have met Asa and Hezekiah. And of the school of the prophets Elijah, Elisha, Amos, Hosea, and Isaiah have shared their courage and high insight with us. As we think of these noble figures shining so brightly in the pages of the Good Book we are at once reminded that they were selected and trained by God Himself to accomplish their significant work. The God of the Bible does not preside over a society on a dead level of equality, but He chooses certain of His children to occupy a high place of influence above their fellows.

The technical name for this doctrine is predestination, a word very dear to the heart of John Calvin, "the guide of republics," as Bancroft, the historian, called him. It has wonderfully advanced the cause of civil liberty, because it has produced a succession of leaders who have felt responsible to God alone, and so have not hesitated to defy men in high position. The prophets we have just studied were certainly men of this stalwart type. And down through the ages God has given to mankind worthy successors. Take so stout a champion of freedom as John Knox of whom Queen Elizabeth's ambassador said: "The voice of this single man can put more heart in us than five hundred trumpets."

But we must not forget that God has chosen you and me. We are of the elect. We are privileged folk ordained for the great task of completing what Amos and the other Bible prophets began long ago. As the close of our lesson text says, God "would not have them perfected apart from us."

According to an English scientist, every man is worth $8,000 to his country at the time of his birth.

A DRIVE ON ILLITERACY

Plans of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration to aid unemployed teachers and at the same time reduce illiteracy, seems to be a more desirable spending of government money than many that have been undertaken. The Census Bureau found 4,238,000 illiterates in the United States in 1930. If these were scattered through the general population rather evenly. But the illiteracy belts are relatively giving them elementary schooling would be difficult and very costly. But the illiteracy belts are relatively well defined, the bulk of the illiteracy being in the southern mountain regions, and, this makes a teaching program more practicable than it would otherwise be. It plans to employ, it is indicated, 40,000 teachers in the work. This will be good news for that many unemployed teachers, and the service they can render should be valuable—Los Angeles Times.

Hoke was the first county in North Carolina to get its tax exemption certificates for ginning cotton this fall. Over 1,000 growers have already received their certificates.

Celebrated Stars Explain HOLLYWOOD'S 2 TO 1 PREFERENCE FOR THE FORD V-8

JOAN BLONDELL "You simply must drive a Ford V-8 if you want to be smart in Hollywood today."

ANN SOTHERN Columbia Star says: "I've owned many expensive cars but never one that handles more smoothly than my Ford V-8."

HOLLYWOOD has gone "V-8." In America's colorful moving picture capital the Ford V-8 is easily the most popular car.

Here is one more indication of Ford leadership in style as well as performance. For it takes both to "get by" in Hollywood these days! Look over a new Ford V-8. Examine its fittings—they're rustless metal. Notice the rich upholstery. See the many extra conveniences—from a special compartment for your purse to sun-visor to protect your eyes.

Then drive this car yourself. Once you experience "V-8 performance!"

combined with Ford ease of handling, you'll realize why every woman loves to go places in the Ford V-8.

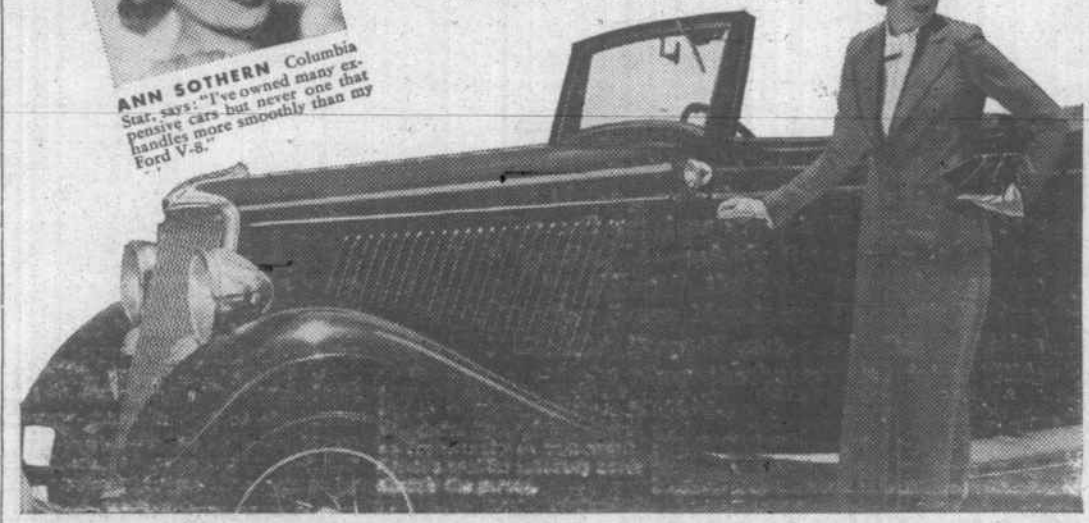

Remember, too—you save on the low Ford V-8 price. Ford parts cost little. And the new Ford V-8 is more economical to operate than any Ford car ever built.
